NO LAYE SOBS-IN-LAW.

A dispatch from St. Louis, dated 20th inst., says: The little town of Bolar, in Maroon county, Missouri, turns out the following tragic story: "Henry Thomas, and his farmer, has four grown daughters, named Estie, Margaret, Nancy and Jane, aged 18, 15, 22 and 25 years respectively. Late Wednesday afternoon, Saturday and Charles Harlow, brothers, procured a ladder and helped Margaret and Jane out of a second-story window of their father's house, and as they were about to elope with the girls the old man appeared on the scene, but too late to prevent their escape. He at once proceeded the best horse he had and a shotgun and started in hot pursuit. When about 12 miles from home he overtook the girls and they immediately opened fire on them, killing both the boys and seriously wounding Margaret. After getting nearly home with the girls he was told that the other two, Estie and Nancy, had also eloped with Ned Gleason and Thomas Allison, and at once left the girls he had with him in charge of some neighbors and started after the others. After securing the other two girls in a similar manner, he started back, but when about two miles from home a mob took possession of him and strung him up to a tree. The old man was terribly stricken with the girls. He would hardly let them out of his sight, hence the alarm given. He has bragged that he would not be bothered with lay sons-in-law. Public feeling is strongly in favor of the lynching. Margaret died last night."
