SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1897.

A single touch of warm sunshine in the early spring seems to have a peculiar effect on a great many people. It serves to bring about a feeling of lassitude—a very strong desire to do nothing. It makes them want to quit work or to do just as little of it as they possibly can. This feeling is a very hard one to get rid of, but it is not hard to account for. After a long winter, with very few bright days, with cold and rainy weather racing with each other to see which could get in the biggest record, the warm sunshine comes suddenly and simply upsets human calculations. It comes when the man is still clad in his winter garb, and he is not quite prepared for it. He welcomes it, but it takes him a little time to get accustomed to the change.

It is in this period of the year, when the sun starts in, as it did Wednesday, to make the positive announcement that spring is near at hand, that the man fears that something is wrong with him, and that he needs a doctor. He needs nothing of the kind. He simply has a little laziness. There is nothing wrong with him, and the remedy is infallible, though some times hard to take.

A Kansas City woman has been expelled from a society there composed of her sex, because she remarried three months after the death of her first. It does look as though she was a little hasty, but her first spouse was just as dead then as she would have had she waited indefinitely. Then again, she might possibly not have sustained much loss by his departure to another land, which is often the case, and outward manifestations of grief would have been mockery.

A Michigan lecturer against tobacco carries a bottle of nicotine, and during one of his discourses kills a cat by applying the liquid to its tongue. This proves nothing, except that he is a crank, and should be punished for cruelty to animals.

The latest addition to the list of freak bills is a proposition introduced into the New York Senate to prohibit the sale at retail of any article of merchandise for less than its cost, or at a price so low as to injure any competitor.

The Minnesota legislature has passed a law forbidding the sending of flowers to a murderer. Such a law should prevail in every state in the Union.

The Money Question.
 Is the question of the hour—is the question of dollars.
 Men who own gold mines want the standard to be a single gold dollar.
 Men who own silver mines want a silver standard.
 Men who own BOTH gold and silver mines (there are only a few of us left) want a gold and silver standard.
 We've got a scheme!
 Sugar has gone up. If it goes much higher nobody but the angels can reach it. Oil is up among the clouds. A little higher and it can be poured upon the troubled waters in the clouds. Hides are up and shoes may go skyward, so the papers say.
 Why not make our dollars out of rubber? That's a great scheme; then they'll stretch. Its a pretty hard matter to make a five-dollar bill stretch over a ten-dollar purchase and even we can't do that for you; but yet, until rubber dollars are made, we'll come nearer to it than any store you know of.
 We'll stretch a dollar and fifty cents so that it will cover a fine pair of pants worth a dollar more.
 We'll stretch fifty cents of your silver money so that it will cover a splendid pair of Overalls—which will stand rough usage—worth one dollar, and they would cost you that if this store wasn't here.
 We'll stretch one dollar of your silver, paper or gold money so that it will cover a pair of nice Shoes, worth at least a dollar more.
 We'll stretch a dollar so that it will cover a dollar and a-half worth of Groceries.
 We'll stretch two dollars of your money so that it will cover enough dress goods to make a dress fit for your wife or daughter to wear to church.
 Want to stretch your money?
 Bring it to our store; you'll think it is rubber!
