A Murderous Attack on Two Women.—At an early hour on Tuesday morning, 29th ult., James R. Meeks, an employe on the farm of Mr. Charles E. York, near Chase's Station, in the 12th District, made a murderous attack on Mrs. York, aged 38 years, and her mother, Mrs. Julia McClelland, aged 76 years, with an axe. Mrs. York was struck over the left eye with the blunt part of the axe and the skin was laid open to the bone, making a cut of about two inches. The blow was so severe that the jar broke her front teeth off and cut her tongue. It is supposed that she was Mrs. McClelland was struck by the same instru-ment in the same way over the right eye. The cut of Mrs. McClelland is not so long as that of Mrs. York, but the adjacent paris seem to be more burised. She too is supposed to have received but one blow. They were asleep in different rooms on the second floor. Mrs. York has no recollection of anything in connection with the affair. When the effect of the blow wore off she struggled out of bed and went into her mother's room.

to Baltimore a few hours after the commission of the act by Mr. Geo. H. Jones. He was taken to the Canton Police Station, where he said they made him work to hard. His features, general appearance, behavior and conversation mark him as of unsound mind. He is of slight build, has large, rabbit-like ears and a light sandy mustache. Though sunburnt, his face is pale on its upper half. No one would suspect Meeks of such a crime as the one with which he is charged. He looks mild and gentle, and was known in the section where he lived as "Simple Meeks." It is said however, that some time ago he cut a horse's tongue out for spite and that he has threatened the lives of persons. It is reported that the accused had made threats of killing Howard York, 13 years old, son of Mr. York, who has given him no cause of offense that anyone was aware of.

Howard slept in the hayloft during the latter part of the night, and he is thought to have thus escaped Meeks' axe. Dr. S. Viers Mace diessed the wounds of the injured women, and thinks they will recover unless blood-poisoning sets in.

Golden Wedding.—Mr. and Mrs. Gideon Herbert, of Towson, will celebrate their golden wedding on Saturday next, 9th inst. Mr. Herbert is 79 years old and his wife 70. They have 8 children, 3 sons and 5 daughters, viz: Messrs. Joseph B. Herbert, residing at Towson, who is a record clerk in the office of Mr. John W. Shanklin, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County; George N. Herbert, connected with the Adams Express Company, residing at Winchester, Va.: Charles E. Herbert, traveling for the Manufucturers' Record, Baltimore, residing at Roanoke, Va.; Mrs. Thomas Murray, Mrs. Alfred G. Lee, Mrs. George W. Hook, Mrs. John Bowen and Mrs. Charles Bowen. They have 40 grand and great-grand children. Mr. Herbert was originally from York county, Pa., but has lived in Baltimore county for over 50 years. Mrs. Herbert is from Catonsville, Baltimore county, where they lived for a number of years after marriage .-Twenty six years ago last spring Mr. Herbert came to Towson with Daniel Armstrong, Sheriff, and filled the position as Warden of the Jail. He also was Warden for Mr. John K. Harvey. He was also keeper of the Court House for a number of years. He has been a Justice of the Peace for Baltimore county for 40 years. This old couple have been remarkably healthy, having had but very little sickness during their lives. Their children also are all iale and hearty. On the day mentioned there will be a re-union of all the family at their residence. Towson, where no doubt there will be a joyful time, when this venerable couple will be enabled to go in and out among their children and grand and great grandchildren. It is hoped that this event may be pleasant to all parties concerned, and this happy couple may live a number of years to come. There will be an informal reception from 7 to 9 P. M., when any who wish to call on them can have the pleasure of doing so. Pennsylvania Steel Company keeps on pushing shead with all needed facilities for the speedy land are three sisters. There are six railway tracks laid for trucks to facilitate the quick delivery of ore, &c. The water end of the wharf will be filled with steam cranes and elevators for the quick delivery of freight. Dredging machines are at work deepening fitted with a patent coal conveyor for receiving coal from the cars and conveying it to steamers coaling at the point. It is able to convey the contents of a 25-ton car to the ship in thirty minutes. Rapid progress is being made by the Pennsylvania Steel Company in building the Bessemer mill. The steel framework is up and under root. This building is just north of the blast furnaces. The two blowing engines to operate the machinery of the Bessemer shipbuilding department will have independent machinery. Fifty dwelling-houses are going up near the shipbuilding works, which will be tenanted by employees of that branch of the company's business. A row of sixteen neat cottages are building on 1) street. About six brick houses for officers and clerks will soon be commenced in the western part of the town. The Williamsport and Chesapeake Lumber Company have just finished putting up a planing mill at Sparrow Point, to run in conjunction with the saw-mill. It is now receiving its machinery. The saw-mill has an output of 200,000 feet of lumber daily. How Mr. N. Mayes was Swindled .- At the hearing before Police Justice Hobbs in Baltimore, on the 26th ult., Mr. Nicholas Mayes, of Hereford, charged Wm. C. Sparks, of Hereford, in alding and abetting in defrauding him out of $400 in the saloon of Wm. Cohen on Gay Street, in Baltimore. Mr. Mayes stated that on the 14th he drew $400 out of the Old Town Bank. He was going down Gay street, and when opposite to Cohen's place, the old Green House on Gay street, above Front, Cohen whistled, and attracting Mayes attention, called him over. He was invited inside, and after a drink or two the sociability develoyed into a game of high die between Cohen and Mayes. Mayes states that the saloon-keeper got a good part of his money. Mayes was in the saloon for several hours, and after throwing dice and losing became monotonous, Mayes, pointing to Wm. C. Sparks, who was in the place, said: "There's a man you can't beat," and he got Sparks to go into a game of cards. Mayes furnished the money for Sparks. It was all outlay as far as the farmer was concerned. Mayes also charged that he gave Sparks a one-hundred dollar committed to jail in default of security to answer the charge.

The Late Mrs. De Speyr .- The remains of the late Countess Elizabeth De Speyr, of Paris, (formerly wife of the late William McDonald) arrived at Union Station on Monday afternoon 28th ult. at 3 o'clock and were taken in charge by Jenkins & Sons, undertakers. Later they were interred in the McDonald lot in Greenmount Cemetery. Only the immediate relatives of the deceased were present. The honorary pall-bearers were: Attorney-General William Pinkney Whyte, Joseph Whyte, Gustav Lurman, General Douglass II. Thomas, Dr. Charles H. Tilgnman and Charles F. Taylor. Services at the grave were, in the absence of Countess De Speyr's former pastor, Rev. J. T. Smith, of the Cen-tral Presbyterian Church, conducted by Rev. Arthur Chilton Powell, of Grace P. E. Church The deceased Countess was married at the Mount Vernon Hotel, in Baltimore, to Count De Speyr, a Swiss nobleman, in 1875. She was the daughter of the late William Thompson, and first married William McDonald. Two children were born to them—Samuel, who is dead, and Mrs. Raleigh W. Thomas. The latter, with her grandmother who is 80 years of age, are the sole survivors of their family.

A Wedding in New York .- The Rev. Randolph H. McKim. D. D., rector of the P. E. Church of the Epiphany, in Washington, D. C., was married in New York on the 26th ult. to Mrs. A. M. C. Brooke. circumstances, for which he was promoted and made a Lieutenant and Aid-de-Campon the staff of Brigadier-General Geo. H. Steuart. He delivered an able and interesting address at the last banquet of the Confederate Societies held in Baltimore in February last, which was published in the Joun-NAL shortly after. The Rev. Dr. is a son of the late John S. McKim, of Belvidere, Baltimore, and his numerous friends and comrades of the Confederate Societies in Maryland wish him all success and happiness in his new command.

Poor "Little Annie Rooney."-A firm in Baltimore is advertising a new song entitled "I Whistle and Wait for Katle," and states that it is a com-panion song to "Little Annie Rooney." The way "Little Annie" is whistled and sung and mouthorganed out here at Towson the past few weeks, is enough to disgust all lovers of music, and we hope we shall not be whistled to death by "I Whistle and we shall not be whistled to death by "I whistleand Wait for Katie." We hope Katie will come without being whistled for. We must say, however, that Capt. Burgoyne's Towson Band plays "Little Annie Rooney" exquisitely. At the witching hour of 11 P. M. when all is quite and peaceful, as the sweet strains float on the air, they lull one to gentle siumbers; and as the soul is wafted to dreamland, one imagines he hears it whilst he dreams he is settling through some elevium, where he is siumbers; and as the soul is wafted to dreamland, one imagines he hears it whilst he dreams he is sailing through some elysium, where he is surrounded with beautiful sweet angels of light with wings—and the first thing a fellow knows his wite kicks him on the shin and tells him to get up and make the fire for breakfast and not to lear there. make the fire for breakfast and not to lay there in the public estimation, and with them promises to give an entertainment unsurpassed for novelty, Hard Materials on Roads,-The County Commissioners on the 29th ult. made an agreement with Charles A. Councilman, of the 4th District, to have about 800 perch of stone broken up at a cost of $125. The stone had been hauled out on the Glyndon and Dover Roads without cost to the county, and the breaking and distribution of the stone over the road bed will cost more than the amount allowed, but parties interested in the improvement of the roads have agreed to do the balance of the work at their expense.

Mr. Councilman is a thorough believer in a permanent road system and goes in for macadamizing all the roads in his section. He says if the roads are properly made at the start and macadamized they will last for years without needing much additional repairs.

DEATH OF MR. JOHN S. TYSON BY DROWNING.

One of the saddest occurrences of the season was the accidental drowning of Mr. John S. Tysop. a well known and prominent member of the legal profession of Baltimore, and an esteemed and upright citizen in every sense of the word.
On Saturday evening, 28th ult., the deceased went to his place on the Gunpowder River, near Magnolia Station, on the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, where he for several years kept a small sail boat, and he started out to go fishing, when it is supposed the boat was capsized by a sudden squall. He must have been hurt in some sudden squali. He must have been hurt in some manner, as he was an excellent awimmer. The boat was found on Sunday moraing, bottom up, with mast sticking in the mud. The water was not more than six feet deep where the accident occurred and was not far from the shore. Information of the accident was telegraphed to Baltimore and inquiry developed the fact that Mr. Tyson's wife was at Beach Haven, New Jersey, and she was telegraphed to come home at once. The hody was telegraghed to come home at once. The body was recovered on Sunday night about 9 o'clock. The deceased was 53 years of age. He was born t Ellicott City, and was the only son of the late Judge John S. Tyson, of Howard county, who was one of the most eminent lawyers of his day, and practiced largely in Washington. His mother was Rachel Snowden, whose home was "Birmingham," near Laurel, Md. Both the Tysons and the Snowdens have been for many years among the most prominent families in Maryland, and their various descendants and branches now residing in various parts of the State are foremostamong its representative people. Dr. De Wilton Snowden and Jehn Snowden, of Laurel, are among his maternal relatives. Mr. John S. being in harmony with their efforts and labors, when from human standpoint that seems to be the celebrated by the people on "My Lady's Manor" in the woods belonging to the late Nicholas T. Hutchins, near St. James P. E. Church, on last Thursday, 24th ult., and was attended by a large number of old and young people from far and near.

The crowd would have been much larger had the weather prophet promised fair for that day, but he didn't. The festival, however, was a grand success and enjoyed by all. Among the reverend clergy present were Rev. Dr. Leakin, Rev. Mr. Chipchase, and Rev. Geo. K. Warner, Rector of St. James P. E. Church, all of whom made short addresses in honor of the occasion. St. James' choir sang a number of select pieces. Children of all ages and sizes were busy in playing games and exchanging pleasantries. There was a great abundance of ice cream and confections on the ground, much more than could be

In 1871 he received the orders of Knight 100d in Baltimore Commandery, and in 1878 was its Eminent Commander, and had been its prelate since He was elected Grand Captain General of the Grand Cammandery in 1871, Grand Generalissimo in 1882, and in the following year Deputy Grand Commander, serving one term. He received the degrees of the Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite to the thirtieth degree in the bodies working under the Supreme Council of the Southern jurisdiction and had remained unaffiliated since the surrender of the charters by those bodies in 1881.

As a Mason, he took high rank and was Deputy Grand Commander of the Grand Commandery of Maryland, going in that capacity to San Francisco, in 1:83, to the session of the Grand Conclave. He married twenty five years ago Miss Mary Roberts, a daughter of Leonard F. Roberts, of Chester county, Pa., and who was a near connec-

The old pier has been opinions in all things of strict integrity, and with opinions in all things of strict integrity, and with those who knew him was popular and greatly beloved. His legal practice was entirely in equity, and he did a large business in settling up estates and as an investment lawyer, which seldom brought him into court. He was a graduate of Princeton and of the Maryland Law University. For a period of twenty years he had been a close, personal and business friend of the editor of the Journal. He was true and steadfast in his riendship; brave in his belief of what was right and firm as adamant in his maintenance thereof.-In his business at the bar he never "crooked the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift might follow iswning," and despised cantand hypocrisy. He was gentle and loveable in his nature, and never woun-ded the feelings of any one, but was tender and sympathetic.

Mr. Tyson's funeral took place from his residence. No. 918 Cathedral street, and was attended by his associates at the bar and by the Masonic bodies, of which he had been for many years a distinguished member. The remains were in a black cloth-covered casket, with oxydized silver trimmings, and were not exposed to view. The floral tributes were very handsome, among them being a large floral apron, with a Past Grand Master's jewel, from the Grand Lodge of Maryland; a very large and handsome wreath, from the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar: a large Maltese cross, from Baltimore Commandery, Knights Templar, and others. The service at the residence was read by Rev. Richard K. Grahame, Assistant Rector of Christ P. E. Church, and at Loudon Park Cemetery, where the interment was made, by the Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Maryland, General Thomas J. Shryook, and Rev. Henry Branch, Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge, with responses by the Grand Officers and others of the Order. Rev. M. Branch delivered a short, but tender and feeling address at the grave. AN BICURSION HORBOR. 14 Persons Milled and Drowned

On Monday night, 26th uit., the Tolchester excursion steamer, with 1,450 people on board, while in the Patapaco River near Fort Carroll came into collision with the Bay-line steamer Virginia. In an instant the merry crowd on the excursion steamer were stricken with an awful panic and trampled each other under foot in their efforts to get out of each other's way. It is said that some of the women became so frightened that they jumped overboard and were enguised in the waters of the Patapaco. There were three persons killed by the two steamers crashing into each other, as follows: Mrs. Catharine M. Kaiser, Daniel Kopp, aged 11 years, and Charles Gronzer, an infant, who was in a baby-carriage, and a large number were more or less inriago, and a large number were more or less in-jured. There are 11 persons reported missing, as

Harry Kopp, aged 9 years.
Harry Kopp, aged 9 years.
William Beigel, aged 11 years.
The statements made by the Captains of the steamers is as follows: Capt. W. J. Bohannan, of the steamer Virginia, says: "We left Canton for Norfolk at 7.53 o'clock Monday evening. When abreast of Fort Carroll we sighted a three-masted schooner hound for Baltimore a little on one part box." I put bound for Baltimore a little on our port bow. I put the wheel aport to clear the schooner. I saw a steamer coming up behind the schooner. The steamer blew two whistles, starboarded her wheel and showed her green light broad. I immediately stopped, and backed the Virginia full speed, and gave several short blasts of my whistle as a warning or danger signal to the steamer, which made no re-ply. I couldn't change my course in response to the approaching steamer's two whistles, because the schooner was under my port bow.
"The collision occurred about 8.11 o'clock, on the starboard quarter about the after gangway. I had very little headway at the time the Louise struck me. The latter boat was then going at a pretty good clip. I had all the small boats swung out ready for use. I hatled the Louise and asked to know if I could send asked to know if I could render any assistance. The response came back "No!" Having heard this I looked after my own damage. Finding the stem of the Virginia twisted around to the starboard I immediately returned to Baltimore. The forward compartment was filled with water. "There was no excitement to speak of aboard my ship. I was in the pilot-house when the collision occurred, which was when we were about one minute below Fort Carroll. When I first saw the Louise's lights she was one mile away. When I saw her green light I turned to my mate, John Mason, and said: 'She (the Louise) cannot cross my bow,' then stopped my boat, backing at full speed.'

"The Virginia wasn't started for her wharf till after the excursion steamer had left the scene of the collision. The weather was good and it would have been possible to see a light four or five miles. "How soon after the collision did you ask the Louise if she needed help?" inquired a reporter. "I presume that it was four or five minutes later," was the reply. "I stopped the Virginia," continued the Captain,
"close under the bow of the schooner, which I have heard was the Yale, in order to avoid a collision with the steamer. By so doing I risked being run When the Louse and the Virginia came together.

Capt. Bohannan stated, many people rushed toward the Virginia. One man, a woman and a boy climbed

"I did all that mortal man could do to prevent a collision. I have been 20 years in the service, and would do exactly the same things over again as I did to-night, for they were exactly what any other Captain would have done in my position," When Capt. Bohannan saw the schooner referred to the Virginia was heading southeast by south one quarter south. He ported his wheel, he says, threequarters of a point.

Capt. James H. Truit, of the Louise, said: "We left Tolchester at 7 o'clock, with about 1500 people on board. When we came near Fort Carroll, at 8 on board. We then blew it twice again. This the minus of railroad at Point Breeze, to Highland Virginia answered with two whistles, following quickly with several blasts at 100 yards distance.— We starboarded to keep her off and took a northwesterly direction, but as the Virginia was running at a rate of 12 miles an hour and was but 100 yards away, I, fearing to stop my boat, lessened the speed. When she struck us, which was about three minutes after answering our second whistle, she broke into the starboard side about 25 feet from the stern. I was then in the pilot-house.

Consternation and terror prevailed, and it was a hard matter to keep the people forward so as to raise the stern and prevent the water from coming in. After the collision the Virginia came alongside, asked if we could move on and volunteered assistance. At the same time the tug Mamie came up, but neither could help us and after returning. but neither could help us any, and after returning to the scene of the collision to look after any persons who might be overboard, and seeing none, we con-tinued our upward course, stopping at Henderson's, where some of the passengers got off, and then came up to Baltimore on time.

A light lunch was provided, and after a short practice the game was called, in which the Sparks Club was victorious, by a score of 32 to 2. The Duker brothers, of Baltimore, were the battery for the Lumber Exchange, and Stocksdale and R. M. Isaac for the Sparks Club. There was a large attendance of the youth and beauty of the neighborhood, many of whom are summer visitors, who evinced a great deal of interest in the game and became quite enthusiastic over the fine game and became quite enthusiastic over the fine points made by individual players in the game. At the ending of the game Mr. Underwood entertained both clubs and a large number of visitors with a royal supper, and the visitors all agree in saying that "he is a jolly good fellow."

An Engine House Secured .- The County Commissioners on the 26th ult. made an excellent arrangement with Mr. T. C. Linzey, of Towson, for the use of his livery stable to be used as an engine house and stable for the chemical engine provided for Towson and vicinity. The stable which is a substantial brick building, is on East Pennsylvania Avenue, in the centre of the town, and is just the room, and a like sized room above, where the men can sleep. The lower room is sufficiently large to coutsin both the chemical engine and the truck of ladders now here. The ladder truck is to be put in complete repair. There is also ample room for the Board in providing the county seat with a chemical engine. It is the test they can do for us. Thes engines have proved their effectiveness at fires which have not attained too much headway and even at large confiagrations they are eminently useful in saving adjoining property. We are satisfied that had there been a chemical engine at Towson at all the heavy fires here, they could have horoughly competent man as Captain in charge of

With difficulty he got his wife and two small children out of the burning building. Mr. Knight lost about half of his household effects. There was an insurance on the house but not enough to meet the loss.

Mr. Jacob Murdew came near meeting with a sewith the Club at that place, instead of which the game turned out to be a regular game of growl, and the treatment accorded the Towson boys was not such as is usually laid down in the polite code, and the game was called by the umpire at the 8th inning with a score of 4 to 3 in favor of the Towsons. It looked very much as if the Mt. Washington Club intended to intimidate the visiting club by a show of brawn and muscle, but owing to some of the members of the Mt. Sheep Torn by Dogs.—On Wednesday morning Soth ult. Mr. George Vickery, who occupies the Shaefer Estate on the Pimlico Boad, about one and a-half miles from Mt. Washington, found that dogs had raided his sheep fold during the night and killed one of them outright, literally tearing it to pieces, and had hurt, more or less, nearly all the balance of his flock, (31 in number) among them an imported ram for which he paid $200. He estimaten his loss at over $200. It is a nity, indeed, that tes his loss at over $200. It is a pity, indeed, that people will keep a set of worthless dogs about the country to cause so much loss and destruction to their neighbors. A little heroic remedy in the shape of strychnine would be of benefit to the com munity about Mr. Vickery's neighborhood.
