Our Washington Letter.

From our regular correspondent Washington, June 8 1888

This has been the dull week of the session in Congress. The centre of but dry and dusty warm sun and cool political interest shifted for the time evening. from Washington to St. Louis Quite a number of our democratic lawma-kers hied away to the National Convention, leaving the ail important ta-riff debate to do the best it e mid during their absence

The latter measure did not make much progress as was expected. Congress has not been paralyzed however. It is entirely too large a body to be influenced by the absence of a hundred or so members. Its work has singing by the children also the ca-gone on in a quiet way, and although narie birds, some eight or ten in numovershadowed by the Presidential ber keep up very well with the music-Nominating Convention, as much has The church was very nicely trimmed

The tariff debate was plodding along over the lumber clause when Mr. Cox, of N. Y., created a diversion by acclamation. This was greeted with vociterous applause by the Demorats, and Mr. Marsney, who had the floor, waved his bandanna rapturous-ly. As soon as the Democrats had quieted down the Republicans answered them with a round of applause and hand-clapping.
