

Saturday, October 25, 1890. [Correspondence of the MARYLAND JOURNAL.] LETTER FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8th, 1890. Editor JOURNAL: The hubub, rush and general hustle of Gotham I know is of small interest to the quiet and staid Baltimorean. Sometimes, however, a familiar face from the Monumental City is occasionally seen on Broadway. Sharlie Goldsborough, of Goldsborough, Tate & Co., Washington E. Goldsborough, the promising young lawver from the Court House vicinity, Lloyd Lownds, of Frederick, were among the latest faces from our good old city which I have recognized on Broadway.

As for politics, your correspondent is, to use a familiar expression, "not in it." It seems among the dissatisfied Democrats and the Republican-Fusionists that anything to beat Tammany will suit them. Hugh J. Grant, the present Mayor, is the most probable candidate for the two-years' rule of the Empire City. The great tunnel under the North River between New York and New Jersey is progressing slowly. An English syndicate has bought the charter, and 1892 is the year promised for its completion. There is still another great bridge proposed over the East River to unite Harlem and Long Island city, but the dim, dim future remains to develop it. Stage-struck and runaway girls keep many of our detectives busy, the latest being little Amelia Glare, of Southington, Conn., who was enticed here by a theatrical manager under promise of lealing roles upon the boards, and after accomplishing her ruin deserted her. Detective Fuller, of 841 Broadway, New York, traced her to an Italian den on Elizabeth street, from there she went to Brooklyn, N. Y., and bired out as a servant. Her wood-cut had been extensively advertised in the New York and Brooklyn papers by Mr. Fuller, and little Amelia's face was recognized by the family in which she found work. Her constant talking in her sleep betrayed her identity entirely to those of the family who listened. Her father was quietly communicated with and surprised his wayward daughter by an unexpected visit. She was fully reclaimed and is now married. a wiser and happier girl. "All the Comforts of a Home" filled Procter's 25-cent theatre all last week, and many who knew nothing of the comforts of a home cracked peanuts in the gallery and seemed just as happy and contented as their fellow-auditors so richly clad a few feet below occupying the velvet-cushioned stalls of the dress circle.— The Old Homestead" at the Academy has not lost any of its popularity "Standing room only" is the sign still displayed. Neil Burgess in the "County Fair" has entered on his third season at the Union Square Theatre as a delineator of the old Yankee woman. He is without an equal in this special line. Margaret Mather was to have opened Monday evening last, October 6th, at the Columbus Opera House, ago to make a newspaper fight with Capt. Hooker, of the police force. His doom is sealed, for to fight a policeman, or show any illwill to Huber's this week offers many attractions—a Zulu chief who walks on broken glass; the has made 50 miles a day on the bicycle. She is only 18 years of age and is remarkably in-
