During the recent Bankers' Convention referprofitable to the readers of The Economist to examine the reason why it can be called by that name. The coinage act of 1792 made 3711 grains of pure silver the American dollar and unit of American money. It also made the eagle (gold) of the value of ten dollars or units, and its divisions to be of corresponding value in units. This made silver the unit and gold the ratio. This condition remained until P. M. On Sunday, 9.30 A. M. and 5.25 P. M. 1834, when it was found that the amount of For Virginia Midland Railroad, and South, via 1834, when it was found that the amount of gold in the gold dollar sold for more in England than the amount of silver in the silver dollar. In order to remedy this, after a long discussion, it was resolved by Congress to reduce the amount of gold in the ratio, in order to have it conform to the unit. This was done by taking 1.55 grains of pure gold from the gold dollar. In 1837 it was ascertained that too much gold had been taken from the gold dollar, and in order to make the unit and ratio conform .02 of a grain of pure gold was added. This relative value continued until 1873, with the exception that in 1853 the silver half dollars, quarters, and dimes were debased in order to prevent exportation. No silver dollars were being coined, as the bullion was worth more than the coined dollars. In 1873 a general coinage act was passed, the first since the war. It was before Congress for nearly three years, and was passed without debate or being printed, on the simple word of John Sherman that "it had practically passed Congress at the last session, except it enlarged the duties and in-creased the salaries of the officers of the mint." The truth was that the bill dropped the silver dollar from the list of American coins and practically demonetized it, and actually changed the unit of money from 3711 grains of dences on orders left at Ticket Offices:

N. W. COR. CALVERT AND BALTIMORE STS. silver to 23.22 grains of gold. At that time there was not five men in Congress aside from John Sherman who knew what the bill contained, and it was not until 1876 that Senator Conkling, by a direct ques- Annapolis and Baltimore Short Line R. tion to Senator Shorman, disclosed to the people that there had been no American silver dollar for nearly three years. President Grant did not know it when he signed the bill. In 1878 the Bland bill was passed, which remonetized silver and P. M. obliged the coinage of at least two million per month. The question might be asked, Why was the unit changed? because gold had become scarce, and, like potatoes under similated P. M. Sundays S.A. M., 3.40 P. The whole bonded debt was then payable in coin, and coin sold in the markets of the world by weight like pork or M., 6.49 2, M., 8.5) P. M. C. M. LEILICH. General Manager. wheat. If silver was continued the unit more gold would have to be taken from the gold dollar. If gold was the unit then more silver would have to be put into the silver dollar. In 1834 gold was taken out, and in 1807 gold was added to the gold dollar in order to keep up the relative value. It therefore resolved itself into this simple proposition, shall the bondholders receive so many grains of gold less for their bonds, or shall the people give them so much more silver? The bondholders had been preparing for this. When the fund-

Occasionally, also, one hears of it being used daily in quite targe quadrottes as a remedy for onesity. As a matter of fact, this acid might well be dispensed with altogethes; and certainly if used at all it should be with contion. As for its being efficacions as a flesh-reducer, it is about as much so es typhoid fever or any seve e disease, for it acts simply as a debilitator and impoverishes the system. Several cases of death from its use in small grassfuls daily are on record. A Little good vinegar is not likely to do any harm and when rightly us I it seems to avor the dikestion of costain foods. But, without doubt, as it is generally used, it does much more harm than good, and lemon jaice would be far better. Even a moderately excessive use of vinegar causes intestinal irregularity, which may show itself by either constipation or diarrhea, also flatulency, etc. One writer considers it capable of inducing cough, flushing of the head and watery eyes. When used very intemperately it produces blood changes, which may become immediately dangerous; if not so the decline in health is slew but certain. Beside using vinegar with caution, that used should ho selected with exceeding care. Vinegar made from apples is very good, but not so good as that made from grapes. The latter is very expensive, but the chances are it will eventually be sold as cheap, and largely displace cider vinegar .- New York Star.
