TIT FOR TAT.

Republican newspapers have been for some time laying great stress and gloated upon the statement of Mayor Grant of New York that a year or two since he gave an envelope containing $10,000 to Richard Croker's little him, but when informed by Judge Fisher that daughter. And now here some "unknown persons" (well known to certain persons) have presented Mrs. Harrison, wife of the President. with a handsome cottage at Cape May Point. We are satisfied that Mrs. Harrison is entirely innocent of the origin of the presentation. The very effort to make a blind of the presentation to Mrs. Harrison is evident that the parties intend it to have effect upon the President. None of the gentlemen who have made the presentation may likely want an office .-(Possible one of them has a big office now!) But it would be most natural that if the President knew (and no doubt he does know) who are the donors, he would feel kindly towards them. It would be human to do so. This presentation of houses and lands to our Chief Magistrates whilst in office (President Harrison is no exception) is a very bad piece of business. It compromises the recipient, no matter howsoever far he may be removed from any covetous desire. (lifts of this character should come only from blood relatives, as the act can then be easily seen and divined. But for outsiders to present to the President of the United States, and still with more questionable propriety to his wife, of house and lands, it leaves the door open to let the mind run riot as to the object for which the presentation was made. We feel satisfied Mrs. Harrison is entirely inentirely injudicious. Nobody dared offer Mr. Cleveland anything of that character when he to accept as a present a valuable box, magnifi- rium. Every expense is paid excepting that cently inlaid, because the object of the donor was too plain to be disregarded. Our Chief Magistrates should be made of sterner stuff in this regard. President Harrison is no beggar. He is an amiable, kind-hearted American. In his home at Indianapolis he would firmly refuse to receive any present of that character from his fellow-citizens. How much more so should he firmly but kindly request Mrs. Harrison to refuse to receive as a present this house and its grounds, which, in the future, will be regarded as a gratuity from certain perexpect favors in the future.

So, if Mayor Grant's generous and pure gift the gift of a house and lot at Cape May Point street; Dr. F. M. Latham, 4 West North to Mrs. Harrison, the wife of the President, is, in Democratic eyes, equally as reprehensible! It is merely tit for tat.

STATE TEACHERS AT BAY RIDGE.

THE MARYLAND CENTRAL. The change in the guage of the Maryland

Central Railway to standard will involve the straightening of the line at many points along the entire route, for the purpose of facilitating its operation as well as to shorten it in miles. We learn there are two or three points between Baltimore and Towson that will be straightened. One of these points is at Towson. The line is to be changed at a point south of Towson after it crosses the Sheppard Asylum trestle to a point crossing the York Turnpike at grade, near the present turnpike gate of the York Road, going through Judge Yellot's lot, and we learn, taking his house and immediate outbuildings. Should this be accomplished, it would remove the present Station of the Maryland Central to the new crossing point. The new line would then join the present line near its present crossing of the Hillen Road. There is a big future before the Maryland Central when it is changed to standard guage, as it will then connect directly with the coal fields of Pennsylvania. Millions of tons of coal will find its way to Baltimore over its tracks.

Judge Fisher prepared the will of Mr. Wilson, who expressed a desire to endow an institution of the kind with $200,000, but left the details to Judge Fisher. In a few days Judge Fisher again visited Mr. Wilson, with an elaboration of Mr. Wilson's idea, which greatly delighted it would require a much larger sum than he necessary amount, and placed the sum of $500,-000 in his will for that purpose. THE STEVENSON ARCHER CASE.

The case of Stevenson Archer, Maryland's defaulting State Treasurer, was before the Court of Appeals on Tuesday and Wednesday, 17th and 18th inst. Messrs. E. Gans and Bernard Carter, Archer's counsel, made ingenious arguments denying the power of the law to hold and try him, but the powerful argument of Attorney General Whyte, on Wednesday, tore the arguments of the defendants' counsel to pieces. No decision was rendered. The case being an important one, a formal and written decision will be handed down, it is thought, within a few days. It is believed Chief Judge Alvey will deliver the opinion of the Court. Although it is not known what the decision will be the impression prevails, from the arguments, that Judge Stewart's decision will be reversed, and Mr. Archer will be held for trial. It would be a great misfortune if a case of that gravity would amount to nothing through an alleged technicality.

Few Finalities -- The Censorship of the Sun-The Council's Impertant Work-Courage and Candor of the Archer Committee-Project of Our Hemosepathic Seciety-Diagnosis of a fad Case-As to Satan and the Clergy.

BALTIMORE, June 20th, 1890. During the past week or so we have been putting the final touches to a few more chapters of Baltimore's history. The deal with the railway syndicate for the whole of the city's B. and O. stock having been successfully accomplished, and the holdings of the State, and of the Johns Hopkins, having likewise been secured by these enterprising parties, the great railroad which has been our boast and our bane for the last generation or two, has finally been run out of the region of Baltimore poli-Which, it is to be hoped, will prove tics. greatly to the simplication of this science, for the city has been "simply squeezed and victimized in this transaction. And it declares that had at first intended, promptly informed Judge | the sale at par, of the city's interest, has cost Fisher that he was prepared to supply the our municipality a sum which might have amounted to nearly three quarters of a miliou dollars; the which it broadly insinuates "would be a handsome profit for the manipulators and engineers of the scheme to divide between emselves at the expense of the city.' Of course, everybody else decided, officially and unofficially, that it was to the city's ad vantage to dispose of its stock even at par value. and thus be enabled to reduce its funded debt, as well as to be happily rid of a badly gnawed bone of political contention. But it does not matter in the least who else approves of a scheme: nothing ever suits or satisfies the Sun. The gas bill, down at Annapolis, last winter. offered to pour numerous thousands into our treasury, annually; but the Sun was bitterly and violently opposed to the project, noth withstanding. In fact, we have become so accustomed to this sort of performance that we would scarcely esteem any of our legislation

To be sure, the luminous Censor who sits in daily judgment upon all our affairs avers that ment of the Sun's opposition. Another chapter of our affairs, just closed up, is the work of the recent session of our City Council. It has been said that "more measure involving immense interests have been passed by it than by any other council" in our annals. The aforesaid B. and O. deal, the Belt Line and Tidewater ordinances, the issuing of five mil lions of city stock, the large appropriations for the erection of public buildings, and the arrangements for numerous other public improvements, conspire to render the actions of is Council of more than ordinary import-

It has taken issue with the Mayor, on some oints, it is true, and it has succeeded in carry. ng some of its measures over his head; yet a charitable judgment might give the councilmen credit for having, and following, honest convictions of their own; and for believing it not only their privilege, but their duty to do so. They have, however, as a matter of course, been denounced for their actions, and accused of all the corrupt motives which can actuate olitical conduct. Whatever they had done, though, they might have been sure of similar accusation; and they can at least console themselves with the reflection that they have engineered rather successfully some extremely important work.

The Archer investigation is another serious business which has just been completed in this city. Not without a great deal of the aforesaid adverse criticism, it must be confessed; but fortunately with an amount of true courage and candor, which it is a hopeful sign to see displayed by the very same persons that are so often charged with possessing a liberal ssortment of those vices which go to make up the dreadful character of the desperate politi-

It ought to be borne in mind, though, that even a politician is really a man, after all .-And it must have been a trying ordeal for the members of the joint legislative committee, Assemblymen though they are, to be obliged o sit in judgment upon those whom they had always regarded as estimable friends; sift, and scrutinize, and hold up to public reprobation the disgraceful misdeeds of a man universally beloved and respected; and to calmly examine the highest officials of State, and charge them with neglect of their duties in the administration of office.

It certainly required unflinching courage to perform fearlessly so distasteful and thankless a task. And that our committe executed this unpleasant business so faithfully and impartially, extenuating nothing, and setting down naught in malice, but simply and manfully making a clear and explicit display of the facts of the case, is a feat that challenges our admiration; and one that it is to be hoped will elicit from high sources a much more marked tribute of approval than it seems yet to have received. There is something left in our statesmanship besides political trickery, when we can point to such a spectacle as this. But we are beginning some new chapters of our historical volume, as well as finishing up old records. This season of the year brings many of our affairs to a standstill, no doubt, yet there are others which seem to seize this opportunity for entering upon a new career .-And among the interests which are now about to enlarge the sphere of their activities. may be mentioned the Maryland State Homoeopathic Society, which has recently obtained a charter, for a Free Dispensary and Hospital, in Baltimore, and has decided to inaugurate, medical college or university, here besides. The Society's committee on ways and means which, by the way includes some of your county talent, asserts that "Baltimore is conspicuous as being the only city in the Union of half its population that is without a Homosopathic nospital; and it sees no reason why such an iu-stitution here should not be made a permanent success." Nor would it be easy to say why such an undertaking should prove a failure when the rojects of almost any other sort of "high dusionists" can achieve unlimited success. The truth is that there has been an unusual stirring among the dry bones of homoeopathy during the past few months. It seems that a disagreement in the Society awoke some of its members to the fact that a certain prominent physician here had long been dominating the whole concern, and working things to his own advantage, regardless of the Society's interests. So there was a rebellion and row; and when the Society investigated the case of the eminent practitioner the diagnosis showed that he had been sailing under false colors, and making pretentions to the possession of honors to which he was not entitled, besides being implicated in ther unprofessional conduct. Consequently, the eminent gentleman sent in his resignation: which the Society declined to accept without giving him a trial. And when he was tried the charges were sustained, and the constricting influence being moved, the organism is now free to grow.

On the other hand, however, the doctor of souls now taketh his rest, and hieth him across the Atlantic, leaving his psychical hospital to the ministrations of Satan, who is certain make the most of his opportunity. But Burdette tells this story of the aspect of the case from a pastor's view of it. To one of the tourist kind some one remarked that "the devil nevertakes a vacation.' "No, indeed," the parson replied, "he doesn't need one; he never works hard enough. If he should take my contract to drag this congregation up hill to heaven, instead of merely musing himself by dancing with it on the primrose grade, he'd want a vacation every ix weeks, and then he,d break down before the year was out." So the pastor needs his CHELYS.

[Correspondence of the MARYLAND JOURNAL.] BARNEY BARRON'S" MINT DROPS BELLEFONTE, PA., June 11th, 1890.

Dear Editor JOURNAL: The politicians, especially those of the Reublican party, are about as busy as politicians usually are on the eve of an important political event. The question before the people now is, who shall be elected Governor next fall. The Republicans are just now holding their primaries in the different counties of the State, and flushed with repeated success they seem to look upon a nomination as equivalent to an election; and, indeed, from a distance it would look about that way with a majority of anywhere from forty to eighty thousand against them staring them in the face. It would seem to a casual looker-on like wasted time and experience for the Democrate to put up a candidate at all, but we have heard of successful parties fighting over their boodle and destroying each other, and some weaker party stepping in and gathering up the spoils. Some one has said, "Whom the gods would destroy they first make mad." This is about the shape the Republican party of Pennsylvania is in to-day. They are as mad as wet hens, and are fighting at their primaries like wolves over a carcas; and, besides, the leaven of tariff reform is working among the people. They are at last getting their eyes open to their individual interests. The farmer can't see why he should pay a heavy duty on everything he uses for the sake of being protected on the fiseces of fifteen or twenty sheep. The laboring man is looking at it in the same way. He fails to find any and is decreasing his ability to combat the demands and encroachments of the nabobs he has helped to make. This may be an old doc-into effect in this, and if I am not very much mistaken in the signs of the times you will see before very long a revolution in politics in Pennsylvania. And now if the gods will just make the Senate as mad on the McKinley tariff bill as they were in the House so that they pass it without amendment, there will be large Republican majorities in Pennsylvania will be among the things of the past, for free tade will not scare worth a cent while the monstrosity the McKinley bill is hanging over the heads of the people. Taking this view of the matter, the Democratic party of Pennsylvania do not only see a fighting chance, but think they see odds in their favor at next fall's election, and to add to their chances of success they want to avoid in their primaries the acrimonious feelings that have existed all through those of the Republicans. Their fight has been: the field against State Senator Delamater, of Crawford county, with Adjt.-"Gen." . Hastings leading the field Senator Delamater comes from a line of honorable and patriotic ancestors dating back through several decades. He is possessed, no doubt, with sufficient ability to ably fill the Governor's chair, but he has made himself obnoxious to the grangers and the working people generally by his actions in the Senate, his vote and influence at all times being cast against their interests and always in favor of nonopoly. This is accounted for on the grounds self-interest, he being identified with that class; and again he is supposed to be Quay's man. Quay, who is the head and front of an ism in this State, has but a slight hold upon the affections of the masses, and is every day growing more in disfavor with the farmer and workingman, but by the aid of large sums of money furnished by those whose interests he serves, and by his ability as an intriguer and political manipulator, and by the aid of his ieutenants, he has been able heretofore to keep n line the dissatisfied element of his party. but his grip is relaxing and he will not be able much longer to hold the State in the palm of is hand as he has done for so long. The ancestry of Adjt-Gen. Hastings (the other most prominent candidate on the Repubican side) I have not been able to trace back farther than to the days when canals were as great an institution in the State as railroads are to-day—his father an Irishman, simple and pure. As the canal advanced up the west branch of the Susquehanna, he advanced with t, and with his pick and shovel added his portion towards building up an important channel of transportation hitherto confined to the wagon by land and the ark by the river. He settled in Salona, in Clinton county, where Dan," as he is called by his friends, was born some forty years ago. Here he obtslacd a common school education, and then turned his attention to teaching. Subsequently he went into a printing office in Bellefonte, but finding such aristocratic associations not suited to his Democratic tastes, he gave up printing for the law. He studied law in Bellefonte and was admitted in time to the bar of Centre county. As a lawyer he has been fairly successful, out was very little known outside of Centre county until Gen. Beaver was elected Governor, who appointed him Adjt.-Gen. He was then elected as a delegate to the Chicago Convention that nominated Harrison. There he put John Sherman in nomination for President and made an able and eloquent speech in his support, and then, and not till then, did the people outside of his own State know that such a man as Hastings existed; but being a self-made man and a man of generous impulses, social and friendly in his intercourse, he is deservedly popular with all who know him; tall and wellhe should be elected Governor and the State | Dimick, the partners; Richard Dimick, brother o does not get a good Governor, it will get a finelooking one at any rate. Spangler, who soon after arrived. He did much to relieve the necessities of that muchafflicted people, and did not leave his post of duty until they were put into something like a comfortable position. The prominent caudidates on the Democratic side (and I suppose the only ones that will be in the field) are ex Gov. Pattison, of Philadelphia, and ex-U. S. Senator Wm. A. Wallace, of Clearfield county. It is sufficient to say of ex-Gov. Pattison that he has been tried and has served the people with honesty and intelligence. Like ex-President Cleveland, he found his worst enemies in the house of his friends, and, like Cleveland, he had the courage to act upon his convictions, and would not be dictated to by those who fol ow politics as a business. Peter Gray Meek, of the Bellefonte Watchman, is one that considers himself aggrieved by Pattison vetoing a M. Barker to examine the books of Crosby bill in which he was pecuniarily interested while Clerk of the Senate. So Peter Gray is although he was called as a witness by the Continot for Pattison : but while he made some enemies in the line of his duty, he left a clean sheet behind and is as popular to-day, if not more so, than when he was elected to the same position before, and if he should again get the nomination, as against Delamater at least, have every reason to believe that he will be the next Governor of Pennsylvania. before the Democratic Nominating Convention s ex.U. GREAT COMPANY'S PHAME. Renewal of Proceedings in the "Dimick Case "-The Story of the Continental's Shame to be Retold in a United States

The celebrated Dimick case is once more in a state of activity. The trial of the suit of the Union Insurance Company of Philadelphia, plaintiff, against the Continental Insurance Company, defended lant, was begun on Tuesday of this week in this city, before Judge Wheeler, in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern District of New York. Most of our readers are familiar with the facts of this remarkable case. The Union is one of three insurance companies deliberately defrauded by a general agent of the Continental Insurance Company of the name of Lorenzo Dimick. Dimick's frauds were varied and systematic, although mainly confined to traudulent relusurances. The other companies defrauded by Dimick, in order to benefit himself and the Continental, are the Thames and Mersey of England and the Insurance Company of the State of Pennsylvania. For six years or more these companies have been engaged in a relentless effort to make the Conti neutal Insurance Company disgorge hundreds of thousands of dollars which it wrongfully came into possession of through the fraudulent operations of Litigation is a long and tedious process. The Continental has fought desperately to retain the profits of Dimick's thieveries, but gradually it is being worsted. It has come out of every encounter before the Courts worse off than when it went in .-

The coils have all the while been tightening around

It is perhaps, after all, not so much a misfortune guilty parties are granted plenty of time and abundance of opportunity to find their consciences and act as honest men should act. The Continental has had at least six years of time in which to do the square thing. Three reputable and highly respected companies have repeatedly laid before its officers the details of Dimick's ruscalities. Dimick himself was convicted of grand larceny and sentenced to the penitentiary. He fled to Canada and finally died there. Witness after witness that the Continental relied upon has, by telling the truth, become a valuable witness for the other side. And there have been confessions most damaging to the Continental's side of the case. Still the Continental Insurance Company holds on to the spoils. It has made u c of every possible device to secure delay. Latterly its counsel have tempt was made to postpone the trial which began on Tuesday, but without success. Nevertheless, it was only by the most extraordinary efforts that the counsel for the Union brought the case to trial. in his opening speech Mr. Treadwell Cleveland, counsel for the Philadelphia Company, called the ittention of the Court to the facts as they existed o-day in reference to the witnesses who can speak I the transactions which took place in the office of Crosby & Dimick in 1883. During that year Dimick is supposed to have stolen hundreds of thousands of dollars from the three companies above named for the benefit of the Continental. The persons who were in the office of Crosby & Dimick at that time proportioned, of commanding appearance, if were as follows: Thomas G. Crosby and Lorenzo and thence binding thereon southerly to the place Nickerson, Charles H. Marshall, Theodore W. Wells, Richard Wells, his son; Mr. Waters, a bookkeeper

Lorenzo Dimick and Louis P. Nickerson are dead, terrible disaster he immediately set out across | commission of the frauds. Richard Dimick was tinental. Mr. Crosby, Lorenzo Dimick's partner has always been a witness against the Continental. Mr. Marshall has lately made an affidavit confessing to the commission of the frauds during the year 1883 and to his participation therein. Theodore W. Wells has always been a witness against the Conti nental. Mr. Waters, owing to his brief connection with the firm of Crosby & Dimick, is not able to say anything of value one way or the other. Mr. Watson, while in the employ of Crosby & Dimick, objected to making fraudulent entries in the books under instructions from Lorenzo Dimick, effecting reinsurance after notice of loss, and consulted his father as to whether he should remain in the office, and shortly after left it. He is a witness against the Continental. Clinton D. Ellis is now a witness against the Continental. Mr. Mercer and Mr. Neff have always been witnesses against the Continental. Effner, Rardon and Swan are also witnesses against the Continental. Hence it appears that the Continental will not call a single one of the persons who was in the office of Crosby & Dimick during the whole of the year 1883. For over two years the Continental employed an expert accountant of the name of Henry Dimick. Barker made a voluminous report, and nental his report was not offered in evidence by the Continental's counsel. Mr. Barker will be a witness against the Continental in the case now on trial and the officers of the Continental have been subpospec produce his work, which the Union intends to During the whole progress of the litigation, and during the whole of the year 1883, the Continental had in its employment, as a General Manager at lew York for its inland marine business, one witness by the Continental, for he has served his term in the State's prison on conviction of forgery on a plea of guilty. The counsel for the Union In al Insurance Company since 1883. One hundred and forty-two photographs of enthe Court, as the original books are at hand for it
