Washington, April 7, 1902.-The democrats in the Senate will oppose the Cuban reciprocity bill to man," said a prominent democrat ic senator yesterday when I asked his position in regard to the pending "The republicans in the House have hold up this legislation until their friend, the Sugar Trust, has secured options on all of this year's sugar crop and on part of next year's crop. Moreover, by the testimony of their own officials, from the President down, the proposed reduction in the tariff is not sufficiently large to afford any material relief to the Cubans. As a matter of fact, th real purpose of those republicans in Congress who are championing this bill is to throw a sop to public opinion by appearing to legislate in Cuba's favor while, at the same time, they permit the island to drift into such desperate financial straits that sooner or later she will have to apply for annexation-or the United States will have to interfere to put down an insurrection—and then Cuba will be made a dependency in accordance onstrated in the Philippines. No prospect of citizenship will then be accorded to Cuba and she will, if the republicans are successful, tecome a session without a vote in the councils of the nation. The democrats in the Senate have served formal notice to Senator Platt of Connecticut, that they will vote against the Cuban bill. Moreover some of the most influential republi cans are contemplating opposition and it now looks as if the President would have the work which he did with the House to do over again with | tice. the senators. It was rumored about the Capitol, Saturday that Senator Hanna would oppose the measure but the senator had gone to the Good Roads Convention at Charlottsville, Va., so I was unable to secure either confirmation or denial of the rumor.

On Thursday the Senate passed the all along been opposed to this measure, was brought into line by a flood of letters and petitions which came to him from all sections and which illustrated how systematic was the work of the promoters of the measure. The bill, as passed, contained Senator Harris' amendment including renovated and adulterated butter in the provisions applied to oleomar-Senator Spooner, Friday morning. "To use a Hibernianism, that cow was a boar." Friday and Saturday both Houses devoted themselves to the consideration of bills providing for the exclusion of the Chinese. Senator Mitchell, of Oregon, opened the debate in omatic gallery. At times the Celestial gentleman showed of larger vessels to and from Crumpthe senator proceeded with his able speech. There is no exact party division on the question of the exclusion of Chinese coolies but there are various differences of opinion as to ed by visitors from all parts of the the best methods to be employed. As state. soon as the bill is disposed of in the-Senate the Philippine government bill will be taken up and that will be followed by the Cuban bill.

On Tuesday the House of Representatives will take up the Cuban reciprocity bill and, while the debate ally invited. were gradually coming to accept his view of the situation and that he thought a great majority of them would vote for annexation if they had the opportunity.

The indications of democratic success in the coming elections continue to multiply at the Capitol. The apprehension of the republican members is growing more and more apparent, as evidenced by their opposi-tion to the removal of the republican headquarters to Chicago, which will undoubtedly occur if Representative in New York, Pennsylvania and other and they do not consider that they other hand, the leaders say that the western members have jeopardized their chances of reelection by yielding to the wishes of the eastern protectionists and permitting the Dingley schedules to remain intact and. therefore, they are entitled to all the assistance that the national committee can render them. The democrats themselves say that all "news from home" is of a most favorable character and they look for complete control of the next House.

The President is causing the republican leaders much anxiety by his threatened purpose of retiring General Miles. The President, it is said, believes that the general has outlived his usefulness in the army and that his place ought to be filled by a younger and more progressive man. He is also sadly disappointed that General Miles should have succeeded in defeating, at least for this session, the army reorganization bill, which was almost as much "a child of his brain" as of Secretary Root's. Another source of annoyance is the President's determination to give to The Queen Anne's Railroad Com-Pension Commissioner Evans an appointment which will be regarded as a promotion and which the politi- time a new schedule will go into ef- suffered for many years from a sore ticians fear will offend the G.
