Cake Ornamentation.

A few years ago cake ornamentation was a very simple affar, but now it has come to be a fine art. The most exquisite designs are seen, but in this article we shall aim to discuss inexpensive styles and those that can be used by the non-professional.

Cut from writing paper (unruled) fowers and leaves. Dip them in white of egg not frothed, and then sprinkle with granulated sugar. It is best to use a sifter. Allow them to dry and then arrange on top of cake. Very pretty. ice your cake on top and sides, and when nearly dry stick in blen hed ally monds with points upwards, large raisins, and lay here and there thin strips of g. This is called the rustic cake, and is very beautiful.
