WILD THORN BLOSSOMS. Deep within the tangled wildwood, Where the tuneful thrushes sing, And the dreaming pine trees whisper In their sleep a tale of spring: Where the laughing brook goes leaping Down the mountain's mossy stair. There the wild white thorn is flinging It's sweet fragrance everywhere.

Rough and rugged are its branches, But its bloom is white as snow: And the reaming bees have found it. In their wanderings to and fro, And they gather from its sweetness Heavy freights the livelong day. And go sailing homeward, singing

Their thanksgivings all the way.

'All unheeded fall the blossoms. Like sweet snowfiakes through the air, And the summer marches onward With its fragrance rich and rare; But the grateful bee remembers, As he winds his mellow horn, That the springtime was made sweeter By the blossoms of the thorn.

Why 60 Seconds Make A Minute.

Why is our hour divided into 60 minutes, each minute into 60 seconds, &c. ? Simply and solely because in Babylonia to her and observed: there existed, by the side of the decimal system of notation, another system, the don't you live at Utica?" sexagesimal, which counted by sixtics. Why that number should have been chosen is clear enough, and it speaks well for the practical sense of those ancient Babylonian merchants. There is no number which has so many divisors as 60. The Babylonians divided the sun's daily journey into 24 parasangs, or 720 stadia. Each parasang or hour was subdivided into 60 minutes. Genuine Happiness

IN "JOURNAL" BUILDING.

Why Large Wealth Dose Not Mean Unalloyed Eappiness.

If, as it is claimed, happiness is one bject of living, it is certain that the arge wealth means unalloyed felicity? The possession of wealth is a good thing. No one but a fool derides those who seek to make money legitimately, but wealth, when suddenly obtained, rarely brings contentment. Men must be educated to the enjoyment of wealth; they can not acquire the art of even spending money judiciously in a moment, or even the knowledge how to use wealth to their own advantage. Men who acquire a fortune by slow degrees ripen into a knowledge its proper use. Rapidly acquired fortunes bring with them aspirations which are never satisfied. The world is apt to protest the demands of such men. You may take the blue book of any city of even a few years ago, and there will be the names of scores of men who floated to the surface upon gilded shingles who have passed away, and their brief careers of prosperity, which many, no doubt, envied, have terminated, perhaps in dishonor, but more frequently in poverty, the result of having obtained in a year that which, if it had come by degrees, would have been kept, for then they would have attached a proper value to their wealth. "When I spend borrowed money," remarked a spendthrift, 'it don't seem as if I was spending any body's money." So it is with wealth Lightly come, lightly go. Money honestly and laboriousl, carned is apt to stick, for the hand that has hardened and the brow that has sweat in ac powerful reminders of its proper value A well-rounded, happy life is not to be built up by feverish speculation brought on by a haste to become rich; but a life reaches its fullest perfection and acquires its greatest capability for enjoyment when by moderate growth its roots strike deep into the soil of permanent prosperity, and its branches increase slowly till it reaches

There were three or four unoccupied seats in the car, but he stood for a moment grip in hand, near the door, and then walked to a seat in which a voung ladv sat alone, and sat down beside her with an impudence that astounded all other passengers. The girl looked up at him and around the car, evidently realised the situation, for she took pencil and tablet from her reticule and made ready for him. After about five minutes the man turned

"I am deaf and dumb." "Ah! By George!" he sighed as he read it; "that's too, too bad! Devoed pretty girl to have such a misfortune. Well. I'm left, after all my smartness. Saw her at the window before I got on, and carried out the plan to a dot. Deal and dumb. eh? First one I ever struck!" He nodded his head to her to signify
