

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Some News Collected at the National Capital by Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 28, 1902.—The past week in the Senate has been characterized by a searching arraignment of the republican policy in the Philippine islands.

During the major portion of three sessions Senator Rawlins, of Utah, delivered a speech which set forth the aims and intentions of the administration and pointed out how the republicans had special concessions of the islands were to be farmed out to administration favorites at the expense of the Filipino people.

On Friday and Saturday, Senator Carmack delivered a brilliant address especially noteworthy for its demonstration of the inconsistency of the President in condemning those who have defended the rights of the Philippines and its denunciation of Brig. General Funston, whom he described as the "most vicious and cruel" of men.

General Funston, whom he described as the "most vicious and cruel" of men, before ever marshaling a dictionary battle array, the mightiest Sanson that ever wielded the jawbone of an ass as a weapon of war.

The unqualified condemnation and the accompanying bitter denunciation of the Tennessee senator produced their effect on his opponents and there are prospects that Senator Lodge's edict, "Let the democrats do all the talking," will be defied and that those senators who will soon be compelled to go before their constituents for reelection will insist on making some reply to the charges which have been made against their spirit of justice and Americanism.

In almost entire support of the democratic position, has been the testimony recently taken before the Philippine committee, and finally the news has come from Manila that Gen. Jacob H. Smith has admitted to the court-martial before which he is being tried, that he gave orders to Major Waller to kill and burn and make Samar a howling wilderness and that he especially ordered the killing of all Filipinos over ten years of age.

As if to substantiate the democratic claims that the islands have been the scene of untold outrages and that the policy of the administration has been to suppress the facts, continually augmented evidence has been presented of the use of the "water cure" and other forms of torture and oppression, in absolute violation of all the tenets of a civilized and enlightened nation.

"Tariff reform will be one of the leading issues of the next and especially of the next presidential campaign," said Senator Moses of Mississippi, yesterday, when I asked him of the prospects of Cuban reciprocity in the Senate.

"The republican party," continued the senator, "dare not reduce the tariff which has built up. Great moneyed interests protect at any reduction because such reduction curtails their profits and these interests are stronger than the party."

"The removal of the differential on refined sugar was a step in the right direction. The profits, however, Trust would have been reduced to the material benefit of the people but the bill was not amended in the House with the expectation that it should pass, but rather with the expectation that the amendment would kill it and there is no chance for the bill, as amended, in the Senate. Notwithstanding the fact that many of the Dingley rates were made purposely high with a view to providing a margin for the negotiation of reciprocity treaties, no treaties are confirmed by the dominant party, no reduction of tariff rates is made and the people naturally turn to the democratic party for relief and they will get it."

Opinion in the Senate is still greatly divided as to the outcome of the Cuban reciprocity bill when it is reported but, as far as I can learn, the democrats will try to amend it as was done in the House. That they will be successful is possible as they are likely to have the support of the best sugar senators and, if they do it will probably kill the bill on its final passage. The present indications are that the republican senators will be satisfied if the plants have not put forth to any extent and the season will permit it to die in conference with little regret.

"The republicans will shed few tears over the death of the bill in conference," was the reply of a democratic senator who is in a position to know, what is mentioned him on the subject, Saturday.

The House of Representatives during the past week has passed the Military Academy bill and has returned to conference the Chinese Exclusion and Oronogargine bills. It also attempted to make a record on Friday by passing 145 pension bills in a few hours. The Agricultural Appropriation bill is now under discussion. To-day a special rule will be reported for the consideration of the Omnibus Public Building bill which will be taken up to-morrow. The bill authorizes the expenditure of public funds in all but two states and carries a total appropriation of $15,800,000. Any anxiety which may have been felt earlier in the session as to the surplus in the treasury is rapidly disappearing as this promise to be a billion and a half dollar Congress.

The constant recurrence of rumors of Senator Hanna's aspirations for the next presidential nomination, notwithstanding the senator's gentle denials, renders his political methods particularly interesting at this time. Apparently the senator from Ohio is particularly proud of his reputation for "standing by his friends," "standing by one's friends under fire," I believe it used to be called in the time of President Grant. Two conspicuous examples have recently attracted public attention. One, the case of Rathbone, the Cuban post-office fund encroacher, whom Hanna succeeded in getting out of prison on bail, and the other, Harrison Wagner whose military record, Senator Hanna introduced a bill to correct.

The action of Governor Smith in commuting the sentence of Lloyd L. Burke to life imprisonment in the State penitentiary, is being severely criticized by our people and many have expressed themselves in no uncertain language. That a grave mistake has been made and one fraught in the untold consequences is generally recognized. Burke's crime was a most heinous one. Sedition are we called upon to face one of a more revolting nature. His trial was conducted in all fairness and justice to him. His able counsel spared no efforts to have him acquitted yet, 12 unprejudiced men, after hearing the evidence, declared him guilty. The judges evidently shared the belief of the jury as they imposed the heaviest penalty of the law. After several delays in carrying out the instructions of the court the Governor steps in and nullifies the action of the judges and jury by commuting the sentence. What a miscarriage of justice and travesty upon our laws! In trying circumstances as the crime Burke stands guilty of, the thoughtful and sane always advise moderation and beg that the law be allowed to take its course. In future cases where the honor and purity of our mothers and wives has been betrayed the impetuous ones will cite this instance of lenient justice and will insist on taking the law in their own hands and lynching will be the result.

Origin of the Wedding Ring. The wedding ring is the subject of quaint historical facts and endless superstitions. It was probably chosen as the symbol of marriage more for convenience than anything else. It is supposed to be a metal of unbroken love and of power, and to carry special curative virtues with it. The old good luck saying about it is, "As your wedding ring wears, your cares will wear away." The ancients, Pliny and Aristotle, believed that a delicate nerve ran directly from the "ring finger" to the heart, and that the ring placed on that finger was very closely connected with the heart. In early Christian marriages the ring was put on the third finger of the bride's hand, then on the first finger, then on the second, and, last of all, on the third, saying as he did: "In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The third and first fingers represented the "Trinity," the first finger was the one the ring was left on to show that, next to God, a woman's duty was to her husband.—May Lady's Home Journal.

CANNERS COMBINE.

The American Packing Association Controls 120 Canneries in Six States.

At a meeting held in the Clayton House on Thursday, April 24th, says the Wilmington (Del.) Morning News, the American Packing Association, which was recently organized in Ocean state, was organized and is now ready for business. The officers chosen were: Wm. P. Hutson, of Philadelphia, president; W. L. Stevens, of Cedarville, N. J., vice president; H. K. Neff, of Philadelphia, treasurer; C. M. Dashiell, of Princess Anne, secretary, and Alfred Bilderback, of Salem, N. J., Thos. L. Day, of Ridgely, James Wallace, of Cambridge, and H. E. Cannon, of Bridgeton, directors with the officers.

The company has a capital stock of $500,000, and has already secured control of most of the canning plants in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, numbering 120 in all and valued at over $500,000. There are still several plants to be secured, but it is not thought there will be any trouble in accomplishing that object, and when it is done the company will have a monopoly of the vegetable canning industry, and the sale of the goods in the East. The fruit canning industry is also included and the company under its charter has power to can vegetables and meats but this branch of the business will not be considered at present.

The company started with $200,000 capital stock paid in, but it has power to increase to $5,000,000 as stated, and stock will be issued from time to time as necessary. It was decided to have the company organized in Delaware, the selling agents of the company, and H. H. Ward was selected as attorney to represent the company in Delaware, the law being made by the Delaware legislature. It is now intended for the company to get down to practical work and in a short time a meeting of the directors will be held at which a decision will be reached as to the price to be charged for the goods and also the price to be paid by the company for raw materials. The company will regulate the pack in the various factories and the entire canned goods trade in this section will be under the direct management of the directors of the company. Heretofore it has been possible for those furnishing raw material to make different arrangements with different factories, but under the new company the prices will be uniform and under uniform conditions. This will enable the packers to know where they stand and the men who furnish materials will also be sure of their money and will not have a prey to people who were running a racket in speculation, and in case they failed to sell goods, also failed to pay their bills for materials.

Georgia peach growers have lately met and discussed means of getting rid of dishonest commission men through whom they have lost heavily. It was resolved to appoint a committee of eight which shall select reliable commission men or firms in the various cities of the United States to handle Georgia fruit. Such firms shall organize themselves into an association for thorough cooperation and concert of action in the interest of Georgia fruit-growers, keeping the various cities of the United States fully informed of condition of stock and markets, prices, needs, etc., and keeping complete records of all sales. Growers to cooperate fully and freely, shipping only to firms selected, and keeping them informed of crop prospects, conditions, etc. Every effort to be made by the committee to keep markets properly supplied and to avoid glutts at any time. The Maryland legislature some years ago passed a law intended to protect shippers against the dishonesty complained of in this State, but it may be that organization of the growers here would greatly help the cause of the farmers whose products go to cities far away.

GOT AHEAD OF THE LAW.

450 Italians Under Two Bosses Work 24 Hours Without Eating or Sleeping.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, which for a year past has been trying to connect its station on the Washington and Ocean streets, Cape May, N. J., has succeeded at last in making the coveted connection, and cars were run over the line Sunday evening. From 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon until late Sunday morning 450 Italian laborers worked the beavers with shovel and pick to get ahead of the law, and they accomplished the purpose which the Reading company has been seeking for a year.

For 21 consecutive hours, under the direction of General Superintendent Garrett and District Superintendent McCausland, the laborers worked without the thought of eating or sleeping, and the result of all this effort is seen in the practical construction of the electric road, which starts at the foot of Ocean street and runs three blocks along that fashionable thoroughfare to Washington street, connecting the station with the Queen Anne's pier at the foot of Broadway. At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the roadbed was finished and all the poles were in place, leaving nothing to be done but the stringing of the overhead wires.

The stringing of the line completes the Reading's route from Camden to Cape May point, which has been desired since last May. It also completes the route from New York to Philadelphia by way of the Central and New Jersey lines. The Reading ferriage across Delaware bay and the Queen Anne's Railroad.

The only effort to stop the work was made about 10 o'clock Sunday morning when a delegation of church-going members of the United Methodist church in Jersey City, N. J., asked him to have it stopped. He said he could not issue warrants on Sunday but that they might call on officers to arrest any person they saw violating the Sunday laws. But no such call was made, and the mayor did not interfere. The opposers of this project were very much disturbed. But they were powerless to act as no writ of injunction could be obtained from the courts before 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Read 50 for Helping in Pension Fraud. Mr. J. Asbury Hyland, one of the most prominent citizens of Crumpton, and well known throughout the upper section of this county, pleaded guilty in the United States District Court last Saturday of aiding Julia A. Bordley, an aged colored woman of Crumpton, in a fraudulent attempt to secure the continuance of a pension of $8 a month. Mr. Hyland was fined $50 which was immediately paid.

The indictment charged that the offense was committed on September 14, 1900 when Mr. Hyland was a justice of the peace. It is alleged that the woman was granted the pension on the basis of a false affidavit which she did several years ago. She was already married to a man named Joshua A. Gibbs and had left him when she was married to Bordley. She represented to Mr. Hyland that she was a widow, although she had another husband living, concerning which Mr. Hyland knew nothing. Other witnesses also swore before him that she was Bordley's widow. On the strength of this false statement he recommended that the pension be issued to her. The United States pension officers discovered that the pension was secured through fraud and immediately took steps to prosecute those implicated in the fraud. Mr. Hyland was not in any way implicated in the fraud, he was advised by his friends and by the United States attorney to plead guilty as the cost of carrying on the suit would be heavier than paying the fine.

A Large Tomato Crop. Canned tomatoes sold this week at $1.35 a dozen. This is the highest price for tomatoes since July, 1893, when they sold at $1.15 a dozen. A member of a canned tomato brokerage firm speaking of the future of tomatoes, said: "From present prospects the tomato crop will be a large one this season, and prices will probably be low for canned goods. It is, of course, too early to give any information regarding the crop, but the outlook at present is very bright. Packers are now making preparations for the pea pack. This work will begin between May 20 and May 21 next for the present season. If we should have had weather, however, the packing of peas will not begin until some time later. The present condition of the crop is good, and on all indications there will be plenty of peas. There is some fear expressed of the pea house and the locust, but I do not think these insects will do any great amount of harm. The general outlook is for lower prices for canned goods this season."

Want's Follow Advice After Paying for It. In a recent article a prominent physician says: "It is impossible for the physician to get his patients to carry out my prescribed course of hygiene or diet to the smallest extent; he has but one resort left, namely, the use of medicine." When medicines are used for chronic constipation, the most mild and gentle obtainable, such as Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, should be employed. Their use is not followed by constipation as they leave the bowels in a normal and healthy condition. For sale by B. E. Cockey & Co.

WILL ASK A MANDAMUS.

Liquor Dealers of Chapel District Apply for a License and are Refused by the Clerk.

That the liquor dealers of Chapel district will fight to the last ditch the law passed at the recent session of the legislature, by which the sale of liquor in that district will be prohibited after May 1, was demonstrated Monday.

On that day a number of those who were recommended for license by the last grand jury were in town in consultation with their attorneys, and later, Mr. Henry M. Ziegler applied to Clerk of the Court Wrightson for a license, at the same time tendering the money for the same. Mr. Wrightson, who had previously consulted with State's Attorney Mullikin as to his action in the event of such a contingency, refused to issue a license, and was notified that a mandamus would be asked for.

It is understood that Mr. Ziegler is simply making a test case, and is backed by the other dealers. Both Ziegler and the plaintiff, Geo. C. Wilson, represent the plaintiffs.

Mr. Wilson, when asked Wednesday, what would be their grounds for asking for the mandamus, said that the application had not yet been filed, but that the constitutionality of the act would probably be attacked. The law, in addition to stopping the sale of liquor in the district, also prohibits the giving away of it, and this is claimed to be unconstitutional. Another plea that will probably be brought forward is that the November grand jury having recommended that licenses be granted to certain men, the legislature cannot nullify that action. It is not thought, however, that there is anything in this plea.

Following their precedent, it is not considered probable that our court will attempt to pass upon the constitutionality of the act, and that the whole case will go to the Court of Appeals.—Philadelphia Times.
