THE PRESIDENTIAL VOTE.

The vote for President and Vice President of the United States was duly counted on Wednesday 13th. For the purpose the Senators proceeded to the House of Representatives where Senator Ingalls as President pro. tempore of the Senate presided, Speaker Carlisle upon his left. The certificates of the several States were then opened and counted. As a It is a sad sign of the times for so inoffensive matter of record we print the annexed tables, a being as the oyster has always heretofore giving the States carried by Cleveland and been, to excite so much alarm, and be at the Harrison as well as the popular vote of the But the fact cannot be denied that the oyster States, which shows that Cleveland's plurality | question is every day growing in importance;

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATIONS.

On the 11th inst. President Cleveland sent to the Senate the name of Norman J. Colman, of Missouri, present Commissioner of Agriculture, to be Secretary of Agriculture, a member of the Cabinet, in accordance with the new Department just established by Congress. The nomination was-confirmed on the 13th.

The President also sent in the name of Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, First Assistant Postmaster General, to be Justice of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia vice Judge Wm. M. Merrick, deceased. This nomination has received a vigorous protest from the bar of the oyster. District of Columbia, alleging that Mr. Stevenson is not sufficiently acquainted with the laws of the District to administer them rapidly .-From the excitement caused it is not believed the Senate will confirm Mr. Stevenson. The Republican Senators are not going to allow a Democrat to get into a life place if they can prevent it.

FINE WORKS OF ART.

The Journal acknowledges the receipt from Messrs. George Stinson & Co., the celebrated art publishers, Portland, Maine, four large engravings, entitled "Playing Foxes," "The Holiday," "The Mother's Joy," and "Consolation," all of them exquisite works of art .-They are 30 by 40 inches in size and when framed are well worthy to grace the walls of any residence. These engravings are proof copies of steel plates by Herr Schouster, a celebrated German artist, and as works of art are not excelled in this country. They may be procured upon addressing the Messrs. Stinson, at Portland, Maine. Accompanying these works were fifteen art gems, without rival, upon various subjects. The Messrs. Stinson are doing a world of good with their celebrated works of art. THE CHARITY BALL.

The Fifth Annual Charity Ball, under the patronage of well known society ladies of Baltimore, will be held at the 5th Regiment Armory, in Baltimore, on Wednesday evening next, 20th inst. The proceeds will be divided between the Confederate Soldiers' Home at Pikesville and the Home for Incurables. The ball promises to be one of the most fashionable affairs of the season. A large number of tickets have been sold and the lady managers intend to make the ball a most complete and enjoyable affair. The two charities appeal strongly to public sympathy, and there has been a hearty response. Tickets can be had by applying to Col. D. G. McIntosh, Towson, or to any of the lady patronesses. The JOURNAL is indebted to the Hon. Frank T. Shaw, the able and attentive Representative of the 2d District of this State for copies of the statutes of the United States from 1879 to 1888. These statutes embrace every law, public and private, and resolutions passed by Congress. A company has been formed for the pubfication of the Ellicott City Times. Dr. John G. Rogers is President and Edwin Warfield Treasurer. J. E. Hill is retained as editor.

Gerrespondence of the MARYLAND JOURNAL. OUR BALTIMORE LETTER. The Placid Oyster—His Appearance as

Disturbing Element-A. New Phase of the Question-Case Put by an Attierney-Some Objectors Therete-Peints to be Considered -- Activity in Politics -- Baltimere Being Beemed--Some of Our Advantages-A Treat in Store. BALTIMORE, February 15th, 1889.

For a creature of so placid a temperament as that of the orthodox oyster, that delicate morsel of creation has recently been produc-ing a most remarkable commotion. It has not only stirred up the briny waters of its native deep, but like Pharaoh's frogs, it has come up on the land to perform its pestiferous pranks; it has invaded our public halls and offices; has mixed itself up with lawvers' railroad business; has worked up the minds of the catchers, canners, and consumers, and everybody else connected with the oyster industry; until at the present moment this enterprising animal appears reared upon his hind feet, endeavoring to climb up into politics, and take up his permanent quarters in the chambers of our capitalistic kings.

bottom of so very wide-spread a disturbance. and it certainly looks as though somebody means business in regard to it, when a celebrated attorney is induced to accept this denizen of the mire as his client, and spread the case out in in a "long, labored, statistical, economic, and political article," through the columns of our newspaper press. It bodes some deeply laid plan or scheme, of course and some high-handed, far-reaching endeavors in prospect, for such a proceeding to be in progress; and it is not at all strange that great interest and anxiety should be felt in consequence.

We have been having a literal oyster war down the Bay, this winter, as everybody is aware; but it is not that phase of the oyster question which is creating the present disturbance. There was bloody work done then, to be sure, on these watery fields; and much disabling of boats and loss of property and similar natural results of such warfare; but all this was only a little episode in the romantic career of our oysters, and was a matter scarcely deserving of even a passing mention in connection with the dangers which now threaten our great Maryland oyster interests. A brush or two with a few pirates; the despatch of several able seamen to the domains of Davy Jones: the punishment of a couple of captains; and the confiscation of a couple o boats, are circumstances scarlely to be considered in comparison with such a catastrophe as that which may now possibly be impending, if the aforesaid plans and schemes can be made effective.

The case seems to stand something like this In the Maryland waters of the Chesapeake and its tributaries, there are miles and miles of oyster ment at Washington by the executive of the ground-watery grounds, to be sure, but still States of the Union for Presidential electors, they are grounds at bottom—which are public cast on the 6th of November, 1888, the followauce to a very large portion of our community. For though the oyster is a remarkable pulpy individual, without any internal back-bone whatever, and so soantly endowed with eloquence that if he ventures to open his mouth he only loses his case, yet he is not, by any means, an insignificant factor in the enjoyment, or the prosperity, of mankind. On the contrary, he is an exceptionally festive being, and is a highly valued product of our civilization, in whatever capacity he may be considered. Even lying asleep in his bed, he is regarded as a creature of very great worth: and though sunk in the mire, begrimed, and slimy, he is none the less esteemed for his degraded condition. And he has only to be fished up out of his native debased estate, to be separated from his natural mean environment, and then properly dressed, with due regard of course to the selection of the fittest, when he will find himself considered a delightful acquisition in the most pious, or most polite society, and will be admitted to the inner confidence of persons in loftiest station, and dignitaries of however high degree. And nobody even thinks of censuring him for irritability however much be may fume and stew; or derides him for being in the soup, if only he is sufficiently numerous there. So, taken altogether the oyster's lot seems to be a peculiary envia-

Considered, too, with regard to the usefulness of his career, the oyster makes a remarkably good showing. It seems to be claiming a great deal, yet it is asserted by the manufacturers of statistics that about one third of the people of Maryland depend, for their living, upon the oyster industry in its various branches. The industry of the oyster itself being, of course included in this count; which must be considerable, since we are informed that an energetic oyster mother is quite competent to bring up several millions or so of respectable children in the course of a single season. So that when we come to think of it, the enterprise of the oyster, as well as the oyster enterprise amounts to something quite considerable. And into the midst of this vast field comes the railroad attorney, from the oysterless shores of Ohio, and proposes that these oyster farms shall be taken away from the people and leased out to trusts, or syndicates of capitalists, and the living of thousands of our poor people turned into the hands of a few men o wealth; that the business of our canning establishments shall be broken up, and the millions that their proprietors have invested in them shall be swamped in the scheme which enriches the monopolists; that Baltimore shall lose one of her most important branches of business; while the new proprietors of our waterfields will have it in their power to fence off corners in the cyster-beds, and so advance the price of our own cherished, home spun luxury of oysters as to put them quite beyond the reach of the impecunious portion of our population; and to necessitate an artificial arrangement to take the place of the solitary specimen which from time immorial has piously done duty in the soup of the church fair. As a natural consequence our own peopl are highly indignant over this proposed interference with our private affairs. The poor their maintenance snatched away from them. The captains and crews; the measurers, and the detectives who lie in wait for these tricks. ters, and the justices who fine them; the canners who positively can not can any more water to a can, and find customers for the same, are all inevitably averse to having their occupations vanish, especially as some of these gentry would find it very difficult to invest in any other business their present amount of capital in profanity: for somehow a remarkable kind and dogree of swearing seems to have been developed by the handling of the calm Then there are other questions to be considered. Such as, what contrivances could be induces virtue," which "Chelys" denies, and go on It must be remembered that the incendiary proceedings of our Legislature, if the State were to cede away its interest in the Waterlands which form the domain of the oyster, and leave itself nothing to legislate about in connection with our oyster interests. To begin nection with our oyster interests. To begin ably. He could also have asked, "was not any such reckless course might lead finally to Lord Bacon intelligent?" No one questions the depriving itself of all kinds of business, and therefore to dispense with its necessity for being. And then, too, what would become of our glorious little oystes navy? If the State were to relinquish its control of the oyster territory, how could this gallant navy distinguish itself, and spend the money appropriated for it, and secure the promotion of its officers? Such points as these would need to be considered in the carrying out of any such scheme in fact, a great deal of very stupid blundering night generally be avoided, if we were wise enough to take into consideration the ultimate logical consequences which our actions render It seems that the party people are quietly at work this winter trying too boom our politics arises would these "vicious classes" have been intended burning to remove their stock or they again. The numerous Democratic Clubs are so "vicious" had they been properly educated have removed it themselves. We do not bein active operation, and the Republicans are or educated even to a limited extent? We do lieve the same party has done all the barnsaid to be negotiating for more commodious not agree with "Chelys" remarkable statement | burning in the localities referred to. But findquarters. The Croseut Society gives entertainments on Friday evenings, Mr. Chauncey Black, and Mr. Isidoro Rayner, being presented as the speakers last week. It is said that arrangements are now being made with a view to the next fall's elections, the Democrats determining to recover lost ground, and the Republicans naturally having their appetite whetted by their late nuccesses. So we may expect to see some energetic fighting when the time comes for blows. If the Democratic camps could contrive to heal their divisious, they could simplify matters very much; but for some reason it seems very difficult for them to learn harmony. The election of School Commissioners by the City Council, this week. made some little ripple on the current of our affairs. Finances come next.

Then certain of our friends are benevolently assuring us that Bultimore itself is in a mos booming condition, at present. We are told that though the growth of our country at large has been unparalleled, that of our city has been proportionately greater. That since 1880 Baltimore and St. Louis have done more building than any other large cities in the United States. It is said that we have "several millions of dollars going up in new houses' now that "with six and a-half millions of export trade in one month, with nearly seventy-four thousands sacks of coffee being landed here within thirty days, with our ship yards carrying off large contracts after sharp competition, Baltimore is doing quite well." This strain of exultation was probably drawn out by the awarding of the contract for a new $300,000 steel steamer, for the Standard & Co., Patent Lawrers, opposite U. S. Patent Oil Company, to the Columbian Iron works of Office, Washington, D. C., are as follows: this city. certainly seems a very creditable one. We really have a great many advantages, and it not fair for us to underrate them. [Correspondence of the Maryland Journal.] "YIDOCQ" YS. "CRELYS."

BALTIMORE Co., Md., Feb. 13th, 1889. A few weeks since your very intelligent correspondent "Chelys" criticises "Vidocq" we think rather severely and unjustly. "Vidocq" distinctly asserted that he was not in favor of a property qualification for the right of sufrage, stating that would imply that the fact of acquiring and maintaining a certain estate was the only evidence of the requisite degree of intelligence and virtue in the voter. "Vidocq" advocated no such doctrine, knowing full well that property is but one of many interests which claim the protection of the laws, and is and yet "Chelys" argues on the same line and upon the word "only" to do so! Why agree with "Vidocq" when he says property should not be a qualification for the right of suffrage. and then say "he is widely at sea" with regard to this point? Again "Vidocq" says "let the qualifications say but amusing to think about and quite impossible of accomplishment." "Vidocq" recognized the great difficulty of a practical fulfillment of this suggestion and so distinctly stated o ascertain this qualification; but what would be a simple, practical plan, would be for each Register of Voters before registering an applinaiority having 60 give his consent he would have to, according to "Chelys," submit, nolene volens. If, by this sition is manifestly unjust, as there are thou-'lowest elements' to control our government, elect our rulers and dictate by means of the foreign element who shall rule America? The truth of this motto is simply this-the "foreign element" is assuming too big proportions in America, and the sooner a check is put upon it the better for the country! It would be simple method for an educated foreigner who proposed to make this country his home to familarize himself with the Euglish language sufficiently not to disqualify him from the right of suffrage upon that test, and if he did not see proper to subject himself to that trouble do not allow him to vote! There are yet in America Americans enough of intelligence and virtue to elect our ralurs. We are not a believer in the doctrine of Know Nothingism, but we are a firm believer and a warm advocate of the purification of the ballot, and we would fearlessly advocate any measure tending to accomplish that desirable result if it disfranchised "thousands of our intelligent citizens speaking some foreign language," even if the advocacy of the method would make one feel like they had "been attending a literary symposium of a lunatic asylum!" The idea he wished to convey was that, take the world over, you would find intelli-gent educated people more moral and better qualified to exercise the right of suffrage than the uneducated and profoundly ignorant! "Chelys" goes on in a fine spun argumentative discourse to point out what everybody knows. viz: that you could not test a "man's moral qualifications by his own testimony; neither could you judge of it sufficiently by his position in society to register him on the 'moral qualification test," from the simple fact that "Sunday-School teachers, class leaders, and even preachers," have so much of "the commodity" that they impart it all to others and abscond to Canada or Europe or somewhere else with some-

[Correspondence of the Marriad Journal.] WASHINGTON LETTER. Washington, February 11th, 1889.

Mr. Cleveland has removed Civil Service Commissioner Edgerton and nominated Hugh S. Thompson of South Carolina, to succeed him. Mr. Thompson is Assistant Secretary of the Freasury at present and a very warm friend of the President. The removal of Mr. Edgerton was not a surprise to anyone familiar with the workings of the Commission. It had several times been intimated to him that his resignation would be accepted; but he refused to take the hint, and finally when the President asked him in plain language to resign be declined to do so, and the removal followed .-Mr. Edgerton is a good man, but holding the opinions he does he should never have accepthe office in the first place. The removal leaves only one Commissioner in office, and he is a Republican. For that reason it is thought that the Senate will probably confirm Mr. Thompson, as the law provides for a Democrat on the board, and there is another vacancy into which Gen. Harrison can put a Republican. Representative Springer thinks his "Omnibus" bill will yet get through in spite of the no evidence whatever of intelligence or virtue; fact that the conferees have failed to agree upon it. Editor JOURNAL-Sir : Many theories have been advanced as to the object of the burning of so many barns by incondiaries in Codorus township, Pa., and recently also in Carroll county, Md. The supposition generally entertained when the first barns were lieve no insurance. Again, the theory advanced burnt were insured in that Company. This is not a satisfactory explanation at all, as barns have been destroyed which were insured in other companies. Again, it was asserted that it was spite work, and several parties were arrested, but that too has fallen through, as spite work, although often causing men to commit fearful crimes, would not extend throughout our entire community, and in fact into another Another theory is that it is the work of an nsane man, a monomaniae; which is a plausible theory, as we know there are monomaniacs, as the "White Chapel Murderer," for instance, who commit the most horrible crimes under the insane delusion that they are benefiting mankind! But, all the circumstances surrounding the destruction of these barns,

Now, we propose to advance a theory which we have never heard suggested, and give it for fulfillment of their oath of revenge against the American people for the hanging of the Chicago Anarchists, and to carry out their program to level all classes—that is, to make all rich or prosperous people poor You know they say, "Curses on rich people;" (by that they mean everybody except Anarchisists,) "they are not even fit to live;" "we will get rich by making them poorer." We further believe that the explosive materials (which are generally, it is said, made in the shape of an .egg,) are manufactured in Chicago or New York and sent fires are not confined to Codorus Township or curred in different parts of the country, and special prominence is only given to certain localities where they occur with greater frequency. It is known that the Anarchists threatened to destroy with fire certain cities, notably New York, Detroit and Buffalo, and they have fulfilled their promise and prophesy so far as Buffalo is concerned. Another forcible argument in defense of our theory is the fact which is well known—that the Anarachists profess to be great humanitarians, and that their only object is to "kill off" prosperous people, whether they are farmers, mechanics or manufacturers, and that they the burning has been done with impunity) they are enlarging their field of operations, and we will probably have the same fearful experience in Maryland. We are creditably informed that certain farmers near Beckleysville have been notified that their barns would be burned shortly. Whether our theory is correct or not it is a "condition which confronts us," and one which demands immediate and energetic action. What should be done to stop this horrible business and detect and punish the perpetrators? In the first place the whole country should be organized into Vigilance Committees, especially in the localities near where the burning has occurred, and every barn should be watched by fearless and trusted men, day and night, for the next six months. Every citizen is interested in this subject and would certainly give his time and money to detect and punish these violators of the law. For they should remember if they are not detected and punished who knows but what they will next turn their attention to the burning of dwelling houses? The Governors of Pennsylvania and Maryland should each offer a reward of twenty thousand dollars for the detection of the offenders. The offer of a big reward would be a great inducement for some of the miscreants to turn informer. This is a matter of vast importance and deserves more attention from our ments comprise the authorities than it is receiving. The farmers are the "bone and sinew" of our country and are now not more than making a living by the strictest according, and when added to the "hard times" the fire devil burns his barn, crops and farming implements, he will indeed be in a de-plorable condition and will be forced into bankrupter and ruin. Protest the faster st all hemres no matter what it coust; find out the fire fiends and make them at once flight ed nothing and kick against the United States [1].
