THE CONGRESSIONAL CANVAS.

The Philadelphia Times daily strikes trenchant blows at the oppressiveness of the Mc-Kinley Tariff bill. Some Republican newspapers affect to make it appear that the tariff is not a question in the present campaign. The morning of the 5th of November (next Tuesday a week) will show them that it is; and it will continue to be a question, and a serious one, too, until the people change the political personnel of the government in all its branches. that the incubus of an unnecessarily high tariff may be removed and the people relieved of its burdens. They willingly bear the reasonable burdens of their government, but at the same time they want all unnecessary luggage taken off. They are like Christian in Pilgrim Progress-they want to feel their bundle of sin drop off. The House of Representatives, President and Senate, must change before this load will drop off. Christian has a toilsome time before him before he can be relieved. The Republican monopolists must have their pound of flesh before they surrender-in fact, they never will surrender. They are like the bot, cling until forced off by the medicine of rebuke from the people. The Democracy must commence by again taking possession of the House of Representatives, and hold it. Then in 1892 they must secure the Presidency. The next step-the Senate-will be the most difficult. The Republicans having added to the roll of States a number of Western "rotten boroughs," it will be easy for the millionaire Senators and other millionaire monopolists acting with them to literally buy up those "rotten boroughs," and thus endeavor to hold on to their ill-gotten power. The only hope is in the patriotism of the people, who never fail when once aroused. The people now see what the McKinley Tariff bill is doing for them. The ink of the signatures which made the law operative is scarcely dry ere the prices of every article used by the people is raised, and will continue to go.up. The commonest necessaries of life feel it most, because the millions of poor people, who can scarcely keep body and soul together at their present rate of wages, feel it first and hardest. If their wages went up in corresponding degree as the tariff raised prices, it would not be so bad, but. alas! this is not the case. But didn't the Republicans promise that the wages of the laborer would go up if the tariff should be increased. Of course they did. But what do they care for promises. By absolute lying they outwitted thousands of voters and thus secured the Presidency. They then went to work to deliberately oust ten Democrats who had been elected to Congress and put Republicans in their places By this means they secured a bare majority and under whip and spur passed the Tariff bill. This was the pound of flesh demanded by the tariff barons. "Now you must pass the Force bill," say they, "in order to keep contro of the government that we may continue to receive our pound of flesh for which we paid by our subscriptions of hundreds of thousands of dollars to buy up 'blocks of five.' " This i the issue, fellow-citizens. Will you not meet it and give it a quietus? Of course you will in Maryland. It is hoped an unbroken delegation of Democrats will be sent to the 52d Congress from Maryland. The Democrats will be largely augumented in the next House.-

An Elequent Speech by Hon. Isidor Rayner on Tuesday Night 21st in Baltimore. At a Democratic mass meeting held at China Hall, 13th Ward, in the Fourth Congressional District. Baltimore, Hon. Isidor Rayner delivered a splendid address. After paying his respects to Robbespiere Roed in his infamous course, he referred to the contested case of White, from Indiana, and compared it to the unseating of Democrats in the present Con-

this: To-day ten Democrats, upon the feeblest, flimsiest pretexts, are turned down in the House with no more mercy than would have been ten-dered to a brute who had intruded on the aisles.— Cate, with 1,300 majority; Turpin, with 13,000 majority; Breckenridge, with no contestant for his seat, and Wise and Venable, and Compton and Elliott, and Jackson and Pendleton, all driven from their seats upon the perjured testimony of sub-orned witnesses. I tell you that the apparition of these victims will haunt the dreams of the tyrant who banished them as did the victims of Richard haunt his dreams upon the fatal night of Bosworth's "You expect me to maintain silence upon thes matters, my reverential friend? [Refering to "Rev. Royall H. Pullman, the Republican candidate the Third District, Mr. Rusk's.] You ask me to re main amiable and affectionate while the acorpic scourge is being piled upon the lacerated feelings of my countrymen? When the slave master in charge of the House, with a lash in his hand, proclaimed at a Belshazzar's feast in Pittsburg that he would revolutionize our political system and would enact a law that would allow his party to corrupt and steal its own majorities, you expect me to fawr and cringe instead of standing up erect and throw ing down the gauntlet of deflance to him and all his ribald crew that ply their cars through polluted waters? Oh, never! I am as mild a mannered man as ever raised a flag of truce, but I would never even parley with your minions upon the terms of this surrender. [Applause.] "I would let the pirate's flag go up, and I would let you feel in every Southern home which, you propose to poison with this infected legislation that ou shall receive no mercy where you do not give it and that you can expect no quarter where you do not show it; you have given us Jedwood Justice you have first executed, then you have investigated and lastly you have accused; now we will live with you under your Draconian Code, and if the coming House of Representatives is Democratic, as it will surely be, then, Mr. Reed, when the proo comes in that by corrupting your constituency your district has been pilfered, will send you back disgraced and branded as you have sent so many there back who were guilty of no crime excep f differing with you in their political conviction. [Applause.]

"Now, my friends, I have given you my diagnosis of the trouble. What is the remedy? This is no time for homopathic doses. The vital organs of the republic are affected, and the most heroic measures are required to relieve them. This is n time to loiter in a suttler's camp, the place is in the ranks. For a quarter of a century the Democratic sentiment of this land has been forced to march with a leaden heel, but it is now prepared to strike with an iron hand. In Pennsylvania the ground is trembling and an enormous corruption fund is being scattered to the winds before an advancing host that Quay cannot corrupt and that the Came rons cannot purchase. The Democracy that follows our intrepid leader there is not for sale. "In Ohio McKinley is shivering in the storm tha his hands have fanned about him, and Campbell with as valiant troops behind him as ever breathed the fire of battle, is in fearless tone proclaiming that the man who dare pollute the suffrage of his State must do so with the prison gates unlocked be-fore him. Where is Maryland in this fight? Are we straggling in the rear and do we propose to send a broken delegation to the halls of Congress, or shall we present an unbroken and united front to an unbroken and united foe? Shall we slumber on in unconcern while the fires that are raging around us are threatening our heritage and tradi-tions, or shall we look across our borders and lead our sister commonwealths to victory? Thrice is he armed who bath his quarrel just. "My friends, this is a great crisis through which we are passing. Take it at the flood and it wil lead us on to fortune. The gates are gone, the barriers are down, and the steadfast tide of public opinion is rolling on. Upon this tide the ship of State is mounted. There is a pilot at the helm; in state is mounted. There is a pilot at the heim; in silence he is steering through the night, but he is making for the shore, and when our anchor is cast in the House of Representatives listen to what I predict—that the nane of Cleveland—[great applause]—will flutter from the flag, because he is the living exemplification of the living principles of Democracy. [Applause]. A free, untrammeled ballot is the thing. By that sign we shall conquer, and the thing. By that sign we shall conquer, and when the result discloses a Democratic majority shred nor fragment of them need be feared, because I tell you, with all the sincerity and all the earnestness that I feel, that no future Democratic House will ever make an appropriation to carry out this bill; and holding, as it will, the purse strings of the nation under Democratic supremacy, not a dollar shall be filched or stolen from the Treasury to put into execution a single clause of this infamous plot against our sovereign rights." [Applause

THE ELECTION LAW CONSTITU-TIONAL. orry Tactics of Maryland Republicans s o the Australian Ballot Law.

For two or three years past Independent Democrats, Republicans, and generally all persons opposed to the Democratic party, clamored for what is known as the Australian Ballot law, claiming that it would insure honest elections, and that voters could not be intimidated when they came to vote, from the fact that each voter would be in secret when he received the official ballot and could vote as his conscience might dictate. To satisfy these claims, at the last session of the Legislature a fair Australian ballot law was passed. At the session alluded to above the Republican legislators gushed a great deal about "honest ballot," "fair count," and all that kind of political battle cry, but at the same time they were fillibustering, as they were not certain how the law would leave them.

A month or two after the Legislature had adjourned it was bruited about that the Republicans intended to test the constitutionality of the law, laying their grounds upon the point that Governor Jackson did not sign the law in proper time, it having been signed four days after the adjournment of the Legislature. The Republicans then got up a case, it being an appeal from a pro forma order of the Circuit Court for Somerset county, the case being Clarence Lankford and others against the County Commissioners of Somerset county to compel the Commissioners to make the appointment of Judges of Election in each of the election Districts of that county. The case was ably argued on Thursday, Fri day and Saturday of last week by ex-Judge Wm. A. Fisher and Attorney-General Whyte on behalf of the constitutionality of the law. On Tuesday the majority of the Court announced its decision, sustaining the constitutionality of the law, Chief Judge Alvey preparing and announcing the opinion. Judges Robinson and Irving dissented.

No other dodge is now left the Republicans and they are compelled to vote under the law. They seem to be monstrously afraid of its provisions as far as their votors are concerned. THE BURDEN OF TAXATION.

Is there a farmer or workingman in Baltimore county who will, by his vote for a Repubican candidate at the Congressional election, voice his sentiment in favor of the odious and heavy tax that is now laid upon the poor man by the infamous McKinley bill, which is the most oppressive and monstrous tax ever laid upon any people on the face of the globe? It is the bounden duty of every man in the community to show his sense of rebuke to the unscrupulous partizan measures of the Republican party by casting their vote in November in opposition thereto. Read the long list of taxes aid on the multitude in the McKinley bill, which was passed under a violent stress laid upon the party members by the coterie of Republican leaders who encompassed the defeat of Cleveland by money contributed by the monopolists, trusts and combines at the last Presidential election. Take these things home and see if you are going to weaken the Democratic majority in Baltimore county by any lukewarmness in the contest on the 4th of ceived.

BALTIMORE CITY COUNCIL.

The City Council of Baltimore re-assembled on Monday night, 20th inst. Among the improvements ordered was an ordinance for the widening of Fayette street from Calvert to Liberty. Mr. A. B. Mullet, one of the best-known architects of Washington, and for many years | annual election of officers was held with the Supervising Architect of the Treasury Depart. | following result: ment, shot himself on Monday evening 20th at his residence. He had been in poor health for a long time, suffering from rheumatic and other complaints, but it is thought that financial trouble was the chief cause of Mr. Mullet's act. On Monday evening he was feeling poorly and his wife went down stairs to get him some beef tea. She had hardly reached the foot o the stairs when she heard a pistol shot, and, rushing back, found her husband gasping for "Now." said he, "look upon that picture and upon breath, with the blood oozing from a wound in campment, No. 16. his head. Billy Henderson, of Post Office Detective The Board of Election Supervisors of Baltimore city having recognized the Council candidates of the Johnson or Budnitz City Committee, their names will be placed on the official ballots to be used on the day of election. If Billy wants to get his candidates before the people he will have to organize a new party. But Billy will not do anything of that kind he'll bide his time and try to get into the Postmaster's wool some other time and some other way. Billy is astute, having learned that faculty when in the employ of the Post Office Department. But his nose is out of joint now.

IT WILL KILL THE KNIGHTS. It is reported that Mr. Powderly, Grand Master Workman, will submit to the order, t be decided by ballot, whether the Knights of Labor shall form a political party. The Grand Master Workman is a sensible gentleman, and as he is known to possess influence among the Knights it is hoped he will dissuade them from such suicidal attempt. The Knights of Labor s too important a body of men to be sunk out of sight by attempting to make it pose as a political party. That would be the last feather which would break the camel's back.

TO GRIND THE POOR. The tax laid by the McKinley Tariff Bill upon building materials has discriminated so unjustly that all the materials entering into the construction of houses of the lower price pay the greater tax, while the fancy articles and materials needed for the construction of the palaces of the millionaire manufacturers and monopolists are so slight as to be scarcely felt. In the face of this unjust discrimination and burden of taxation will any mechanic farmer or laboring man cast his vote to perpetuate this infamous act.

AN AFFECTING INCIDENT. The body of William Sprague, who killed himself with a pistol in the West last week, was brought to Canonchet, Rhode Island, where the funeral services took place. On one side of St. Peter's P. E. Church sat ex-Governor Sprague and his wife with the little daughter of the dead son. On the other side sat Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, the ex-Governor's former wife, with her two daughters. Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague was greatly overcome with emotion, and had to be comforted by lady friends who were with her. There was no recognition whatever between the ex-Governor and his former wife and their families. When the body was being removed from the church, the ex-Governor promptly arose and followed immedjately after the casket. Mrs. Kate Chase Sprague, it was thought was about to do the same thing, but the action of the ex-Governor prevented. She remained in her pew, and as soon as the funeral cortege moved off she entered her carriage and was driven away, going past the hearse. She did not see the face of her dead son as she had expected. It was sad, indeed, and shows to what end domestic felicity can be brought. Who can tell the anguish in both hearts? "ORIGINAL PACKAGE" DECISION Judges Phelps and Foster of the Circuit Court of Kansas having decided that the Wilson law of Kansas was inoperative in so far as it affects the sale of liquors in "original packages," saloons were opened at once in all the they can do with the liquor business is to have a high license law. It is a well known fact all times in every city and large town in that State. No license being paid for its sale, the dealers make more money out of it. To be sure the risk is great, but the profits are correspondly great. "Speak easy's" are a thousand per cent. worse than a licensed saloon. A high license would bring in a large revenue, which could be used in the conduct of the government and thus reduce taxes. People will have liquors no matter what stringent laws may be passed to prevent them. The indiscriminate sale of liquors is no doubt a great evil. So is theft of all kinds, gambling, houses of ill fame, &c., &c., but have either one of them been stopped or broke up by the law either National or State? High license betters the condition of things decidedly.

WHAT DID THE COMPANY GET? A dispatch from San Francisco, dated Octopunches to cable-road conductors whereby the the companies would lose more than they did by the "Brother-in-law" was nipped in the bud by detective Curtin, who arrested William H. Robertson, a Missourian, who acted as agent in introducing the punches. Robertson made a confession, implicating Patrick Kellum, of Denver, Colorado, as his principal. According to his story Kellum secured Beadle and Meekers punches from the manufacturers, and his scheme was to hire out the genuine registers for $10 a week each. The conductor by using a double register and an extra slip could embezzle without fear of detection. Kellum told Robertson that he had 14 registers hired out in Kansas City and a dozen in Denver. bringing a revenue of $260 a week, while the conductors made much more. Now this is not right. We ought to have some friends, and even if we did go back on our mama for a well-dressed mother-in-law, we don't think all our former brethren ought to be angry. Therefore, I hope that in the future an occasional line concerning us and our "hose marines." as some one is pleased to designate our mounted patrolmen, may be published. News is scarce and uninteresting at present The weather has been gloomy, and the people gloomier. For the former's condition I cannot assign a reason; in fact I don't care to, but the long faces of the citizens are due to one Major McKinley, who has had something to say lately about tariff. I believe he is still saying something about it, and I am sure everyone else is "cussin" it and him and everybody else that thought 'twas a nice thing. He (Mc-Minley) called it the greatest free-trade-doctrine ever advocated in this country, if he is quoted correctly from Chicago. Now, I am not a politician, and know but little about tariff, but I do know the difference between a suit costing $12 two weeks ago and now costing $16. can "grin and endure it."

LETTER FROM VIRGINIA. GRAHAM, TASWELL, Co., VA., }

Wm. H. Ruby, Editor MARYLAND JOURNAL: Dear Sir: -- When a person who has been living in old Baltimore county, Md., leaves it and gets into a mountainous and rough country. coupled with scarcely any society, he then appreciates the sacred ties of home. We are in southwest Virginia, 60 miles from Kentucky Gap, and it is a rough country. You would naturally suppose it would be healthy, but such is not the case, as the earth is full of small caverns, and also full of minerals, particularly copper, and at every rainfall, (which s a frequent occurrence) the drinking water is MILL FEED—Per Ton....... 14.00 auddy and badly affected with surface water. The typhoid fever has been almost an epidemic

This county is full of coal mines, copper and other minerals, developing in every direction, and the N. & W. R. I am situated at a small town of about 2,500 people, and just this season there has been erected a large saw and steam planing Rye..... mill, a large flour mill, almost equalling Gamprill's; also, large ice manufactories, large up. There has been 900 town lots sold here since January, ranging from $150 to $400.—

Everybody seems to think of pathing but blast furnacer and rolling mills are now going Everybody seems to think of nothing but speculation, and it is all due the N. & W. R. I have been thinking if we only could get such a boom in our county what a change it would make. working man could then live in Towson and make some money, as Towson certainly has advantages that this county has not, namelygood water, good society, a nice level county near a city, good markets, with steam and horse cars, none of which this county has.
