

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Some News Collected at the National Capital by Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13, 1902.

The perfect discipline which prevails among the republicans in Congress and the ease with which a few leaders control the majority was well demonstrated on last Thursday when the House of Representatives voted 308 to 2.

That the individuality of members is destroyed and the wishes of certain constituents sacrificed are of little moment to the party leaders compared with what they choose to consider the party good.

One republican voted against the Hepburn bill, Loren Fletcher, of Minn. When seen by your correspondent he stated that numerous members of his party had come to him after the vote and expressed the wish that they had dared vote as he had done but the fear of the party lash doubtless prevented them from doing so.

Fletcher gives as his reason for voting against the measure the fact that he has had eight years experience as a member of the committee before which the pros and cons of the isthmian canal have been discussed and he believes that the enterprise is fraught with many dangers and that the estimates on the Nicaraguan route are far too low.

Fletcher admitted that he had voted for a canal along the Panama route but he is by no means enthusiastic for a canal along any route. He believes that the advantages from such a canal are greatly overestimated.

As a matter of fact, the republican leaders regarded any debate or decision by the House a mere waste of time and it is in the Senate that the subject will be discussed and a definite plan of action determined upon.

The action of Senator Morgan, in his capacity of chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, in submitting M. J. Lampre, the representative of the Panama Canal Company, is regarded as somewhat drastic, especially in view of the fact that M. Lampre was ready to go before the committee and furnish any information that might be required but, if the senator, after putting the representative of the French company under oath, should succeed in discovering evidence of the conspiracy he believes to exist between the Panama company and the trans-continental railroad companies his action will doubtless stand approved.

Admiral Walker has made public a statement in which he says that he has received from the headquarters of the Panama Canal Company in Paris a cablegram confirming the offer of their representative in Washington of all the property of the company for the flat price of $40,000,000.

The admiral states that he will call a meeting of the commission at the earliest practicable date to consider the proposition and make a supplementary report to the president. This report will be forwarded to Congress and it is unlikely that any definite action will be taken by the Senate until after it is received.

There seems to be little doubt that the chief opposition to the construction of the canal now emanates from Senator Allison and representative Cannon, chairman of the appropriations committees of the Senate and House respectively. Both of these gentlemen express themselves as astonished at the amount of money which the enterprise will require.

Cannon said yesterday: "The United States is a rich country and can well afford to undertake any enterprise which will make for its material welfare but that is not saying that it should enter into a vast undertaking of this nature without the most careful consideration of the prospective benefits and the most accurate estimates obtainable as to the eventual cost." Beyond that statement he refused to express an opinion.

The bill reported by the census committee of the House came up as special business on Friday, in that body, and was productive of a spirited debate by Chairman Hopkins on the one side and Representative Burkett, of Nebraska, on the other. The fact that the measure provides for a salary of $7,500 for Director Merriam, who is known to be a favorite of the administration but who is receiving far greater compensation than the heads of other bureaus in the government and the further fact that the protection of the Civil Service Commission was not secured to the clerks in the census bureau resulted in the bill's being referred back to the committee for revision.

When the committee has made such changes as the members desire it will undoubtedly pass the House and it is believed to be regarded with favor by the Senate.

Senator Fry is proving indefatigable in his efforts to secure the passage of the ship subsidy bill and his committee, the Senate committee on commerce, has spent many hours discussing its provisions. Senator Fry has himself prepared the report which he desires shall be favorably reported to the Senate but it is such a voluminous document that the committee ordered it printed before undertaking to read it. Senator Fry expects to secure the favorable action of the whole committee on the report next Thursday and he feels sure that if the committee reports in favor of the measure the Senate will pass it without question from the republican side of the chamber. The democrats who regard the subsidy as a pernicious form of legislation, will assert their opposition before it becomes a law, but merely with a view to recording their disapproval as they appreciate that there is little chance for effective opposition.

Blown to Atoms. The old idea that the body sometimes needs a powerful, drastic, purgative pill has been exploded; for Dr. King's New Life Pills, which are perfectly harmless, gently stimulate liver and bowels to expel all poisonous matter, cleanse the system and liberally cure constipation and sick headache. Only 25c at B. E. Cockey & Co's.

The Observer's "devil" in setting up a duck pepper, got "bananas" instead of "Havens." We remember not long since reading an article in Delaware exchange about a small wedding, and the "devil" had "the reception was hell" instead of "the reception was held." So it will be seen that the Observer's "devil" is not so bad.

Another cold wave struck this section last Friday night, and sent the mercury freezing up. Our harbor was again frozen down. But the steamers, when Anne opened it, about all our ice houses are now filled and there is no further use for a hard freeze, except to furnish the boys and girls with good skating and ice boating.

"Some time ago my daughter caught a severe cold. She complained of pains in her chest and had a bad cough. I gave her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy according to directions and in two days she was well and able to go to school. I have used this remedy in my family for the past seven years and have never known it to fail." Says James P. Prandergast, merchant, Annato Bay, Jamaica, West India Islands. The pains in the chest indicated an approaching attack of pneumonia, which in this instance was undoubtedly ward off by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It counteracts any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. Sold by B. E. Cockey & Co.

GORMAN IS SENATOR

The Maryland Legislature so Declared on Tuesday by a Majority of Votes.

Arthur P. Gorman was elected United States senator Tuesday by the Maryland Legislature, and will succeed George L. Wellington when that senator's term expires in March, 1903.

As was generally expected, Mr. Gorman received the full party vote, every democrat in either house naming him. There was not a member of the party absent. The republicans, who voted solely for William H. Jackson, were minus one member, Mr. Smoot, of Charles county, being the only absentee.

Both houses were crowded when the vote was taken. Politicians of high and low degree from all over the state were in Annapolis to witness the proceedings. Of course, a large majority of these were democrats but there was quite a good representation of republicans. The time fixed for taking the vote was 12 o'clock, and in order to clear the desks so that business might not be obstructed, both houses met at 10:30.

In three-quarters of an hour all matters in hand had been disposed of and the House then took a recess until 1:55. In the Senate the desks here, too, a recess was taken. Promptly at noon the respective gavels fell and the voting began. Nothing occurred in the Senate to detract from the solemnity of the proceedings, every senator, with a countenance about a yard long, announcing his choice in the gravest manner. Every one of the 17 democrats voted for Mr. Gorman and each congressman Jackson.

More interest was manifested in the proceedings of the House, where not a few looked for trouble. But here, too, everything passed off smoothly. About the only break in the roll call was occasioned by a mistake on the part of Mr. Hoffman, of Baltimore city, who inadvertently cast his vote for Arthur P. Gorman, but immediately corrected himself and roared of laughter. Mr. Straus voted for the democrat, as did the 51 democrats present. Every one of the 43 republicans present voted for their Governor Smith entered the chamber while the vote was being taken and occupied a seat next to the speaker.

The announcement of the result by the speaker was greeted with applause from the democratic side and immediately afterward both houses took another recess until 12:55, for which time the election of state treasurer was fixed at which time Hon. Murray Vandiver was selected to succeed himself.

Hon. Arthur Pue Gorman was born in Howard county, Maryland, March 11, 1839. He was the oldest son of Peter and Elizabeth A. (Brown) Gorman, the former a prominent Baltimore and Ohio Railroad contractor. His grandfather, John Gorman, came to this country in 1800 and settled in Harrisburg, Pa., afterwards removing to Baltimore.

The future senator enjoyed but a limited education, most of which was obtained in the public schools of Howard county. At the age of 13 he went to Washington and, through the influence of Judge Edward Hammond and Senator Stephen A. Douglass, secured a position as page in the United States senate. Prompt and obliging disposition made him a general favorite, and he was steadily advanced until he had held every subordinate position in that body.

The Senate became republican in 1861, but he was retained in its service and was later made postmaster. Opposition to the war effort by President Johnson gave offense to the majority and he was removed. Immediately, however, he was appointed collector of internal revenue for the Fifth district of Maryland. In 1869 he was elected to represent his county in the Maryland House of Delegates, and about the same time was appointed one of the directors of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company.

He was returned to the House in 1872 and elected speaker of that body by unanimous vote of his party caucus. Immediately after the adjournment of this session he was elected president of the canal company. In 1875 Mr. Gorman appeared in the state Senate as the successor of Hon. John Lee Carroll, and in 1881 was elected United States senator, to succeed Hon. William Pinkney Wever.

Senator Gorman was twice re-elected to the Senate and became a figure of national prominence. His leadership in the Senate fight against the Lodge election law, otherwise known as the "Force Bill," is reckoned his most splendid achievement and was the slogan of his followers in the late campaign.

In 1899 he was succeeded by Hon. Louis B. McComas and retired to private life. After much opposition demonstrated by some democratic members of the General Assembly, Hon. Murray Vandiver, of Harford county, was re-elected State Treasurer on Tuesday afternoon. To the intense surprise of everyone who was not in the "inside," notwithstanding the opposition of Mr. Straus, Mr. Vandiver received more votes than Mr. Gorman. He lost one democratic vote, but gained two republicans.

WEDDINGS.

A Romantic Marriage in Centreville—Dr. Adams Married in Baltimore.

Amidst the blaze of brilliant lights and the melody of a dreamy waltz, McFeely daughter of Mr. Harry J. McFeely, a prominent insurance agent and retired farmer of Centreville, and Mr. Claude Parks, oldest son of Mr. Rufus Parks, a well known merchant of Chestertown, were made known to each other. It was in the Church Hill dance, this beginning of a short but fortuitous courtship. We say two hearts met, for those intimately acquainted with the principals, who have watched them as they floated along with the current of love, can have no doubt as to the existence of soul affinity. But a month later, the young couple were in the arms of matrimony. The groom was the bridegroom, and the bride was the bride. The wedding was held at the residence of the bride's father, on Wednesday, January 8th, at 7 o'clock. Rev. E. K. Creed blessed these two, the only wedding made them one, the only witness being Mr. Len. Roberts, a friend of the bride, who the news became spread around Centreville little surprise was manifested; the expected had happened. For months past these two had been entirely devoted to each other and were very happy in each other's presence. The groom was attended by them, their attentiveness to each other was marked. There was no outcome—last Sunday evening's occurrence.

The bride was one of the most popular ladies of her town. A graceful dancer and a charming conversationalist, she had a large circle of admirers. The groom is a promising young business man of Centreville. Mr. and Mrs. Parks will reside in Chestertown. The young couple have our congratulations.

WALLS—WRIGHT. The marriage of Miss Frances Elizabeth Wright, youngest daughter of Mr. A. H. Wright, Centreville, to Mr. Edward S. Walls, also of Centreville, took place at the residence of the bride's father, on Wednesday, January 8th, at 7 o'clock. Rev. E. K. Creed officiating. Owing to recent death in the family of both the bride and groom, the marriage was very quiet. The bride was groomed in white Persian lawn, with trimmings of valenciene lace and ribbon, and carried a shower bouquet of white carnations and was unattended. The groom was attended by Messrs. Robert W. Edging, brother-in-law of the bride, and A. Clayton Hayden, both of Centreville. After the ceremony the couple left for a short trip, the bride wearing a tailor-made gown of black camel's hair, with hat to match. The couple were the recipients of many beautiful presents.

ADAMS—GOULD. Miss Annie H. Gould, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. K. H. Gould, was married at the home of her parents, 801 Jefferson avenue, Water street, Wednesday afternoon to Dr. Wilmer Adams, of Wye Mills. The ceremony was performed by the groom's father, Bishop Wm. Forbes Adams, of Eastern Shore, assisted by Rev. E. Church, Baltimore. The bride wore white organdie, trimmed with white chiffon, a white tulle veil and a diamond brooch. She carried a handsome bouquet of bride roses. The bridesmaid was the sister of the bride, Miss Helen P. Gould, who wore blue crepe de chine, trimmed with blue tulle ribbon and lace. Mr. H. K. Dulaney was best man. The room was darkened, the illumination being red lights hid in clusters of flowers. Only the immediate members of the two families were present. After the marriage a wedding breakfast was served, music being furnished by Steinwald's orchestra. The bride was well known in north and northwest Baltimore, where she had numerous friends, who sent many handsome and valuable presents. After a wedding tour the couple will live at the home of the groom in Wye Mills.

A Good Recommendation. "I have noticed that the sale on Chamberlain's Stomach & Liver Tablets is almost invariably to those who have once used them," says Mr. J. H. Weber, a prominent druggist of Cascade, Iowa. "What better recommendation could any medicine have than for people to call for it when again in need of such a remedy? Try it when you feel dull after eating, when you have a bad appetite, or when troubled with constipation, and you are certain to be delighted with the prompt relief which they afford. For sale by B. E. Cockey & Co."

A Deep Truster. "It is a mystery why women endure backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, fainting and dizzy spells when thousands have proved that Electric Bitters will quickly cure such troubles. 'I suffered for years with kidney trouble,'" writes Mrs. Phoebe Cherley, of Peterson, Ia. "and I have had pain in my back, but I did not purchase a bottle of Electric Bitters until I was nearly 40 years old, and I am now able to do all my housework." It overcomes constipation, improves appetite, gives perfect health. Only 50c at B. E. Cockey & Co., drug store.

A Cure for Lungago. Wm. C. Williamson, of Amherst, Va., says: "For more than a year I suffered from lungago. I finally tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm and it gave me entire relief, which all other remedies had failed to do." Sold by B. E. Cockey & Co.

Francis A. Bartlett Died.

Mr. Francis A. Bartlett died at his home near Centreville, this county, Friday evening of last week at 6 o'clock, after a few days illness of pneumonia, aged 74 years.

Mr. Bartlett passed his early years in the usual manner of farmers' boys part of his time devoted to work and the remainder to play and school. It was in 1839 that he removed to this county, from Caroline county and since that time he has been identified with the farming industry in this county. He owned a place of thirty acres, all under good cultivation.

In his political affiliations he was connected with the prohibition party, being a strong believer in the cause of temperance, and desirous of seeing the question assume a national bearing.

In 1852 a marriage ceremony was performed in Caroline county by which the fortunes of Mr. Bartlett and Martha J. Stack were united. After her death he married Deborah Drott, of Centreville. The widow of Mr. Bartlett was formerly L. S. Stauffer, of Pennsylvania, and the two children born to their union are Lulu and Nellie, who are at home.

The other children of the deceased are as follows: Emily, wife of W. F. M., a farmer residing near Centreville; Mary, wife of William D. Anthony, of Denton, Caroline county; Sarah, wife of James H. Carter, of this county; Francis A., Jr., a farmer in this county, and Mrs. John Bailey. Funeral services were held late home at 10 o'clock last Sunday morning. Interment was made in Centreville cemetery.

Higher Wages on Farms. Cheering news comes from "over the line." Delaware farmers report that the boom in farm products and high prices realized from the grain grown in this state has brought plenty of money in circulation. One merchant declares that farmers are paying up all the bills they owe. The piano, sewing machine and book men are busy. The demand for higher priced labor confronts the tiller of the soil. Wages are rapidly advanced and experienced farm workers command $18 per month. The real "men behind the plow" claim that this is not nearly enough pay, and that the farmers of New Jersey are paying from $25 to $35. As a result many of the best farm workers, unless offered inducements to remain, will leave for their soil early in the spring. A number of farmers have contracted with reliable men for an entire year and at considerably advanced wages.

To Meet Next Month. A meeting of the State Farmers' Institute will be held in the court house, Centreville, Wednesday and Thursday, February 5th and 6th. The Wednesday session will be from 1:30 to 10 P. M., and the Thursday session from 10 A. M., to 4 P. M. Everybody is invited and ladies are invited to attend the afternoon and evening sessions. The following is the program subject to change as conditions require: Afternoon session, 1:30, "Feeds and Feeding," H. P. Miller; "Poultry for Profit," C. E. Chapman. Evening session, 8:00, (only on written request, signed by twenty-five patrons.) Morning session, 10:00, "Methods of Feeding the Calf as to Make a Good Cow," C. E. Chapman; "Care of the Horse," H. P. Miller. Afternoon session, 1:30, "Value of Water and its Conservation," C. E. Chapman; "The Steer That Takes the Prizes and How He is Grown," H. P. Miller.

Incidentally Arrested. George Hewitt, the 18 year old boy who was mentioned as a suspected incendiary of the large stables on the "Round Top" farm, where 8 horses, two cattle and a valuable lot of produce was consumed, was tried before Justice C. E. Smith, at Church Hill, Monday afternoon. The evidence showed that Hewitt was seen at various intervals on the way to the stables, and back, a distance of about 3 miles. Tracks were shown fitted exactly in the tracks. It was shown that Hewitt had had trouble with the McKee family. The boy could prove little in defense and was accordingly held for court, without bail.

A Profitable Investment. "I was troubled for about seven years with my stomach and in bed half my time," says E. Demick, Somerville, Ind. "I spent about $1,000 and never could get anything to help me until I tried Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have taken a few bottles and am entirely well." You don't live by what you eat but by what you digest and assimilate. If your stomach doesn't digest your food you are really starving. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure does the stomach's work by digesting the food. You don't have to diet. Eat all you want. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure cures all stomach troubles. J. S. Denny and Wye Mills drug store.

A Shoemaker Missing.

Theodore Swinkey went to Baltimore on Christmas Eve on the steamer Gratitude from Centreville to purchase leather. He has not returned or been seen since. The following description of Swinkey was furnished the police: About 5 feet 5 inches tall, small build, 55 years old, dark complexion, dark hair and mustache, wore a black overcoat and brown suit of clothes, light alpine hat and had on long boots. He is unmarried and a shoemaker by trade. H. B. Painter, with whom Swinkey boarded at Centreville, moved to Baltimore on January 2nd. Painter became very much alarmed at his friend's mysterious disappearance and, together with W. James Dillin, has searched the city for the missing man. Painter said Thursday night that Swinkey had no relatives in this county. He came from Centreville about 19 years ago. Painter said, however, that Swinkey had disappeared once before, about 40 or 12 years ago, and had caused much alarm among his friends. He, however, returned to his home after an absence of 10 days.

Farmers are Slow to Contract. Packing houses on the Eastern Shore are experiencing more difficulty this year than ever before in making contracts with farmers, and some of them are turning their attention to renting land and growing crops themselves. Last year, when potatoes were scarce, many growers jumped their contracts until courts intervened. This year the growers are holding aloof. The price per ton for tomatoes has been $5 and $6. This year the packers are offering $7, but the growers are slow in coming forward to make contracts.

REMARKABLE CURE OF CROUP. A Little Boy's Life Saved. I have a few words to say regarding Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It saved my little boy's life and I feel that I cannot praise it enough. I bought a bottle of it from A. E. Steere of Goodwin, S. D., and when I got home with it the poor baby could hardly breathe. I gave the medicine as directed every ten minutes until he "threw up" and then I thought sure he was going to choke to death. We had to pull the phlegm out of his mouth in great long strings. I am positive that if I had not got that bottle of cough medicine, my boy would not be on earth today. JOEL DEMICK, Inwood, Iowa. For sale by B. E. Cockey & Co.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT

NELATON'S REMEDY FOR RHEUMATISM

"My wife had a fall last winter, straining the muscles of her lower limbs, when she was 80 years old. I got her feet damp and she was so stiff that she could not walk. I tried everything, but she would not get better. I then used NELATON'S REMEDY for rheumatism. It was a blessing. She is now as well as she can be expected to be. I can recommend NELATON'S REMEDY." Most respectfully yours, J. L. WOODS, Cary, Va.

"Before taking NELATON'S REMEDY I was unable to work. I tried everything, but it did not do me any good. I then used NELATON'S REMEDY, two bottles of which completely cured me." Most respectfully yours, JAB. H. CURTIS, Baltimore.
