CHR18TMAS.

The whole Christian world is eagerly preadvent of our Lord.

of Christmastide we extend to our readers a had that faith to say to the mountains of New heart-felt wish that their hearthstones may be | England "be thou removed into the middle of brightened with that true happiness which comes through harmony of spirit and life with Him who came into this world a babe in swadling clothes encased, to be the God-man, the herring, and other water things would have Lord and Redeemer of Mankind.

There is no authentic history of the orign of notice of which we find in the writings of Augustine, who was born A. D. 354, declares that one Telesphorus, a Bishop of Rome (A. D. 128-139) but the first certain traces of it are found during the reign of Commodus (A. D. 180-192) who, through his indifference to all religions, permitted the Christians more than usual

Whoever justituted the festival, the whole Christian world rejoices over the day, and over the event it commemorates. "Joy to the world. the Lord is come!" The Anointed One, sent "to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound," is fulfilling His mission. Wherever His Gospel has been preached, and His Church established, the woes of men have been assuaged, their burdens lightened, their pains alleviated. Not only has "the heart bowed down with weight of woo" been relieved of its guilty fears and made by Him to rejoice with "songs of deliverance," but the physical and mental distress of humanity has been relieved by the permeation of the spirit of love which the Christian has imbibed from his Master.

The eleemosynary institutions which have been established in Christian lands are but the materialization of the spirit of brotherhood which Christ exemplified in His life and taught His disciples.

"Peace on earth" was His promise. Not only to individuals living in harmony with the Great Teacher, but also to nations who have learned that Heaven's Law is the best International Law, the religion of Jesus has brought peace. As we approach this joyous Christmastide every heart should offer sincere thanksgiving to the Great King, that the alarum of war is to-day nowhere heard in the civilized world, and that the people have learned the lesson of sweet peace.

The brightest day in this world's history was when there entered into it the Divine, the Only Begotten Son, whose effulgent glory was shaded from us only by the veil of the human flesh He assumed. The light of His countenance shines directly on many hearts and homes to whom these words come to-day, and to many others the reflected rays of His divine benevolence come with strengthening hope.

As the Almighty Creator displayed His infinite love by giving the world His Son to be its Savior, Christian people very properly make Christmas time the occasion for their offerings to those they love. We give and receive. Love prompts these exchanges. Let us in this season of joy forget not the poor and afflicted, but as we have received much of which they are deprived, let us shower joys and blessings on them in the name of Him whose coming into the world we gladly commemorate. We wish all the readers of the Journal a PROSPERITY. SITTING BULL A "GOOD INDIAN! The Old Chief Killed by Red Tomahawk an Indian Policeman.

The news from the Indian quarter in the Northwest the past week is important, no less than the death of Sitting Bull, the old brutal, bloodthirsty Sioux reprobate, who has been the cause of all the Indian cutbreaks for several years past. It is known that Sitting Bull personally murdered the gallant Custer in cold blood. Indian "policemen" went to Sitting Bull's camp to arrest him and take him to Gen Mile's headquarters—some say to bring the old Chief in alive or dead. The "police" (friendly Sionx) got to Sitting Bull's camp, and, under the guise of having a parley with him to try and settle the difficulties, seized him, put him on a horse and were making off with him .-Bull yelled and thus induced his warriors to recover from the surprise into which they were thrown, and a fight thus ensued. Four or five of the Indian police were killed, when Tomahawk, seeing Bull was likely to be recaptured, deliberately shot him. Two of Sitting

'Way back in our history, when a few of the men who established our independence and formed the Convention were still living, (Jefferson, Adams, Madison, Monroe, Carroll, and the younger statesmen who were contemporaries with them, were in Congress, or in the Cabinet, or sat as Judges of the Supreme or other Courts,) there could not be found an individual who would acknowledge that he had been a Federalist, or who had advocated the "Alien and Sedition Laws" in the time of the elder Adams, or who had attended the Hartford Convention, which assembled for the purpose of the secession of the New England States from the Union. Judge Robinson, of the Court of Appeals, filed an important opinion on the 15th inst., which affects every Court of Record in the State as well as in the city of Baltimore. It was the case of John W. Belt, Clerk of the Circuit Court for Prince George County vs. the Prince George County Abstract Company. The case was decided on Friday in favor of the Clerk, the Court having reversed the order of the lower Court. dissolved the injunction and dismissed the mandamus. Judge Robinson, in delivering the opinion, says:

"The appellee is an Abstract Title Company, chartered by the Legislature of this State, and the question is whether its officers and empolyees have the legal right in themselves to examine and make abstracts or copies of the public records in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Prince George County without paying the fees which the law provides shall be paid to the Clerk for such services. It was contended that the public records are public property and kept for the public benefit, and although their custody and safe-keeping is committed by law to the Clerk, yet every one has the right to examine them and make such copies as he may see fit, free of charge. The appellee has the right under its charter to require the Clerk to furnish to it transcripts of title and other matters of record, and the right to make searches, but the contention is that the appellee has the right through its officers and employes themselves to make searches and abstracts of titles, and to do this without paying the fees prescribed by law. There is nothing in the Code or in the charter of the appellee to support this contention. So whatever may be the decision of other States upon he construction of their own statues, it is sufficient to say we rest our decision upon our own construction of our statutes-a construction which not only the plain terms of the statute, but the safety and integrity of the public records, demands.'

No charge has heretofore been made by the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Baltimore County for examination of the records by conveyancers and others searching titles. If, however, any Title Company should propose to make abstracts and copies from the books to an extent that would threaten to curtail the legitimate receipts of the Clerk's Office in the future, he would be called on to exercise his udgment as to refusing the privilege, unless paid the fees which the law allows him in such cases. The Clerk is allowed a fee of 15 cents for every book examined, and in addition 10 cents per 100 words for abstracts. As there has never been any deficiency in the office here, attorneys and others have had free access to the books, besides making whatever abstracts they desired, without being asked the usual fee allowed by law.

NOWHERE-IN-PARTICULAR. Dec. 18th, 1890. I am hesitating where I shall date my letter. Dates of locality, as you know, are of moment. A letter dated at a place of importance, of activity and progress, will attract attention and engage the reader when one from a slow, stagnant place, a "Sleep' Hollow," will be skipped and go unread. Dates some times indicate, or are intended to do so, the activity and energy of the writer, as was the case with a prominent General in the late disturbance, who, in a famous official dispatch, put the date "Head-quarters in the Saddle"; others make theirs On the Wing," and some not-particular newsnapers, whose correspondence is made up in the editorial room, date it at London, or Paris, or Chicago, as may suit. And so, Mr. Editor, ou can date my contribution at Sparrow Point, or Curtis Bay, as you deem best—anywhere where the world is moving enward keeping step to the ring of hammers, the music whirling saws, the clicking of machinery, and quick movements of busy artisans. The near approach of Christmas holidays make the streets of Baltimore a little more populated than usual. Stores are well filled with articles suited to the season, and in many the display of beautiful goods is attractive and made with exquisite taste. Jewelry and other fancy wares are irresistible. Baltimore, Charles. Lexington, Howard and Eutaw streets are well filled with ladies shopping, who make selection and purchase before the new goods are picked over. The purchasers are residents of the city, and some few from the counties. Many more should be here from the District of Columbia, Washington city, central and western Maryland, but they are not-that is have selected for a statue. Railroads are rapidly penetrating these happy valleys and they will soon be better known.

Have you over thought, Mr. Editor of the JOURNAL, in case a half dozon passengers from each of the many trains on the several railroads that enter and pass through Baitimore daily should stop over what would become of them? where they would procure entertainment? With old, famous, world-wide known Barnum's pulled down, and the Eutaw House closed for repairs, the Carrollton and Rennerts could not supply accommodations. I know there are other excellent family boarding houses, as the St. James, Mt. Vernon, Altamont, The Kensington and Albion. Alas! that there is not one grand, modern, attractive hotel in a city of half a million, and that on the site of ld Barnum's! The North Avenue Electric Railway Com pany, Mr. Frank Slingluff, President, have taken City Council, city legal officers, and dozen or more citizens of well-known business character, with representatives from each of the city papers, on a special excursion to Bos ton to see and investigate the operation and working of overhead electric cars in that city. The party will return on Saturday. The North Avenue Company desire to reach the City Hall by a system of electric motors. It is to be hoped the Company will be granted what is proper, upon fair, equitable basis, and that obstructionists will keep in the background. Mr. Wm. A. Hammond, City Solicitor, deliv ered an address before the Taxpayers' Association of Baltimore on Tuesday night on "Taxation of Personal Securities," in which he is reported to have said, "if we want to progress we must attract capital," which is a truism. and for this purpose he proposes that personal ecurities—that is, all property except real estate—be exempt from taxation, as in Pennsylvania, and suggests an amendment to the Constitution. This is a long stride beyond exemption of mortgages, and as farmers own the real estate, except the comparatively small area covered by the cities, it deserves their attention. The personal character of Mr. Hammoud, enhanced by his official legal position, makes his suggestion deserving notice. The Declaration of Rights" prefixed to the Constitution of the State, Art. 15, respecting levying taxes, prescribes that "every person in the state, or person holding property thereig, ought to contribute his proportion of public taxes for the support of the government, according to his that the income of $5,000, which he supposed he actual worth in real or personal property." principle here laid down cannot be questioned The policy is another consideration. The Comnittee that reported the Declaration of Rights for adoption by the Constitutional Convention was composed of 24 members, representing nearly every county in the State. Its Chairman was Hon. Isaac D. Jones, afterward Attorney General, and among its other members such able and prominent gentlemen as Richard H. Alvey, (now Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals) and Andrew K. Syester, (afterwards Attorney General, and now Judge in the 4th Judicial Circuit.) both of Washington county Bernard Carter of Baltimore city, Hon. Fredk Nelson of Frederick, Hon. RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 11th, 1890. Dear Journal: Now that the winter snows have come o he hills about Towson, perhaps a letter from this Italy of America may enliven you a little. Our first touch of winter came on December 7th with a raw, sleety rain. But it did not get very cold, and to day the sun is bright, the air balmy, and the beds of scarlet geraniums under my window look as green as if no frost had touched them. From the middle of October to the 7th of December we had no rain to lay the dust, and not one cloudy day. The dust was the principal annoyance, and the street sprinking carts in Raleigh were as busy as in July To day we have in bloom in the Raleigh yards tea roses, violets, petunias, sweet bush honeysuckles, moon flowers on the porches. Roman yacinths showing buds, Japan quince, Jasmin am, Multiflorum perennial candy tuft, a few stray scarlet geraniums, verbenas, that have been blooming for two years, and some other things. You will perceive then that winter has touched us lightly, and it looks like we may have a repetition of the long May-day we had last winter. Gardeners are getting afraid that their celery will all run to bloom and seed as t did last winter.

North Carolina is catching the boom in many places that has put so much life and activity nto other Southern States. Last year a $25, 000 cotton factory was built in Raleigh, which is paying a big dividend the first season, and now two more are about to be built. The spread of the cotton manufacturing interest in the South is hardly yet fully realized elsewhere. In our county, with no town of any family of brothers, all native "Tar Heels." I visited some large mills at Concord, in Cabanus county, recently, where 750 looms were at work making bag material for the bag making machines. These machines are the innovation of a young Carolinian, Mr. Kerr, son or the late Prof. Kerr. State Geologist of North Carolina. Five hundred of these looms are at work solely on their goods for flour bags. One of Mr. Kerr's machines requires 75 looms to feed it. He takes the cotton goods in the bolt and runs it through the machine, which prints the inscription on the side, cuts the bag and sews it up, all at the rate of thirteen a minute. The machine at the same time registers the number made. The Company hold the right to the machine and are making these bags so cheaply that they are getting orders for them by the million from all the largest mills in the West and Northwest. This, too, is entirely in the hands of North Carolina people, not a cent f Northern capital in it. They employ over 1.000 hands. There is now hardly a county in North Carolina in the cotton belt but has one or more cotton mills, and more are building everywhere, and almost without exception on home capital. North Carolina has just gathered the largest cotton crop in her history, and the farmers are everywhere feeling good. In the north, northwest and northeast parts of the State the goldleaf tobacco is bringing rich returns. Hardly a tobacco grower but claims to make from $300 to $400 per acre on this crop. I saw the produce of two acres of tobacco sold at public sale for $996.50. Under the modern system of cur ing in barns with hot-air flues the tobacco crop can be gotten off hand sooner than a corn crop in this latitude. In the eastern part of the State many growers had a large part of their crop cared and sold by last of August. Lands that are known to grow a good quality of bright eigarette tobacco are advancing in price, though much can still be bought at very low

Another interest which is developing rapidly in some sections of the State is the growing of grapes for early shipment. Within three miles of the city of Raleigh there are now between 400 and 500 acres in vineyards. Down along the line of the Raleigh and Augusta Railroad in the high sand hills of Moor county, where, until recently, turpentine, rosin and lumber reigned supreme, and where for mile after mile the unbroken forest of long-leaf pines showed no efforts at farming, it has been found that the land which was considered worthless will grow grapes and peaches to great perfection.— Now large vineyards are being planted there, and the county is getting into great repute as a winter sanitarium for Northern consumptives. The growers around Baleigh claim that their vineyards pay them, clear of freight and company was formed in Raleigh with a capital of $15,000 to plant a large vineyard. In the eastern part of the State along the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad the growing of truck and small fruits is spreading rapidly and great profits are made. In every direction the old Rip Van Winkle Queensland, and they are readily picked of by State is waking up and coming to the front. But it is the mountain section of the State I that is to be the fruit garden of America. I on Wednesday next, 24th inst., at 7 c'elock P. M.

spent over a month the past summer in travel ing through the mountain country southwes of Asbeville. The great forest of hard wood trees on these mountains is amazing. The soi of the valleys is of exhuberant fertility and actually seems to increase in fertility as one ascends the mountains. There are numerous great summits as high and higher than Mount Washington, known as "Balds." These are without timber-great prairie summits covered with rich soil and rank grass to the very top. I saw places where a walking stick could be thrust down its length in the rich brown mold on a mountain summit 600 feet above the sea. Apples flourish here as they do no where else, and the varieties reach such size and perfection as hardly to be recognized. All through this county this season, when the crop was a failure everywhere else, the trees were loaded with fruit. In one orchard in Haywood county we measured an apple tree in perfect health | $10. which, at four feet from the ground, was nine feet eight inches in circumference. Its branches spread 90 feet in diameter, and it was estimated that it had on it 75 barrels of apples. In this same orchard were over 100 trees that were fully three feet in diameter of trunk. In Macon county at the time of my visit peach trees were breaking with their load of fruit, showing the exemption of this section from late spring frosts, for all over the eastern part of the State the crop was destroyed. In Cherokee county, the valley of Valley River, one of the headwaters of the Tennessee, the lands are almost a dead level from mountain to mountain, and as fertile as any in the country. saw rag weeds on a stubble field there in which horses were wandering through with the rag weed four feet above their heads. 'This rich valley is entirely underlaid with the finest white marble, and I saw them building sailroad culverts out of marble that Canova might

He selected a house on a fashionable thoroughfare at a price to suit him and arranged the preliminaries. Before completing the purchase, however, he consulted a lawyer as to our system of taxation.— When informed that the taxes upon his house would be perhaps $500, and upon his furniture probably $100 more, he was satisfied, but when he found that out of an income of about $10 000 year, derived from securities aggregating some $200. 000, he would be required to pay over $4,000 per avoid it, he, of course, determined to let Baltimore alone and stick to Washington. RAILROAD NEWS. The Baltimore Sun of the 17th inst. says in reference to the construction of a branch from the Pennsylvania Railroad from a point at Shippensburg, Pa., on the Cumberland Valley to a point on the Bedford Division of the Pennsylvania at Mount Dallas: A sharp fight is looked for between the Pennsylvania Railroad and the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland over the extension of the lastnamed road to connect with the Baltimore and Ohio at Cherry Run. The Pennsylvania Company has secured a charter to construct a road from oint at or near Shippensburg, on the Cumberland the Pennsylvania Road near Mount Dallas. The new line will be known as the Harrisburg and Bedford Road. It will be sixty miles long and has a capital stock of $2,500,000. The purpose of the ennsylvania Company in this construction is said be to checkmate the alliance made by the Reading. Western Maryland and Baltimore and Ohio Roads. By this alliance the Reading would secure western outlet and he nearer the anthracite coal Pennsylvania hopes to get the traffic of the coal region. It now brings its soft coal over its own line from Cumberland to Dallas, but at that point hands it over to the Reading, which controls the Hunting-don and Broad Top Roads, thus enabling the Reading to make large profits out of the Pennsylvania tonnage. It is said the new road will bring Philadel phla 100 miles nearer the soft coal region. When the Pennsylvania gets to Mount Dailas there seems o be no doubt that a short connecting link to Johnstown, on the main line, will be built, which will give a new through route from Pittsburg to Philadelphia and Baltimore shorter than the pres-
