The road is again in full operation and both passengers and freight are being moved, and in a few days all will again be in successful tide. Mr. Powderly has been in consultation with the chief officers of the Knights of Labor, and it is said a strike will be ordered over the entire system of the New York Central. If this occurs there will be lively times.

----BALTIMORE COUNTY FAIR.

There are two events of the Baltimore County Fair which should attract particular attention, that of the Elk Ridge Club races on the first day and the Bicyle meet on the second day. The Eikridgers are celebrated for their fine riding, and being all gentlemen to the manor born have hosts of friends, especially lady friends, who will doubtless shed their bightest smiles upon that occasion. The Bicycle meet will also be a unique affair. It will be the best contest ever held in the State, the first, in fact, of any importance. Both these events should attract immense audiences, and will be devoid of the "professional" part so much objected to by a large number of our citizens. CYCLONE AT WILKESBARRF, PA

On Tuesday afternoon 19th inst. a terrible cyclone visited Wilkesbarre, a mining town of Pennsylvania, by which 12 persons were killed and property destroyed to the amount of $1,000,-000. Four hundred buildings were unroofed and many of them completely demolished. The scenes were terrible, people crushed in their own dwellings, and running out into the streets to be crushed by falling walls and timbers from houses. There is much destitution but it is being provided for by the people in that latitude. To add to the destruction rain poured down all night, which rendered the situation pitiable in the extreme. The Correspondent is one of the ablest German papers in the United States and is presided over by Col. Fred. A Waste of Weather-An Agricultural Suggestion-Scene on Charles Street-Certain Powerful Sermons — German Cathelic Convention-Col. Love's Welcome-Editor Stead on the Church of Rome-Cardinal Newman's Starting Point - Greatness

Without Power. BALTIMOBE, August 22d, 1890. If dollars and cents were produced by the same means and methods as are corn and potatoes, the present season would probably bring us a fine crop of funds. Or if we possessed trees or gardens, or anything else which could be cultivated upon agricultural principles, we would have every prospect of flourishing results therefrom, for we have just the sort of weather that is conducivo to desirable vegetative processes. A warm, moist, cloudy day i followed by one of copious rains, and then we have several days of bright, hot sunshine; and then, with slight variations the program is re-It seems a pity that so much golden sunshine connot be transmuted into coin, and that our stocks are not such as the rain will water. Or, at least, that we cannot ship some of our propitious weather to the impecunious farmers who would know how to utilize it to the advancement of their fortunes, and would surely bring us some sort of provender in return

It appears, too, like a great waste for all these precious rains to fall only upon roofs of wood and tin, or upon the stones of the streets, none of which can be fertilized thereby. But then how else could the roofs and the streets be washed, and the air be cleared of the dust that infests it, if these down-pours from the heavens did not visit us once in awhile? Only, if the streams from the spouts and the gutters could be conveyed to the country, afterwards, by some sort of a "pipe-line," instead of being allowed to run into the river, where there is water enough already, the arrangement would be a much more satisfactory one. Such reflections excite a suspicion that our civilization may still be very far in the background, even after all we have achieved. Though there may be, even in its defects, some good which is not plainly discernible upon the surface. It often happens so. For example. Two persons going down Charles street, the other morning, saw a forlorn old woman who sits on the street waiting for alms from the passers by, a more miserable spectacle than anyone would willingly behold. Said one: "How shocking! What earthly purpose does such a creature serve? She canplace on Thursday, 21st inst., near Oregon, in a field on not doing anything whatever, and is of no use the place of Mr. Tolly Worthington. The affair was in the world. 'Why cumbereth she the ground?' ''

At that moment a hard-featured man going by stooped and dropped a coin into the old woman's tin cup, and quietly passed on.

"There," said the other one, "you have your answer. The wretched creature does an important work. She harrows up the soil of pelfish souls. And she earns a thousand times more than she gets for what she accomplishes went on until the rain washed out the festivities.

in the line of expanding human sympathies. and putting into practical effect some of our fine theories about universal brotherhood, and the rest of it. She preaches more powerful sermons than Sam Jones, though they are not so amusing as his, and she does not make quite so much money out of them. But the work that she does in silently compelling people to choose between the softening and the hardening of their hearts is something fearful to contem-

All of which may be true; yet is none the less so that such lessons as she teaches us come to us in a very distasteful guise. We prefer to be taught in a different sort of style, in these days. And we think the ounce of prevention, in cases of human misery, much more desirable than any number of pounds cure would be. And, therefore, we cordially endorsed the welcome which Col. Love, acting for Mayor Davidson, extended, to the benevolent German Catholic Central Association when it assembled here, last Sunday, for the purpose of holding its 35th annual Convention. This great gathering represents 500 different societies, scattered over our land, with a membership of 40,000; and the organization disbursed, last year, more than $200,000 in providing for the widows and orphans who would the latter, that if only $300 is paid in by A, the balotherwise have been reduced to the unpleasant ance of $700 must be contributed by X, Y and Z, nevertheless thousands are drawn into the net state of destitution before mentioned. So this worthy Convention deserved to be welcomed, and appliauded! to be paraded, and feted, and But while it was very natural for Col. Love to say lovely things to these beneficent visitors, some little surprise has been expressed that he that he should refer to the time when "the Province of Maryland was the only place on God's green earth where a man was permitted to worhip God according to the dictates of his owes to the people, to submit the propriety of its own conscience;" and equally of course, he action in the discharge of any of its employees to could not avoid mentioning the fact that besides paying their share of the school-tax, the Catholics of this city bear the whole expense of educating their own 13,000 children, or saving to our tax-payers of nearly $300,000. But his very strong compliments, besides, were not quite acceptable to everybody. When he comes to be actual, instead of acting, Mayor, however, he will have grown wiser, perhaps.

The day has gone by, though, when even the most intolerant of Protestants can be stupid enough to despise the vast body of Christains who claim to be the Church Catholic. Two hundred millions of human beings massed in one cause must be a great power. As a recent writer upon Catholicism says: "Those who have to deal with the real and living forces of the world cannot ignore the incommands." "The dominion of Rome was more than a thousand years old before the first offers endless topics of interest for study. And, "this great moral force, with its princes in every capital, and its priests in every village, is no longer regarded as an enemy to be crushed, so much as an ally whose assistance cannot with safety be dispensed with in the great task of ameliorating the condition of Such are the statements of the radical British editor, Wm. T. Stead, who confesses that "by heredity, by education, and by the associations and habits of a life-time," he is "cut off, as by a mental and moral abyss, from the Church o The death of Cardinal Newman, last week was another event which turned the attention of thinking people toward the claims of this Church, which rules over more than three times the number of the inhabitants of the United States, as returned by the recent census. A reviewer says: "The religious history of the century has had no more interesting person than Dr. Newman." And he was too well and too widely known for his history to be repeated here. But it may be mentioned that his case is an exemplification of the charge that it is the Evangelicals who become converts from Anglicanism to Rome. We have heard a great deal, in modern times, about the Ritualists being on the road to Rome; but we see that all of them do not go over; and when a chance few do, investigators say that they are not original High-church men, but enthusiasts from the evangelical ranks. And, at any rate, this is true in Cardinal Newman's case. His Eminence was certainly a great man; but as such it seems strange that his power for good was not greater. It has been said of him that he proved to be rather a warning than an example. For by his teaching that the choice lay only between Rome and atheism he drove more to "liberalism" than he drew to Rome; as is proved by the fact of the persistent increase of liberalism, not only in educational institutions, but in the churches. And, sad to say, he appears to have foreseen some such result from his secession. He will live in history; but more on account of the beauty and polish of his writings than from his ability to sway the souls of men.

LOCAL NEWS. The Question of Toll-Roads .- It cannot be regarded other than an unfortunate circumstance that all the principal thoroughfares leading into altimore are owned by turnpike companies,-Whoever rides on them, therefore, in a wagon, carriage, or even upon the noiseless bicycle, must pull up at the toll-gate and pay the inevitable two cents mile. There is no exemption, except that the dead can take the last ride in the funeral hearse without paying toll, but the living friends of the deceased who ride in the procession, or the drivers of the vehicles, must pay the usual fee, heartless and unreasonable as the collection of such reve-But with every annexation of contiguous terri tory the turnpike and its toll-gates are brought within the city limits to carry on an increased and profitable business. our day, and in the majority of the States were long ago legislated out of existence. Turnpike con panies are organized and managed to make money, and never to provide good roads. In some instanes the thoroughfares are kept in passable condiion, but experience shows that the corporations take little thought about constructing excellent highways, and have much anxiety about collecting fares, paying dividends on stock and establishing a reputation among capitalists for having a most "judiciously-conducted business." This is all well enough from the money or investment side of the question, but on the side of public convenience and comfort it amounts to an unmitigated nuisance. The subject of road improvement is attracting great attention in Maryland, and the the turnpikes and turn over these roads to the care of the local authorities. To accomplish this result it will probably be cessary to do one of three things. The turnpikes can be purchased by the State, their charters can be revoked on breach of contract, or they can be ruined by opening parallel roads. The first expedient would be most advantageous to the companies, the second to the State, while the third, perhaps, would suit the public best. So far as the municipal government is concerned, the latter method is to be commanded. It would be wise to pen avenues on each side of every toll-road entering the city. Then the toll gates can be avoided and when stripped of its revenue can be easily dis-This subject is one which ought to receive the early attention of local improvement associations in the Annex and the county, and some scheme devised to rid the city of the unsightly and oppressive toll-gate. - Battimore Morning Herald, 18th.

THE SO-CALLED BOND AND INVEST-MENT COMPANIES. The Latest Form of the General Reid Greed Upon Gullibility.

The above are the head-lines of a careful review of Bond and Investment Companies now in existence in Baltimore city and extending their operations in Baltimore county, taken from the columns of that able insurance journal, the Baltimore Un. derwriter, presided over by Dr. C. C. Bombaugh as editor. The article which follows so thoroughly explains the operations of these companies that we copy it entire, so as to place them fully before the readers of the Journal, to the end that their need be no necessity for any citizen of Baltimore county being deceived thereby. The Underwriter's article is as follows:

"The structure and purpose of the delusive and pernicious organization known as the Iron Hali are well understood by the readers of this journal. Whatever the expressed agreement of this mercenary scheme, the implied expectation is that by the payment of three hundred dollars in the course of seven years, each member is to receive one housand dollars. Obvious as it is that such a scheme can only realize superior profits for some certificate-holders at the expense of others, that the gain of the former is derived from the loss of under the vague illusion that lapses will be fre quent, that the new blood of new dupes and victims will continue to pour in, and that the ark of safety will shelter themselves before the deluge of naturing liability overwhelms the Order.

As might be presumed, a scheme so corrupting, and so well devised to speedily enrich those on the ground floor, the few who hold the "founders' some intro surprise has been prolife of similarly fashioned land the Roman faith, and its institutions, so freely as he did. It was, of course, inevitable that he should refer to the time when "the land the courty are invited to be present at the County Fair are silly enough to allow themselves to be entered and in the county are invited to be present at the County Fair are silly enough to allow themselves to be entered, has been prolife of similarly fashioned at Timonium on Friday, September 6th. If they do not chose to enter the band contest there will be no charge for admission to either of them. shares," at the expense of the many gudgeons who sponsible for the outgrowth of a large amount speculative enterprise at the hands of reckless ad enturerers. To accommodate the greenhorn class and encourage them to bring grist to the mill, some of the gamblers have shortened the time for investment and realization of "profits" from seven and ten year periods to triennial and annual periods; from the Septennial and Sexennial; Leagues, they have jumped downward to the National Three Year Benefit Order, and finally to the Mutual One Year Benefit Order.

and manners of a gentleman might attach his name to the list of the kite-flyers, more especially if he is one of the wise ones who know a winning card when they see it. The new adventure, which is already rapidly multiplying in this and other cities, is a co-operative investment which usurps the word BOND as the prominent or characteristic part of its designation. It deals in instalment bonds, issued in denominations of $100, $500, and $1,000. The payments are arranged upon the following basis, which we copy from prospectuses before us: Amount. Premium. 5.00 2.00 Default in payment involves forfeiture of all that may have been paid in, but regularity in paying the monthly instalment and the quarterly dues en-titles certificate-holders to redemption of their bonds within stated periods, or terms of years, in numerical order, if so and so occurs, or when so and so occurs, as detailed in the circulars. Some of these concerns lay great stress on lapses, and try to make it appear that the "large" amount of money which is thus forfeited goes to persistent bondholders, and so hastens the period of redemption as to make the speculative investment highly profitable. One of the Philadelphia companies goes so far as to say that it "will pay no bonds out of the moneys of the other bondholders." This transparent lie will deceive no one who has looked into the matter. Elsewhere the projectors take no pains to conceal the purpose of those who are first and foremost in "nu merical order" to redeem their own shares with the money of other bondholders. That is what they are after; that is the milk in the cocoa nut. And t is essential to their success to hurry up. Is it sup posable that they are ready and willing to wait five years or seven years for their percentage of the "swag?" One of the most pretentious of the prospectuses before us prints tables to show the amount due and payable at the redemption of bonds for the three series, A, B, and C. The first-the $1,000 series—is as follows:

Series A, $1,000, if redeemed During 1st year..... $ 750 00 800 00 850 00 900 00 950 00 Observe that in Series A the cutire payments for the first year are as follows: Premium, $10; monthly installments, $48; quarterly dues, $4; total, $62. The difference between actual payment, $62, and he amount of intended and clearly forshadowed edemption within the first year, $750, is $688,-Where is this $638 to come from, if not "out of the moneys of other bondholders?" Is there any lapsing worth speaking of during the first year. Is it pretended that forfeitures amount to anything the first year? The queer part of this grab game is that methods in their printed circulars. They seem determined to act upon the Tailey andian principle, audace, toujours l'audace. In looking over the literature of our Baltimore companies we are puzzled to find among the pro noters names of gentlemen who stand high in the usiness community. As usual in such cases, the game is the more insidious and dangerous. One of the prospectuses says: "The company's affairs are administered by a directory of business men of our city, whose interests are too large, influence too extended, and responsibility too well recognized to permit any other than the most cautious and conservative management." Granting their high character, the question arises, why do they not main-tain it in its full integrity, why not stick to their legitimate businesss, why go out of their usual way to bait their hooks to catch the class of fools hat so easily part with their money Among the managers of some of these concerns here and elsewhere, are names of men who would resist with horror and disgust a proposition to run a faro bank, or become conductors of a lottery.— Yet if the question be one of fair dealing, it seems to us that fairness is on the side of the bank and the lottery. Sometimes by the turn of the tide o luck, they are beaten or broken, but in this bond contrivance the projectors and organizers hold the trump cards. No matter who loses, they are sure to win. They encourage the gambling propensity by holding out the promise of $1,000 at the end of a five-year period in return for small periodical pay ents amounting to a total of $810, knowing wel that no ratio of lapse will make up the difference, and that that difference cannot be honestly earned. And when the day of judgment comes, as comes it must, and as it is rapidly coming to the Iron Hall, they will find that such feeble cheeks and guard as ifs and buts and whens and other provisos wil not fortify them against the rising storm of wrath. THE MONITOR COMBINATION SLAT AND WIRE FENCE. In addition to the above we add herewith an 'Article of Agreement" for the erection of what is stated as the "Monitor Combination Slat and Wire Fence," in the 2d Precinct of the 10th District of Baltimore county, made between a certain J.
