THE APPROACHING NEW YEAR.

With the present issue we close the twentysixth year of the existence of the JOURNAL, and are gratified to know it continues to grow in the confidence and respect of, especially the people of Baltimore county, whose best interests it has earnestly striven to advance. The year that is about to close has been prolific of many events of importance, and the large loss of life from various casualties by sea and land will be memorable in the history of the country. Everything to-day is overshadowed by the financial condition of the people, and this unfavorable condition has been greatly added to by the action of Congress in the passage of the McKinley Tariff bill by which the absolute necessities of life, as well as every commodity used by the business men of the country, has been largely increased in cost, thus adding still more to the heavy burdens the people have to

Added to this is the attempt now being made by the Republican majority in the Senate, under the goad of President Harrison, to pass the Force bill, which, if enacted, cannot but have the effect of eventually destroying free Republican government. It is indeed a sorry spectacle to see the President of the United States. instead of assisting to allay the passions of the people, urging the conservative branch of Congress to pass so unjust and infamous a bill. Its enactment is intended to arbitrarily keep in power the Republican party regardless of the guarantees of the Constitution and the will of the people. This the radical Republicans know the people will not permit, and resistance is what they want that they may have a pretext to attempt to hold the government by force, and that force cannot be anything but the mil-

At the elections in November the people expressed their sentiments upon both the above measures by the most decided majority ever known in the history of the government .--From the time of the passage of the McKinley tariff bill and introduction and rushing through the House of the Force bill by the gag tactics of Speaker Reed, there was but a few weeks; nevertheless the people, not only Democrats, but thousands of conservative Republicans, went to the polls on election day and cast their ballots for Democratic and Farmers' Alliance candidates, and thus rebuked the revolutionary majority which seeks to subvert the rights and liberties of the people. There is greater danger of this than the people will at first imagine. No Democrat dreamed that there would be such an upheaval as took place. The most sanguine among us were perfectly satisfied with from 25 to 30 Democratic majority in the 53d House. Neither Democrats nor Republicans were prepared for the tremendous avalanche of 149 Democratic majority! It was unprecedented. It would be natural and proper to suppose that such an expression of sentiment by the people would have its effect upon the Republican majority in Congress. To a limited extent it has done so; but to the intractables it seems to have acted like a red rag is said to do to an enraged bull. Nearly every Republican who voted for the McKinley Tariff bill and the Force bill, and who sought a re-election was ignominiously defeated. States which heretofore have been solidly and securely Republican, not only elected Democratic Governors, but elected Tariff-reform Democrats in place of the Republicans who misrepresented the People by voting to increase their burdens and who passed the Force bill merely for the purpose of keeping the Republican party in power. These two condemned. Nevertheless it is observed that Senator Hoan and a few other mud bulls of the Senate are rushing upon the spear of the People. There can be but one ending of it. There are conservative Republican Senators, but it is feared their wills will not be strong sufficient to resist the merciless party whip when it whistles in measures the People have most emphatically

The noble acts of the Democratic Senators under the lead of intrepid Senator Gorman, reinforced by Senator Stewart, a conservative Republican from Nevada, deserves all praise for exposing the monstrosity and showing up its hideousness to the country. Thus we come up to the beginning of the New Year, 1891, with "a condition," not a "theory," confronting us. This condition must be removed before the People can expect that prosperity they hope for and have a right to expect from the hands of their servants. The burdens of the tariff shackle must be stricken off. Partisan legislation must be laid aside and such matters taken up as shall redound to the prosperity and happiness of all the people or they will know the reason why, and that right speedily. The People are not yet serfs, and the mad caps who, in spite, attempt to drive their masters, will take due care and govern themselves accordingly. Retributive Justice will yet overtake them and sweep into

CHRISTMAS 1890. Christmas was enjoyed to its fullest extent by everybody. There was an almost total cessation of business, nearly equal to a Sunday. Those who felt disposed to transact business found few if any customers; all were after en-

A RELIABLE OLD FRIEND.

In reflecting upon the comforts and blessings of the year now about to close none has given more sincere pleasure than the daily visits of our esteemed metropolitan neighbor, the Baltimore Sun. It stands at the very head of the list of the intelligent daily journals in this country. It has become an absolute necessity among the people and they cannot well do without it and do not wish to do so; in fact, it has become one of their household gods. It is at all times reliable in the news it presents to the people; eschews sensation and pruriency, and gives only such as edifies, instructs and pleases. It is indeed a rare journal in this respect .-The editorials of the Sun are carefully written, are without circumlocution and may literally be classed as multum in parvo. The Sun keeps pace with the onward march and prosperity of the country; is a firm friend of the best interests of the people of not only Baltimore and Maryland, but the whole country, and is not swayed by ignoble ideas, but is conservative and truthful. In such a newspaper Baltimore is wonderfully blest. It gives the Journal the greatest pleasure to bear testimony to these facts, and to congratulate the Sun upon the exalted position it occupies, and the great good it achieves in not only purveying the news of the day, but the elevation of the morals of the people, than which there can be no higher UNDER THE MCKINLEY TARIFF TAX.

Let a pean of praise from the nation arise. Loudly sounding from shore unto shore For poverty's sorrows and struggles and sighs The people shall suffer no more. Rejoice, oh ye tollers whose income is least, Luxurious now may you be: For, what though the cost of your clothes Your acorns and zebras are free. Oh, welcome the zebras whose tariff's reduced Let them come to us over the deep, And folk who to zebras are almost unused

Now can revel in them-they're so cheap. and then there are acorns; that dear time When that fruit was as scarce as could be; We can have all we yearn for of acorns at last, For acorns and zebras are free. The poor man whose children are meagerly clad Can at least keep a z-bra or two, With which can his shivering infants be glad Or he may serve one up in a stew. In sure 'twould be nothing but miserly greed

With such joys discontented to be:

'Cause acorns and zebras are free. Bow down to the statesman so wise and so great Ye poor ones of earth and be gay, Make merry with zebras or ride them Eat three meals of acorns a day. We can stand a high tariff on all other things; But, oh, what a source of high glee Is the blessing the new bill to poverty brings, For acorns and zebras are free.

A CONCERT BY TELEPHONE.

Last Saturday morning, 20th inst., having sioners, we had the pleasure of listening to thusiastic and shouted "'Rah, 'rah, 'rah, quite a nice cornet concert by telephone. The cornetist was in the telephone office at Chambersburg, Pa. The notes of "Annie Laurie," "Maryland, My Maryland," "Nearer My God to Thee" and a schottische, came floating clear and distinct, and gave evidence of the wonders of the telephone, which may be said to be as yet in its infancy. At first we imagined the notes to be those from the cornet of Prof. H. B. Hatnick, former leader of the Chambersburg Band, but learned upon inquiry they were from the cornet of Prof. Smith, a musical celebrity of that beautiful city. This haphazard concert awakened glorious memories of 1844-and what tremendous things have happened in that vista of 46 years! We see those joys now as clear as in those halcyon days of youth and "great expectations," the latter pretty well realized at this distant day.

The Reading Terminal gives that road a station in the centre of the city about the same as the Broad Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the Belt Line is similar to the Belt Line being constructed around Baltimore. Now let the City Councils of Baltimore pass the bills necessary for rapid street travel, and Baltimore and ita suburbs will take rank equal to that of New

THE HOLIDAYS.

SPARROW POINT, Dec. 25th, 1890. Dear JOURNAL: A letter in the very inauguration of the Christmas holidays would surely be unwelcome unless in full touch with the happy sentiments and heartbeats of the season. Then all hail to the time-honored festival in commemoration of the Holy Nativity, dating its institution from the early part of the Christian era. handed down and observed through the conturies until now it is kept in all Christian lands as the anniversary of "peace, good will toward men." Of all the seasons in the year, all the holidays in the calendar, there is none to compare with Christmas. The spirit of charity and love walks abroad, human hearts throb with brotherly kindness and realize in its full significance the commandment "thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." In early times Christmas was ushered in it mass at midnight, dawn and morning, and the day regarded in the twc-fold light of a holy day and festival. Many traditions and superstitions of the observances and wild revels attending the season in the middle ages and since have been handed down to us in the English. German. Welsh and other carols. The anniversary is now more quietly and peacefully, as well as appropriately, celebrated, but not the less bappily. In the Southern States Christmas was always regarded the chief holiday of the year and time of general reunion of families, kinsfolk and friends. Welcome and cordial grasp of the hand greeted every comer, and the fires of friendship, fidelity and honesty were kent burning from hearth to hearth, from heart to heart. The holiday was kept by the negroes as well as by their masters. . In New England it was much less generally observed because the Puritans had their faces set against Christmas merriment and pastimes, and Thanksgiving and pumpkin ple was sub stituted. They relaxed, however, their rigid discipline so far as to take turkey with their

It is the season of general joy. The Christmas tree grows in every home and bears a full crop that frosts and cold cannot nip. Parents and children are alike happy. In some of the States, as in our own, it is made a legal holiday. In enjoy. ing the blessed day, the happiness of our own homes, the sweet remembrances of dear ones,

A POLITICAL FOOT-BALL GAME.

Baltimore Sun's Washington Correspondent. So stubborn has the struggle over the Force bill become that it reminds those who are familiar with the roughest of the outdoor sports of a game of modern foot-ball. Bines the contest began in the Senate, way back in the last session, the Republicans and Democrate have trained as faitafully for the event as do footballers at Yale or Princeton, only in a different way. If one were called upon to write up the senatorial foot-ball game it might be done in this way:

The contest was commenced for the "Force bill championship" in the presence of 62,000,-000 of people, according to the official count of the Superintendent of Census. Vice President Morton is Referee and General Sentiment Umpire. The contending teams came upon the field apparently in excellent condition for the fight, although the Republicans had a decided advantage in having a larger number of men to select a team from After the preliminary practice the two teams lined up as follows: Republicans. Democrats. Right end. Right tackle. Right guard. McMillan, Mich. Butler, S. C Morgan, Ala. Evarts, N. Y. Sherman, Ohio Edmunds, Vt. Gray, Del. Left guard. Hawley, Conn Chandler, N. 1 Cockrell, Mo. Blackburn, Kv Faulkner, W. Quarter back. Spooner, Wis. Aldrich, R. J. light half. Harris, Tenn haif. Gorman, Md.

The Democrats were captained by Gorman and the Republicans by Hoar. The latter won the toss and started the ball with the wellknown "V" trick. The rush line of the Democrats stood the assault with great firmness, and the umpire declared that no gain had been made. Again Captain Hoar sent his men to buck the centre, but they were unable to make any impression upon the stone wall, of which Gray was the keystone. After the third down without the necessary gain the ball went to the Democrats. On the snap back Gorman made an effort to go around the right end, but upon being tackled he passed the ball to Harris, who is generally a good interferer, and the latter made a bad fumble, Edmunds capturing the ball and falling upon it. Then followed a series of lively scrimmages in the middle of the field, the most effective blocking and tackling being done by Murgan, Gray, Voorhees and Cockrell. Hoar, Evarts and Spooner were doing the best work on the other side of the line. It was a fierce struggle and both teams appeared to be evenly matched in spite of the overweight of the Republicans. The team work of the Democrats was superb, and they worked together like a piece of well regulated machinery. On the other hand, the Republicans were overconfident at first and displayed a lack of knowledge of Captain Hoar's signals. Several times the game was stopped to allow them to consult and re-arrange their code of

One of the brilliant plays of the game was made by Gorman after a long punt by Hoar, who was getting weary of bucking the impreg-Dable contre. The former made a neat catch with the ease of a veteran base-ball player, and broke through the Republican centre for a gain of over twenty yards before he was downed. This was the only good run of the first part of business at the office of the County Commis- | the game, and the spectators became quite en-

Gorman.' After another sharp scrimmage Gray was sent forward to buck the Republican centre, and so well was he sustained by his plucky associates that he forced the ball well on toward the Republican goal. He might have scored a touchdown had it not been for the effective tackling of Hoar, Spooner and Evarts. When the Republicans secured the ball they changed their tactics and sent Frye around the left end for a sensational run, which excited the wild. est enthusiasm among the occupants of the Republican benches. What promised to be a big gain was well stopped by fine tackling by Butler and Vest. Again the Republicans called time to consult their book of signals.

The endurance of the Democrats was very annoying to the Republicans, who expected an easy time, and several of Captain Hoar's men showed signs of distress. Just before the first half ended Spooner was signaled to make a run around the right end, which he did with some auccess. He dodged the rush line effectively and was making a desperate dash for the goal line, when the plucky little West Virginian, Faulkner, tackled him and brought him down in fine style. Thus the first half ended without either side having scored a point, and the ball is in the Republican territory. POLITICAL SUICIDE AS A FINE ART.

New York Herald. The Force bill is being vigorously pushed by our Republican Senators. This is a short session, and it must go through at once or not at all. The programme therefore is to appear to give plenty of time to debate, but if the bill is unduly delayed to appeal to Speaker Reed for a copy of his gag law for use in the Senate Chamber. The House under the rulings of Reed last spring ceased to be a deliberative body. It became a Republican machine, to be swung for party purposes There is now danger that the Senate may borrow these machine methods and jam an obnoxious and infamous measure down the throats of the American people in spite of the protest which they made on November 4. We have indeed fallen upon evil days when the President in his message can deliberately urge the passage of a bill intended to put the control of elections throughout the South into the hands of his own party bosses, thus depriving supreme States of right granted by the Constitution, stigmatizing them as dons of political scoundrels because they happen to be situated south of the Potomac River, and giving Republican heelers power to count in their own candidates whether they are legally elected or

The scheme is born of political racklessness and is the last resort of desperation. It was conceived by men who still hate the South with virulent malignity, who reached the limits of heir public usefulness when the war ended, and have ever since been lunatics on the sub- services. It was he who drove old Sitting Bull ject of Southern disloyalty. They belong to a former age, but were left over to vex this generation because there was no place to put them in the other world. The gentlemen who lead in this project are

Edmunds, Frye, Hoar and Chandler-four crooked political sticks. They are moss covered old timers, frayed out remnants of New England abolitionism. Their fell and fateful purposes is to send federal supervisors to the South to take charge of the next Congressional election, to discredit every white man as an incorrigible rogue because he persists in being a Democrat, and to intelligent gentlemen and conservative in his band the several States over to the negroes, provided they agree to vote the Republican Friedman, was taken sick with what was supposed In a sour old age they dispense with the necessity of opinions and have nothing left except their prejudices. They are a component part of the old regime and have no better conception of the enormous progress which the American people have made during the last thirty years than a stillborn infant has of algebra. Against these men and their Force bill is the best judgment of the East, the love of fair play which characterizes the West and Northwest and the sense of justice which prevails in all parts of the country. They have made a split in their own party Opposed to them are men like Ingalis, who never yet found a word long enough or strong enough to give him spiritual satisfaction when denouncing the Democrats, who believes that every man who isn't a Republican will freeze to death in sheel, but who sees that so gross an act of injustice as this Force bill will recoil with furious, if not fatal. energy. And Quay, in many respects the best party organizer in the country, a desperate strategist, who in a hot contest would steal the silver dollars from the eyes of the dead mother-in-law to buy Republican votes with-he, too, knows that the Force bill will be the epitaph of his party in 1892 and opposes its passage. Still a determined effort is being made all along the line to push it through. Convictions are smothered, good judgment is blurred and a partisan Senate seems ready to sacrifice even the peace of the country for the sake of a measure which will keep alive the old hatreds of ante bellum times. All right. If the Republican party insists on committing suicide we shall be on hand when it swallows the drug. The McKinley bill shivered the hopes of that party and an indignant people at the polls repudiated it. The Force bill ought to finish the work and make it necessary to write an

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22d, 1890. Senator Stewart's open revolt against the Republican caucus and his manly speech against the Force bill are the talk of the town and likely to remain so for some time to come, notwithstanding the nearness of Christmas.-That he voiced the real sentiments of a number of his Republican colleagues cannot for a moment be doubted, but none of them are expected to display the "sand" exhibited by the Nevada Senator, and I understand that he acted largely from spite, because Mr. Harrison and the Republican leaders in both Senate and House have combined to prevent the passage of a free coinage biil. Whatever his motive, it has wonderfully stiffened the backbone of the Republican opponents of the Force bill. Senator Paddock, another Republican opponent of the bill, is growing restive and has given notice that if the bill is not disposed of very soon he intends asking the Senate to take up his Pure Food bill. The Republican caucus voted in favor of changing the Senate rules in order to cut off debate, but it is not yet certain that they can succeed. Mr. Hoar and his associates in the pushing of the Force bill are in a peck of trouole, and it is growing worse instead of better. They fear to make the attempt to change the rules because they are not certain that they can carry it through even if they can get it to vote, which is a matter of doubt, as the Democrats have announced their determination to debate the proposed change, which must be made under the present rules, for the remainder of the session. One thing is certain, the change cannot be made without revolutionary rulings on the part of the presiding officer of the Senate. If anything is to be done this week by the Republicans in the Senate it will have to be done without the assistance of Senators Allison and Ingalls, both of whom have gone home without being paired. So far the Republicans have refused to even consider taking a holiday recess, and present indications are that they will hold sessions right along, and, of course, the Democrats will be compelled to attend, because if they stay away the Republicans would be certain to crowd the Force bill through. In the House a quorum has gone glimmering. and there isn't much probability that one will be seen there again before January. The Republican bosses are believed to have secretly decided that no financial legislation shall be passed at this session, although they are making a great pretense of considering the bill which the Republican caucus went through the farce of endorsing, which provides for the nurchase of 12.000.000 ounces of silver in monthly instalments of 2,000,000 ounces for the recoining of the $25,000,000 of fractional coin and trade dollars now lying idle in the Treasury. They would have been willing to allow this bill to pass, but it was no sooner reported to the Senate than Senator Reagan offered an amendment prividing for free coinage. Then it was decided that it was too risky to allow the bill to be voted on, and so the matter stands at present. Senator Pettigrew wants to make another Indian scare impossible, so be has introduced a bill prohibiting the sale of firearms and ammunition to Indians on reservations. The general impression is that there is already such a law in existence, which has been violated with the connivance or through the neglect of government officials. This whole Indian business will probably be investigated by Congress .-Senator Manderson has offered a resolution to that effect. There is a general desire on the part of Senators and Representatives to get at the real status of the Indians. It is already apparent that at least $50,000. 000 will be required to make up the deficien cies in the last session's appropriations. These deficiencies are the results of the deliberate action of the Republicans, in order to make the country believe that they were keeping the appropriations down.

Senator Blair is posing in a new role—that f Rany man, and it is a decided improvement on his ordinary isms. Senator Stanford made an hour's speech Friday explaining his bill for loaning money on farm mortgages at 2 per cent. per annum. The bill has been referred to the Finance Committee, every member of which is opposed to it. Senator Spooner spoke all day Saturday in avor of the Force bill, and it was jocularly said that he was trying to earn his appointment to the bench of the Supreme Court. BEROLD MARYLAND!

C. Rhoderick, Jr., in Middletown (Md.) Valley Old Christmas is coming the children all say, and each little heart is so happy and gay. With great expectations bright visions they see, of stockings now empty that soon full will be. Old Santa's at work, up at the North Pole, making candy and toya-the joily old soul. He works through the night and he works all the day he works while the children are busy at play.

Soon he'll pack his big bundles all into his sieigh and his fleet-footed reindeer will scamper away. so hang up the stockings all over the land, for San. ta will soon by the chimney-top stand. He'il ride to the chimney and down he will go, with presents for little ones sleeping below. So hang up the stockings, the big and the small, for Santa has plenty to fill them up all. He brings in his bundies nice candy for all-drums, whistles and marbles, skates, sleds, tops and balls. monkeys that of a stick, doll ba TYPICAL WOMAN-A PILLAR IN THE TEMPLE The late Mrs. Margaret Regester Morrison, of Bal-timore, decessed December 14th, 1890, was a typical woman in all the walks of life. She was the wife of the Rev. Dr. Geo. Morrison, and the daughter of Jushua Regester, for 50 years a manufacturer and recognized mechanical genius. Queenly in her bearing, esthetical in all her environments, in her intercourse kindly to all. She esteemed herself solely as the peer of such of her sax as based worth the peer of such of her sax as based worth the peer of such as the peer of s upon merit and character. Such a character, therefore, belongs to the public, and we have formulated the following episodes: The officiating clergymen were: Rev. Dr. J. T. Leftwich her pastor; Rev. A. M. Courtenay, of the M. E. Church, pastor of her venerable father and mother; the Rev. Dr. W. S. Jones, LL.D., who buried her daughter, Mary Brockenridge Morrison. Mrs. Margaret Regester Morrison was born in the city of Baltimore, and with the exception of a few years has spent her entire life in Baltimore. Mrs. Morrison was 47 years of age, being the first born of a family of seven children.

She was born and reared in the faith of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which her parents methodist Episcopal Church, of which her parents are members. Up to 1875, at the age of 82, when she married her husband, the Rev. Dr. George Morrison, she had been actively and prominently engaged in the work of her church at large, as well as in the local interests of the particular church in which she held her membership. Upon numerous occasions she officially represented those interests in their women's executive boards. Thus in obedience to duty she was continued to the in obedience to duty she was continually in the circle of woman's work for her Divine Master, In 1875 baving formed a marriage alliance with a Presbyterian clergyman she at once entered into full sympathy with the faith, interests and people of the Presbyterian Church. Under the power of the Gospel during the sixteen years of her married

As a wife she was competent and gentle in her household. She constantly taught her daughters in the Bible and Catechism, and by household and chamber prayer and example sought to lead her children to Christ. Mrs. Morrison was largely known and leved, and always claimed for her sex that more avenues should be opened wherein the American woman sould enter for work. She had recently invented the Woman Darner, and was in correspondence with the Department of ariculture for the introduction into our Maryland omes the culture of the silk worm on account of Assessors.-The following unique production #as handed to the County Con missioners on Tuesday last, 28d inst., by Mr. A. W Lyman, attorney: "Your petitioners believing that cause for much friction and complaint exists through and by reason of the method of paying the Assessors of Baltimore county, in which, as taxpayers, we are interested, would respectfully ask that you change the method of paying the said Assessors, so that in place of a certain sum per $1.000 on their work, you pay them a reasonable per diem rate for the actual labor performed. Also diem rate for the actual labor performed. Also that men be appointed whose judgment regarding valuations of the various kinds of property which they are called on to assess is good and reliable, just to the county while not unfair and partial to the taxpayers. We do not believe that sufficient ime has been taken under the present system t secure an impartial and proper estimate of valua-tions as evidenced in several instances occurring during the year just passed where figures placed b the Assessors have in certain cases been extremel low, and in others extravagantly high. Believing that we represent a sufficiently important interest to warrant us in making the foregoing request and asking your honorable Board to hear us in person by duly appointed attorney or agent, should you not deem it advisable to grant our prayer as herein set forth And this we do humbly pray, Helen Culver, successor to C. J. Hull, by A. W. Lyman, her attorney in fact; C. David Lukins, J. Leland Hanna, Robert Johnstone, by his attorney, R. B Johnstone; Warren W. Johnstone, Alex. Yearley & ons, agents for the Caton estate.

The Will of Capt. Thomas W. Alater.—The will of Capt. Thomas W. Blater, the old and population lar conductor on the Philadelphia Railroad, who died last week, was filed for probate in the Orphans' Court for Baltimore city on the 22d inst. The teatator leaves to Judge William A, Stewart, Michal A. Mullin and his son Thomas W. Slater, to be paid to Thomas W. Slater, his son,$25,000; another $25,000 o be paid when he is 31 years of age, and another 25,000 when the son is 45 years old. The residue of e estate is to go to the son when he is 55 years old. He leaves the son also his residence. will given $2.500 to the Ornhans' Home in St. Patricks's Parish. If the son should die without leav ing issue the estate then remaining in the hands of the Trustees is to be divided into eight parts and two parts are to be given to the Orphans' Home, two parts to the indigent members of St. Patrick's ongregation, one part to St. Mary's Female Orphan Asylum, one part to St. Vincent's Male Orphan Asylum, one part to Mount St. Mary's College, Em mitaburg, and one part to maintain and keep i order the cemetery chapel in which are interred the remains of Col. Lancaster Street .- Judge Burke on the 28d inst. filed an opinion in the case of Joseph Frieden-wall and others, against Mr. Wm. H. shipley, Special Examiner, for the opening of Lancaster street, a ill in equity praying for an injunction to restrai the defendant Shipley from the prosecution of certain suits brought by him for the recovery of certain assessments and to restrain him from bringing other uits against any of the plaintiffs for the collection of any assessments. The judge said: "While I find a state of facts which might have been sufficient upon appeal to have reversed the action of the exminer, I do not think the facts are such as to confer jurisdiction upon a court of equity to grant the relief prayed for. The plaintiffs in this cause and all other persons assessed had an ample remedy provided by the act for the redress of all grievances suffered by them in the opening of this thoroughfare. They failed or neglected to avail themselves of the remedy which the law provided, and it is now too late under the established law of Maryland to ake advantage of the mistake, errors of judgment, rregularities, or even excess of authority of the ex aminer. The prayer of the bill of complaint is de-nied, the injunction refused, and the bill dismissed with costs to the plaintiffs.
