

C H A P.
XXXVIII.

The commissioners are to give them receipts, expressing the different sums and kinds of money, and to enter a particular account thereof in their books, and to purchase therewith good bills of exchange drawn or to be endorsed by substantial men residing in the province, at not more than 45 per cent. in gold, or 33 $\frac{1}{2}$  in silver. These bills are to be remitted, together with those already in the office, to the trustees in London, who are directed to apply them in the purchase of bank stock, under the limitations and upon the terms of the act of 1733, ch. 6.

On the last of April next, the office of the commissioners is to cease. At any time before that day, when proof shall be made to their satisfaction, that tobacco has been exported and lost, and that none other has been exported in its room, duty free, they are to refund the 15d duty, either in bills or cash, if they shall have any bills or cash on hand; if not, they are to draw on the treasurers for current money at 33 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

William Murdock, Edward Tilghman, and Thomas Ringgold, are directed to pay the commissioners a certain balance appearing, by their own account, to remain in their hands, to be applied in the purchase of bills as aforesaid.

The lord proprietary is invested with the same authority over the trustees in London, as he had by virtue of the act of 1733, ch. 16.
