Are now engaged in the introduction of all the Medical Gaffes, which have been administered with the greatest success in England, by Dis Beddows, Thornton, Stranger, Dobson and Samuel

Varley, professor of chemistry, and many others That the public may form some idea of the efficacy of those Galles, they submit the following extract of a letter from Mr. Varley to his daughter, Mrs. Hawkins; as well as feveral extracts from the manuscript of his lectures, delivered in London.

Chevening House, Jan. 19, 1809

My dear Jane. If you could make a connection with a medical person of character, who would deal honorably with you, I think you might introduce the Medical Airs with advantage to yourself and the public. The greatest cures that have of late been eff cted with them, is truly affinishing, in almost every species of inflamation; even inflamation of the brain, in a case where every other an plication was despaired of Dessness of more than 20 years flanding; and in the most obstinate ulcers, when every medical application had failed; in putrid severs and in mortifications. You well know many others, so that I need not mention them particularly, as well as the great cure you effected in Frith-ffreet (Soho) square, when falivation had been tried without effect

Extract from Lecture No. 10.

I shall begin my namative with the case of Mr. Newman-He was dangerously hurt in his leg by his stable boy; the wound increased rapidlyhis leg up to his knee was full of ulcers-there was no want of chirurgical affiftance, but all at tempts towards his cure proved finitiefs. He was advised to go to bath, where he bathed and drank the waters, from whence in three months he returned rather worfs, and for entiruset for three years. At last I was consulted, and had the happinels of curing him by the application of Ma

Mr. William's malady was also very remarkable, which was the Leproly of 23 years flanding. He was full of fores and uicers, in fime parts were holes which gave out pu-his back was parti ularly offentive. He heard of Dr. Thornton's recommending facticious airs, and for this reason he called for my affiliance. I administered to him a species of Medical Gale, with as equal surces as in all preceding cases, and it deferres particular notice, that the cure was effected eradicalia, though the Gais was applied only to oue leg and one thigh.

Another inflance to prove that Factitious Airs may be employed with fautary off et. I have ex perienced in a lady labouring under an Onthifi-She was given up as loft and incurable by the shy ficians. I administered to her the Hedrikarmonate; the recovered, and is now perfectly well.

Oxygene is of a great use in assimatic complaints. A Mr Hill, one of the life guards at St James's, had long lingered under this difeafe, giv en over by his phylicians, and is tended to go to Nottingham, his native place, to die amough his friends; he was told of navgene gale, and applied to me-I had a fmall portion prepared for aunther purpole, which I willing a gave him. He came the next morning, fe t much relieval, and had a better appetire for breakfalt. Lasministered to him another portion, and fo on fuccessively for some time; he was cured, and has been well for several years past

I also administered the oxygene gale with equal success to Sir H. Fletcher, Sir Richard Neave, Di. Lynd, lady Stanbupe, &c &c. &c. who were at cured (by inhaling this gafs) of this or other com-

Many other firiking inftances might be referred to, in scalded heals, mortifications, debility and pulmonic affections; but the foregoing are deem ed sufficient to prove the utility of the gaffes, which can be taken with the greatest faffity and eafe, without any disagreeable tenfations. Those who wish to be further fatisfied, can fee the manuscript from which these extracts were taken

It is not the intention of the subscribers to ad minister these gasses indiscriminately; and that they may not be accused of using them empyrically, they will refer in all cafe- to Dr Potter, and other eminent Physicians, who are well ac quainted with the theory of Drs Hay, of Leedi. Dobson, of Liverpool, Brddies, Stranger and Thornton, of London, who have all administered them with the greatest success, in Europe

Those Gabes will be prepared and administered by the subscribers at No. 11, South Calvert street, in private recens appropriated for that purpose.

TO THE PUBLIC.

There is perhaps no medical observation better? established, none more generally confirmed by the experience of the best physicians, of all ages and countries, and none of more importance to the practitioner, than the fact, that many of the most difficult and incurable complaints originate in neglected colls. In a climate as variable as ours, where the changes of weather are frequently sudden and unexpected, it requires more care and attention to guard against this subtle and daugerous enemy of life, than most people imagine, or are able and willing to bestow. Hence the number of patients afflicted with coughs, catarries, astrimas, consumptions, and other af fections, and hence the farrago of rational and abtard remedies, cried up by the learned and illit rate. The many cases of the kind which fell und r my observation, the preposterous compositums of inflaming drugs, which are in vigue, the disappointments I expenenced in practice from remedies highly recommended, and my own predisposition to palmon cc mp.au.ts, were strong induciments for me to consider, whether a compound creating of mild regetable substances, could not be invented, more free from the well founded objections of practitioners, and better exculated to avert the threatening destruction of

I have the satisfaction now to offer to the publie such a remedy, under the name of the Vaca-TABLE PULMONIC DETERGENT, well adapted to various constitutions and nabits, and to declare with the fallest confidence that I found this composition in a great variety of cases far superior to others intended to answer the same purpose. ware of the impossibility of universal remedies, destitute of the despicable and versitule talents of a Cha latan, I am too proud of the character of an honest man, ever to desire to profit by the Ignora- ce of the fick and afflicted, whilst I confine the use of my medicine to the off cts of a supprovid perspiration in their incipent state only, I Matter myself with the hope, that this candid ap-> a) to the understanding of an enlightened pubhe will ensure to my discovery a better fate and longer life, than the greater part of their bousted panaceas deserve. I am perfectly satisfied, that such practitioners, who have frequently to combat the effects of a suppressed respiration, and do not neglect the use of the lancet and other erzenations, whenever they are indicated, will place this medicine, provided they give it a fair and impartial trial, in the list of their most favorite remedies; that fam ties will substitute it fir the heating Clizir, paregoric and asthmatic, for their cough drops, pectoral Balsams and Syru; s; and that the manifest benefit derived by rich, who use it according to my directions, will prove a far better test of its value and usefulness, than ever so many certificates I could galm upon a discerning public.

GEORGE ROGERS.

No Relief-No Pay. This motto may be deemed offentatious by some, and amounting to a positiveness that the medicine will invaribly effect a cure in any state of disease, like a miracle; the proprietor is far from believing that this medicine will render mankind immortal, but he is fully sensible if taken sessonaby, and according to the directions, it will either prevent or cure, and if unfeafouably, it will most satisfully alleviate distress and prolong life, this is an inducement for him to make the bove overture should the contrary appear in any instance, as in some it possibly may, the money for the incdicine will be cheerfully refunded by the person who may rend the ame.
