Some News Collected at the National Capital by Our Regular Correspondent. WASHINGTON, Sept. 22nd, 1902 .-Simultaneously with the announcement which reached Washington, from the conference held at Oyster Bay last week, that the President would advocate no changes in the tariff schedules and would denounce the democratic position and, that formerly held by Chairman Babcock and still held by many Iowa and other western republicans, came the announcement from Illinois that Senator Cullom had addressed a large audience at Carthage and had stated that the time for tariff revision was at hand, "While I believe in a protective tariff," said the senator, "I do not believe in holding onto a high protective tariff longer than is neces-sary in the interests of the business and labor of our country. In my judgment, the time has come when reductions ought to be made in many instances," The conflicting statements of the republican leaders and Senator Cullom, who is regarded as a power in Illinois, caused consternation in republican circles and immediately the wires were hot with messages begging Cullom to suppress such heretical beliefs in the future. Whether he will consent to suppress his views in order to keep up the pretence of a harmonious party however, remains to be seen.

At almost the same hour, came the news that Speaker Henderson had declined to stand for reelection because riff question entirely coincides with that of the republican leaders and structions for the children. with that which the President has agreed to uphold, regardless of his own convictions, throughout his western trip. It is said at democratic headquarters that, unfortunately for the President, he has been led by his advisors to believe that the capitalis tic faction of his party represents the general sentiment and, that he will suffer a rude awakening in the west. It is also predicted that now the President has abandoned his heretofore independent position on public questions and his right to think for himself, he will rapidly forfeit the respect of the independent voters, whose approval he has had in the past and, that the eventual result of his action will be to pave the way for a great democratic victory in the next national election.

While disclaiming the intention accredited to them, of making an attack on the private character of Speaker Henderson, the democratic leaders do not regret the tangible evidence which his action presents of the serious split in his party in the west. They welcome this demonstration of the fact that a large portion of the republicans of the third Iowa district hold the same views as themselves and desire to see the tariff reduced on trust made articles. The campaigns which are being made by the Minnesota, republican candidates leave no doubt of the situation in that state and even if these candidates are elected they will come to the Fifty-eighth Congress pledged to vote with the democrats for tariff re-

President Roosevelt and Secretaries Shaw and Root have all gone west with the intention of inspiring republican hope in that section ar trying to divert the people from their demands for legislation which will rob the trusts of their great power. As has been heretofore predicted in these letters, Senators Hanna, Platt and others are making no objection to the President's constitutional amendment scheme for controlling the trusts, for they well know that, irrespective of the correctness of the President's theory, its accomplishcome on his return from Paris, but a request from the President to take the stump and explain the severity of the measures he has inaugurated against the trusts awaits him here. The spectacle therefore, of the President and practically all his cabinet converting themselves into spellbinders, for the purpose of continuing republican supremacy and diverting legislation which means serious loss to the proprietors of the trusts, is one that the country will have to contemplate in the near future.

Before leaving Washington, Secretary Shaw again came to the relief of Wall street and the New York bankers and added $10,000,000 to the deposits in that city. This action is new quarters, the store formerly octaken at the behest of certain influcupied by Wm. T. Pratt, Thursday ential republicans and notwithstand. ing the secretary's protest, registered earlier and his own statement, that he believes Congress should take some measure which would obviate the real or funcied necessity of the government's coming to the rescue of the financial interests whenever the money market becomes "tight." It is wellknown however, that the republicans are themselves seriously divided on the currency question and, that they dare not take any positive steps to make perfect the establishment of the gold standard because of the op position such action would create in their own ranks. It was that fear that prevented action on the Fowler bill, which it was claimed would obviate the recurrence of situations similar to that in New York.

PARETHE FRUIT BEFORE

Cating Says Dr. Cathwell and Thus Avoid Carefully wash or, better still, peel ll of the fruit and regetables which you eat in the raw state and the chances of your contracting typhoid fever will be very much lessened. This is the theory advanced by Dr. D. W. Cathell, 1308 North Charles street, Baltimore. Dr. Catheli is convinced that seven out of every ten cases of typhoid fever which has come under his notice since he has been practicing have been caused not by water or milk, but simply because the germs were on the surface of the fruit or vegetable eaten by the pa-

"If there has been typhoid fever in a locality," said Dr. Cathell, "it is very reasonable to believe that the germs have gotten into the soil, and especially in view of the way farms and gardens in the vicinity of Baltimore are fertilized. Now, the germs get into the wells and streams by being washed down by the rain, so why should not fruit and vegetables which have been in contact with that soil bear the germs on their surfaces.

"The rain frequently washes the earth up on the tomatoes as they hang on the vines and peaches and apples fall to the ground and often lie in puddles of water which may be infested with the germs of typhoid fever. They are picked up, rubbed off and taken to market.

"If you will look at a tomato you will frequently and, indeed, generally, find earth on it in one place or nother. Where it joins the stem there is often quite a cavity left when the vegetable is gathered, and there are generally seams and depression in it, in which you can find traces of the soil. That is where I believe the germs lurk. Why, when a man has half a peck of tomatoes from a lo-cality where there has been typhoid,

he probably has 40,000 germs.

"Many people will take a tomato or a peach and will rub it off with their hands and eat it, without stopping to think what danger they may be running. The fuzz of the peach makes it easy for the germs to cling. Radishes, too, which came right out of the ground, may be a source of the late Mary E. Roe, will sell the danger, and cantaloupes would be another were it not that we do not touch the rind with our lips.

"Typhoid germs live and propagat in the soil, and they may be there for months or perhaps years after there has been a case of typhoid

"What strengthens me in my be lief that it is the dirt on the fruit and vegetables that people eat that gives them typhoid is the fact that the disease is only prevalent during the season when there is a great crop of fruit and vegetables and people are most apt to eat them raw. Take the skin off the peach, apple or tomato when you cat it and in that way you will avoid the germs. This is such a simple precaution that anybody can follow it, and the theory itself is so simple a one that I am surprised that it has not been generally advanced. In all the course of my reading of the literature of typhoid fever I have never come across it, however."

Mr. Ellegood can see it.

The President and the Republican eaders will not take the most obvious way of protecting the people from trusts. It is to take the tariff off all trust articles. Remove the tariff from coal, for instance, admit Nova Scotia coal free and the coal strike will be ended. Take the tariff tax from fresh meats and we will soon be able to eat good heef again. And so on through the whole list of trust protected articles. Mr. Roosevelt is too strenuous to see it. Mr. James E. Ellegood, however, can see it, and if we misgets to campaigning.—Col. Haddaway in the Easton Ledger.

TO PREVENT BRIBERY.

Mr. Ellegood Meets Friends at Easton and Plans will be Submitted to Jackson. The Democratic Campaign Committee of the First district met in Easton, Thursday afternoon and was n conference with James E. Ellegood, the candidate for Congress from his district. All of the counties were represented. Those present were: John M. Tucker, of Elkton; Marion DeK. Smith, Richard D. Hynson and W. W. Beck, of Chestertown; John E. George and W. O. Thomas, of Queen Anne's; Emerson C. Harring-ton, of Cambridge; Dr. Gordon T. Atkinson, of Somerset; J. F. Turner, James Covington, Joseph B. Har-rington, Col. Oswald Tilghman; G. E. Haddaway, Thomas H. Trippe and others from Easton. It was the sense of the meeting that the campaign should be con-ducted along Mr. Ellegood's lines against bribery and, that money necessary only for plain and understandable campaign expenses should be spent. Plans were made which will be submitted to the Republican candidate for his consideration immediately. Should he refuse to enter into an arrangement for the suppression of bribery, involving the detection, arrest and punishment of all guilty of violating the constitutional provisions and the statutory enactments against bribery, the Democratic campaign will, nevertheless, go straight on according to Mr. Ellegood's ideas. It was demonstrated Thursday that he has the party leaders with him in the district. It is stated that the proposition to tendered to Mr. Jackson, the Republican candidate, is to limit the xpenditures in each county to about 500-this sum to cover all expenses. He will also be asked to join and to ask his party friends throughout the district to co-operate with him in the formation of committees in each elec-tion district for duty on election day. Numbers of these committees will be expected to watch the polls and to insist upon the arrest of every man engaged in the purchase of votes. It has been known that Mr. Ellegood contemplated this move, and the action of the committee, Thursday in custaining him was no surprise. It is not known here whether Mr. Jackson will co-operate with Mr. Ellegood in an attempt to put a stop to bribery.

The Democratic campaign will be opened in Somerset county at Deal's Island today. Hon. James E. Ellegood will positively be present, and other distinguished speakers are ex-pected. A band of music and an oyster roast will be features of the oc casion. All tidewater Democrats, as well as all other believers in good government and manhood suffrage, are earnestly invited to be present.

COST OF THE SLAG ROAD. 2800 will Produce a Mile, 12 Feet Wide of Road Similar to the Recently Made. The Maryland Geological Survey has made its first accurate estimate of the cost of modern construction on the Eastern Shore. The first piece of permanent highway on the shore is the short stretch of slag on the road between Centreville and Chestertown. This was constructed out of an appropriation of $500 for the material the farmers along the improvement furnishing the labor. The slag came from the steel works at Sparrows Point. Weather hardens it. When mixed with fine earth it acts as a cement. The longer it is exposed the harder it gets.

The length of the new improvement is 1100 feet, its width 15. Ten inches of slag were laid upon the crown of the road and 7 inches on its sides. 450 tons of coarse slag were used and 45 tons of a finer grade, The material was consolidated by a horse roller, weighing 31 tons, which was loaned by the Good Roads Machinery Company, of Pennsylvania, and transported free by the Pennsyl-vania Railroad Company. All plans and estimates for the improvement were made by the survey's highway engineer, A. N. Johnson, and his assistant, Mr. Harris. They also supervised the construction.

The farmers in the neighborhood of the road have contributed much for which the county would have had otherwise to pay.

The highway engineer places the total cost of the slag, placed on the road, at $1.43. It is estimated that 2400 tons of this material is necessary to build a mile of road, making the cost $3,432, to which must be added $44, the cost of shaping the road bed. This gives a total of $3,476 for a mile of road 15 feet wide. The cost per mile, 12 feet wide, would be $2800, and this, Mr. Johnson says, would be sufficient, except near large towns.

W. Irving Walker, a prominent farmer near Church Hill, was the chief promoter of the new improve-

Spreading Stable Manure

It may be better on some farms to haul manure directly to the field than to leave it exposed in winter and lose a portion of its soluble plant food. If manure is spread on land it should e as free as possible from litter and the best place to spread it is on grass land, as it will not then be so liable to the effects of the heavy rains as when the land has been plowed and the manure afterward spread. Blades too Precious to Pray for Rain. A member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, near Cordova, tells this good story about Rev. William E. Temple: Before the recent rains, when the earth was parched, the roads dusty and rough and the crops failing, Father Temple thought it became the church to pray for rain, and so one Sunday morning he gave notice that at the mass he would say a prayer for rain, and asked the people to respond in their silent devotions.
