Republican politicians are extremely anxious to force Senator Gorman's appointment as Chairman of the National Democratic Committee, and then "paint the town red" should it be made. Senator Gorman knows what he is doing, and always does the thing least expected by the Republicans, which ends in their discomfiture.

"Maryland Delegations" are still besieging the President and the heads of Departments. J. Guest King is vigorously after a World correspondent, except that she mentioned special agency of the Treasury Department, Inc name of one of ner cousins, who is the wife of Mr. John Kinnard, of 420 North Fourth street, St. Louis, and that she mentioned as friends several people in Baltimore and Washington whom Mr. White knew. She said that she knew Lawyer Horn-Agents will have to wait for a more convenient time. Murther!

About three years from this time it will be ample time to discuss who will be candidates for President in 1892. All the present named candidates may be dead before that time. If so, see what a waste of breath and time some people will have been subjected to. It is well enough to be on time, but, for conscience sake, don't make a fellow tired with idle badinage.

Like everywhere else at this time, it is "cleaning house" time at the White House, and it is said that through it all Mrs. Harrison is able to preserve an exceedingly amiable demeanor, which is a wonderful feat. Bro. Ben., though, keeps out of the way pretty much all the time. He knows how it is. The "rappytap-tap" of the tack hammer is an old, familiar sound to him. Miss Katherine Drexel, youngest daughter of Mr. A. J. Drexel, the wealthy Philadelphia banker, is about to enter the House of the rate of taxation in his county. The wonder is that one has not long since been erected in Baltimore.

ROUGH ON JIM LEE.-The Supreme Court of the United States has pronounced the Scott Chinese exclusion act constitutional. Thus will no more Chinamen be allowed to land upon our shores, save those sent as government officials. The people of San Francisco, especially, will glory over this fact. Any person who has been to San Francisco and visited the "Chinatown" of that city will appreciate the reason why the San Franciscans want their Jim Lees to depart from that city and never return. One sight and a sniff is enough.

The large number of dead heads at Forepaugh's circus Monday afternoon can be readily accounted for when it is remembered Frank Brown's Editorial Convention was held in that city that day.

The Register is very much mistaken. The editors were in session from 11 A. M. until 2.30 o'clock P. M., when they were invited by Gen. Brown to a banquet, where they remained about one hour and a half, so that it was then 4 o'clock, when Forepaugh's circus had about closed for the afternoon. So, Bro. The President was thus rid of the office hunters for three days-but didn't they make him pay up when he got back, The Maryland contingent jumped on him with

A NOTABLE RECEPTION. Gen. Felix Aguas' Compliments to Mr. Frank Thomson, First Vice President of the Penusylvania Railroad Company.

Probably the most notable assemblage of gentlemen ever congregated at one point in this country, men of all shades of political and other opinions, was that assembled on the 15th by Gen. Felix Agnus at "Nacirema," his beautiful country seat in Green Spring Valley, Baltimore county, to do honor to Mr. Frank Thomson, First Vice President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

There were fully 500 persons present. About 300 to 400 came in two trains on the Green Spring Branch of the Northern Central Railway, whilst the remainder came in carriages, buggies, and on horseback.

The house and grounds were heautifully decorated with flags, banners and streamers; and a May-pole was planted in front of the mansion, whilst tents were placed at various points on the grounds. The eastern plazzas of the mansion, and grounds on the east served to place tables under shade trees, where the banquet took place. Itzell's Fifth Regiment Band discoursed delightful music in a large tent in front of the mansion.

Among those who honored Gen. Agnus were Jas. G. Blaine, Secretary of State; Benj. F. Tracey, Secretary of War; J. W. Noble, Secretary of the Interior; J. M. Rusk, Secretary of Agriculture; Gov. An hour was devoted to speeches, those responding being Gov. Jackson, Mr. Blaine, Mayor Latrobe, Joe Howard, Fred. P. Powers, E. B. Hay, Chas. Emory Smith and R. Stockett Matthews.

It was a jolly party, and Gen. Agnus deserves the highest credit for his ability to assemble so many congenial spirits. He was everywhere present, and by his pleasant manners showed that he was not only an excellent entertainer but a warm-hearted gentleman.

TITLE HUNTERS.

It would seem that those sweet young American damsels who so dote upon "titled noblemen," and, after found, discover them to be the merest soldiers of fortune, had learned enough to leave the scoundrels severely alone. Another "Baroness" seems to have come to grief. This time it is Mrs. F. E. O. Sucrow, wife of a fraud, "Baron" Sucrow. Mrs. Sucrow was Miss Williamanna Constable, of Baltimore. The "Baron" having gotten all the money Miss Constable had decamped for Europe. She followed to hunt him up. This is what a New York World cable says of the matter:

"On her arrival in London she put up at the Langham Hotel. She had to pawn her wedding ring and other jewelry to pay her bill during the first week. Last Tuesday she had no money left to pay the account due, and was told that she would have to leave. In dire distress she went to the American Legation and told the charge d'affaires, Mr. Henry White, practically the same story as she told the the name of one of her cousins, who is the wife of blower, of New York, and declared that she should put the case in his hands when she got home. The woman's appearance and refined manners impressed Mr. White, and he wired to Berlin to find out just who Baron von Sucrow was. The answer came promptly to the effect that no such man was connected with the German Army, and that there was nected with the distance of the control of the cont man Embassy here have been equally fruitless. The men in Berlin and London whom the bogus baron claimed as his intimate friends have declared that they never knew him.

IMPORTANT DECISION. A decision was rendered by Chief Justice Fuller, of the U.S. Supreme Court at Washing ton, D. C., the past week, which is important to stockholders. It was the case of Wm. J. Hawkins, plaintiff in error vs. John Glenn, trustee of the National Express and Transportation Company. This Company in 1866 made an assignment, leaving little available assets for the creditors except unpaid subscriptions made by the stockholders. An assessment of thirty per cent. was levied against these stockholders for the benefit of the creditors, and Glenn, as trustee, brought a large number of suits against persons in all parts of the Union to compel the payment of the assessments. The Hawkins case was decided in favor of Glenn, the trustee, in the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina. This court affirms that decision, holding that the original stockholders are liable for the amount of their subscriptions, regardless of whether or not they have transferred their Opening the Hopkins Hospital—A Marvelous Institution-Our New Monuments-The Palace of Pain-Elegant Misery-Dying Scientifically"-A Small Straw-Self Delusion-Number So and So.--A Means of Grace-The Samaritan's Recompense—Hindeoism.

BALTIMORE. May 17th, 1889.

The greatest recent event in our city's histo ry is the opening of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, which has just been accomplished. We made an imposing occasion of it. Governor Jackson, Mayor Latrobe, President Gilman, and a long list of eminent physicians, clergyment, lawyers, officials of the U.S. Army and Navy, and distinguished strangers from various directions, with the ladies who were among the invited guests; made a very brilliant assemblage of prominent and talented persons who graced the opening exercises. And there were evergreens, and flowers, and banners, and music, and eloquent addresses by the several orators of the day. Taken altogether the opening celebration was a very notable event. And the Hospital itself is truly a very marclous affair. The institution occupies four vhole blocks, or about fourteen acres of ground having its main entrance fronting upon Broadway. The handsome grounds are laid out in beautiful order, and make the place very atractive in the present fresh and bright array. But it is the vastness, and the bewildering labyrinths of that enormous architectural pile, that constitute the greatest wonder of this magnificent place. Such grand stairways, and engths beyond lengths of corridor and terrace; such a countless succession of rooms and the public on a couple of days last week so many thousands of persons undertook this fatiguing performance, that other days of this week were devoted to the same purpose. And this glimpse of what has been pronounced "the best-constructed and best-equipped hospital in the world," has had the effect of greatly enlarging people's ideas as to the scope and extent of the possible, as well as that of imbuing them with a much higher degree of pride in our monumental city, which too many of us are only too prone to depreciate. Whereas, what with the Hopkins University and Hospital, the Peabody Library and Institute, the Pratt Library and its branches, and the outlook for the future which these furnish, we are fast finding ourselves world-famous for realizing it, yet the truth is that Baltimore re- tain men, have almost invariably resulted in PROVISIONS—Shoulders..... ally has several great possessions of which she evil to the people and in injury to good governmay be justly proud.

Johns Hopkins Hospital can only be that of a very painful variety. For when one wanders through the beautiful rooms, or passes from bed to bed in the numerous wards, or stands in the amphitheater where the accidents will be attended to, and various surgical operations performed, or visits the dispensary so soon to be thronged by impecunious sufferers, and then tries to realize even a small fraction of all the aches and pains, the pangs and tortures, and heart-rending scenes, which these walls are the effect of such a contemplation is utterly appalling. The thought of the moaning, and fair primary, or no primary at all. gioaning that will steal through the place; of the light of hope dying out of the heart, the fierce beating of fevered pulses, and the horrible death-agonics to be endured in this palace of pain, will turn it for us into an elegant edition of the region of Sheel; an abridged copy of what some philanthropic being would make of the infernal abode, if it were in his power It may be a comfort to some persons to know that the suffering of their friends is endured in the most gorgeous and elegant manner .-But when it comes to suffering one's self the splendor of one's misery becomes shorn of its attractiveness. And knowing what some of us do of the working of certain philanthropic institutions, we are inclined to look rather askance at the opening of another grand charitable foundation, and more especially that of a hespital. For since the publication of a book called "St. Bernards," and another entitled "Dying Scientifically," these temples dedicated to Æsculapius have fallen under unpleasant For in these works it is charged against certain foreign hospitals, by certain foreign medical authority, that, "the healing of patients is subordinated to the professional advantages of the staff and the students; that cures are retarded for clinical study, that new drugs are tried upon hospital patients, who are needlessly examined and made to undergo unnecessary operations;" and that even "the dying are tortured by useless operations." And the argument comes nearer home to us when we find an eminent American physician making the statement that in our own country "the ardour of scientific research is rapidly over-riding the proper benevolent objects of the profession." "The cure of disease," he goes on to say, "is becoming quite a secondary consideration to the achievement of a correct diagnosis to be verified by a successful post mortem.' And so when we read that the Johns Hopkins Hospital "will furnish exceptional opportunities for original investigation into the the causes and proper treatment of disease;" that it is united by a tie of common interests to the existing biological department of the University where regiments of dumb brutes undergo the pleasant process of vivisection; and are further told that the Hospital "through its corps of trained investigators will seek to add exceptional temptations. It has been remarked, too, that the reservation of the finest and use of the resident medical officers and students looks like a small bit of a straw of in-There will probably, however, be so much red tape used as bandages around the peasons of those seeking admission to this institution that their movements thitherward may be considerably hampered and impeded; and in cousequence thereof they may be doomed to die in a somewhat less scientific manner. To feel one's personality no longer as parent or child, or relative, or friend but simply as number so and so, who is interesting only in the character of a "case." And consider how depressing it would be to live in an atmosphere in which suffering and all sorts of distress were the normal condition of things: where this one would be growing worse, and that one having a relapse, and another dying outright, every day, and all day long. It could scarcely fail to make a well person either sick, or callous and heartless to live such a No: a thousand times no. People who have any heart, or conscience, if even their means are slender, should take care of their sick or afflicted relatives at their own homes. The sick need the comfort of knowing that they are not considered burdensome, but that, it is esteemed a privilege to minister to their needs. And the sacrifices and unselfish devotion required by such ministrations provide some of | the best means of training that could have been devised for our naturally too seifish souls. It is at our peril, and to dur certain loss, that we throw away any such precious means of

There are also, it is true, some forlorn and aipless souis, or, let us say bodies, who are left without any relatives, and have been so ungracious and illidisposed as to have gone through life without baving made friends who cared enough for them to be willing to do for them. But even for such as these some good, true, honest Christian would be infinitely the gainer in playing the part of the good Samaritan. It is no answer to say that one must have ample means to undertake such a task. Plenly of money is not even a secondary considertion in such a case. And if those who doubt it desired the proof thereof they can be taken to the simple homes of poor people in this city who are doing their Christein duty by those less fortunate than themselves. Indeed, there can be found the small, plain, neat homes of impleunious celered people who are furnishing freely the necessaries of life to their decrepit follow operatures, in a manner that would put to the blush the cenduct of

[Correspondence of the Maryland Journal.] THE CHIEF JUDGHORIP.

BALTIMORE COUNTY, May 14, 1889. Editor of the MARYLAND JOURNAL: A paper claiming to represent the Demo-cratic organization in this county, and which, as matter of fact, dost represent a faction of that party, publishes in its last issue an article under the caption of "The Chief Judgeship," in which the editor declares that Hon. David Fowler will be the only candidate for Chief Judge in the judicial primaries, and then goes on to intimate that some other person would also be a candidate at said primaries but for the fact that that person assumes that the primaries will be unfair.

In commenting upon the supposed attitude of the gentleman whom the editor had in mind, but did not name, he says: "The primaries will be fair." "They must be fair." "The future of the party depends upon their fairness at this time." "No one has a right to assume that they will be unfair." I do not desire to inject into this discussion any personalities whatsoever, but I think it is permitted to me to remark right here, that beside the editor's inability to enforce his command that the primaries "will be fair" and "must be fair," his short record as a politician in this county gives little guarantee that he would wish them to be fair if success were dependent solely upon unfairness. Neither is there good ground to hope that "the future of the party" would deter those now controlling the organization from risking unfairness if that were necessary to the success of their

Is it true that "no one has a right to assume that they will be unfair?" Let us see: Was there not unfairness in the primaries charged, and, in some instances confessed, in the contest for county nominations in 1887? Was there not then, in consequence, a protest in the shape of an independent ticket, which, for weeks, seriously threatened the success of the ticket? Was there not an admission of, at least, the need of better and purer methods when Mr. Lindsay, the State Senator from this county. offered in the Senate a bill to legalize primaries? Is it a proof that the Democratic organitation in this county intended fairness in the future that the delegation in the House of Delegates, nominated by alleged unfair practices, refused to pass that bill? Are we to be sure that the editor himself i sincere when he says the primaries must and will be fair when he remembers that he, in his capacity as a legislator, was one of the potent instruments in the death of that measure? I am informed, it is true, that the editor has said that he killed the bill because its provisions were not adequate to the end sought to be accomplished. But I am also informed of the crushing reply of a keen-witted "Upper-End" Democrat who asked why, if the editor was honestly in favor of such a measure, he did not so amend the bill as to make it effective? The editor has not yet answered that ques-

WASHINGTON, May 13th, 1889. Chief Justice Fuller finding the residence in the suburbs which he now occupies under lease to be too far from the Capitol for him to walk to and from the Supreme Court room in the Capitol, has purchased one of the most desirable private houses in this city, located almost in its centre. The price paid was $100,000 cash. Mr. Palmer, the new Public Printer, took charge of the Government Printing Office this morning. Mr. Benedict, the retiring Public Printer, has not been a popular official. No man can be in that office who properly looks out for the interests of the Government, but he has, nevertheless, been one of the very best Public Printers we have ever had. There has been less waste and more work turned out for the amount paid than was ever before known in the history of the office.

At last the colored man and brother has captured a Presidential appointment. The lucky man was Rev. J. M. Townsend, of Richmond. Indians, and the office was Recorder of the General Land Office—not a big office by any means, but just now the race is extremely thankful for anything it can get. Corporal Tanner is getting to imagine himself the "biggest" man connected with the administration. Some of his personal friends have already began to talk of him as a Presidential candidate. If less than two months at the head of the Pension Bureau has had this much effect, what may be expected of four years? The $190,000,000 in the United States Treasury has all got to be counted in order that Mr. Hyatt, the retiring Treasurer, may take the receipt of the new Treasurer. Mr. Huston, for the same. Editor Journal:-The following editoria appeared in the Baltimore County Democrat of

"THE CHIEF JUDGESHIP. In a very short time it is expected that the county Democratic Executive Committee will name a day for the judicial primaries. From the present outlook there will be but one name presented to the Democrats of the county, Hon. David Fowler. As we have said heretoiore, there should be no difficulty in the salestion of a Democratic candidate. we have said heretofore, there should be no diffi-culty in the selection of a Democratic candidate. We have a system of primaries and conventions which we have acted under for a number of years; our Republican friends have been doing the same, and while the system may and actually does have its imperfections, yet it is decidedly the best plan we have ever tried. We did try, in 1875, the Craw-ford county system, which resulted disgracefully to the party and disastrously as well, and there is very little disposition on the part of any one ever to try it again in this county. The primaries will be fair. They must be fair! The future of the party de-They must be fair! The future of the party depends upon their fairness at this time. They are open to all comers who are Democrats. No one has a right to assume that they will be unfair. Our Republican friends will make all sorts of overtures nd concessions to wavering Democrats in and concessions to wavering Democrats in this campaign to form an alliance with them. They are even willing to unite with them in electing an independent judiciary. They are shrewd and have brilliant leaders, but, Democrats, don't be deceived: the Judgeship with our Republican friends is a blind. Their main object is to secure a Republican delegation in the Legislature, and the Judgeship with them is a side issue. While we have lost our President yet. Damografs, we have still left our tident, yet. Democrats, we have still left our copie and party loyalty." Now, it is all very well to write and talk fairness, but "actions speak londer than words." Mr. Duncan, the Editor of the Democraf, says "the primaries must be fair." He might well say so if he had done his part towards making them fair. Mr. Dancan was a member of the House of Delegates in 1866, when Mr. Lindsey, the State Senator, had passed in the Souate a bill logalising primaries is Baltimore county. That bill was surely "fair;" but when it resched the House of Belegates, where stood Mr. Duncan, a representative o the people of Baltimore county, the gentlemen who says "we will and we must have fair primaries"-lot the bill west to steep with other bills of a fair, but seperific tendency, and we presume it is still awastly moring.

DRUGBATION DAY SERVICES.

Steps have been taken by the several Posts of the Grand Army of the Republic in and around Baltimore to make the approaching Decoration Day, May 30th, more interesting than recently. All the various Posts will be on duty and the graves of comrades in the various cemeteries be duly decorated. The Baltimora Light Infantry, Col. Harry A. Barry, will act as escort to the Grand Army of the Republic in the parade. It is expected that Hon Ben, Butterworth, of Ohio, will be the orator of the day at the National Cemetery at Loudon Park. The Secretary of the War has ordered guns to be taken from Fort McHenry to fite the national salute at Loudon Park.

Baltimore City's old Court House building is to be improved to the amount of $150,-000. It needs it, sadly, for it has long been unsuited to Baltimore's increasing business in all her Courts. Why not take it down and build. a comfortable and convenient building?
