THE PROPRIETORS

Mineral Wuter Warehouse Are now engaged in the introduction of all the Medical Gasses, which have been administered with the greatest success in England, by Dis Beddows, Thornton, Stranger, Dobion and Samuel Varley, professor of chemistry, and many others That the public may form some idea of the efficace of those Gaffes, they sub nit the following extract of a letter from Mr. Varley to his daughter, Mrs Hawkins; as well as several extracts from the manuscript of his lectures, delivered in London. Chescoing Ilinie, Jan. 19, 1809.

My dear Jane. If you could make a connection with a madical pert n of character, who would deal honorably with you, I think you might introduce the Medical Airs is ith advantage to yourfelf and the public. The great fleures that have of late both off eted with them, is truly aftenilhing, in almost every species of oftemation; even inflamation of the brain, in a c. se where every other application was despaired of Deafnels of more than 20 years flanding; and in the most obstinate u.cers, when every medical application had failed: in putrid fevers and in mortifications. You well know many others, to that I need not mention them particularly, as well as the great cure you off tred in Frith ffreet (Soho) square, when faliration had been tried without effect.

Extract from Lecture No. 10.

Gentlemen, I thall begin my narrative with the case of Mr. Newman-He was dangerously hurt in his leg by his stable boy; the wound increased tapidlytempts towards his citic proved fruitless. He was adrifed to go to bath, where he bathed and drank the waters, from whence in three months he returned rather worfe, and fo continued for three years. At last I was consulted, and had the hap-pinels of curing him by the application of Me-

From tagt 55. Mr Wilson's malady was also very tematkable, which was the Leprofy of 23 years standing. He was full of fores and ulcers, in fome parts were holes which gave out pus-his back was particularly offensive. He heard of Dr. Thornton's recommending facticious airs, and for this reason he called for my affiffance. I administered to him a species of Medical Gals, with as equal success as in all preceding cases, and it deserves particular notice, that the cure was effected eradically, though the Gals was applied only to one leg and Another inflauce to prove that Factitious Airs may be employed with falutary effect, I have experienced in a lady labouring under an Ohthilis-She was given up as loft and incurable by the physicians. I administered to her the Hydrocarmonate; the recovered, and is now perfectly well.

Oxygene is of a great ute in affirmatic complaints. A Mr. Hill, one of the life guards at St. Jaines's, had long lingered under this difeafe, given over by his physicians, and intended to go to Nottingham, his native place, to die amongst his friends; he was told of oxygene gals, and applied to me-I had a small portion prepared for annther purpole, which I willingly gave him . He came the next morning, felt much relieved, and had a better appetite for breakfast. I administered to him another portion, and so on successively for some time; he was cured, and has been weil for several years past I also administered the oxygene gass with equal success to Sir H. Fletcher, Sir Richard Neare, Dr. Lynd, lady Stanhope, &c &c. &c. who were all cured (by inhaling this gals) of this or other com-

Many other striking instances might be referred to, in scalded heads, mortifications, debility and pulmonic affections; but the foregoing are dermed sufficient to prove the utility of the galles, which can be taken with the greatest fasety and eafe, without any disagreeable lenfations. Those who wish to be further latisfied, can fee the manuscript from which these extracts were taken. It is not the intention of the subscribers to administer these gasses indiscriminately; and that they may not be accused of using them empyrically, they will refer in ail cases to Dr. Potter, and other emment Physicians, who are well acquainted with the theory of Drs Hay, of Leeds, Dobfon, of Liverpool, Beddows, Stranger and Thornton, of London, who have all administered them with the greatest success, in Europe

Those Gasses will be prepared and administered by the subscribers at No. 11, South Calvert street, in private rooms appropriated for that purpose.

FOR SALE, That valuable Truct of Land commonly called

THE BUDKIN-NECK.

VV HICH originally consisted of several tracts, was re-surveyed by me about 12 years since, and called GIBSON's IN-CLOSURE, containing about fisteen hundred acres, bounding on the east from the Bodkin-Point about four miles down the Chesapeake Bay to a long, '-fow beach Connegtinit, it with the estate in the north on the south and west by Dorril's C:53[] and Cornfield Creek, on the north, and north west by a sence of half a mile from the head of Cornfield Creek aforesaid to the head of the Bodkin Creek, and with that creek and the river Parapsco to the aforesaid Bodkin-Point; thus this Tract of Land is enclosed completely by water and half a mile of tencing, being about 12 or 13 miles from the city of Baltimore, and about 16 miles by land, on a public road under the care of a supervisor, at the expense of the county. There are four tarms on the different creeks, the out fencing of which, with the Chesapeake bay, enclose about one thousand acres of the most valuable wood land I know on either side of the bay, and make a complete deer pirk, in which there is a stock of upwards of titty head in fine healthy condition. Ip a gentleman of large fortune this compact and most valuable body of land would be a great acquisition, as it affords more natural advantages than almost any estate to be met with; its nearness to that great and increasing market of the city of Baltimore, navigation from every part of it, and the waters abounding with a great variety of wild fowl, ducks of different kinds, geese and swans, a great variety of fine fish, crabs and oysters, all in their different seasons. The timber on this estate consists chiefly of white oak, water oak, pine and chesnut, of the latter the whole of the fencing is made, and the land all level, well watered, and a good proportion of it suitable for meadow. Should this land not be sold in the entire tract, it will, in a short time, be laid off in convenient lots of from 150 to 400 acres each, so as to suit purchasers, and render each compact and conveniently situate on the water. Any reasonable accommodation will be given purchasers as to payment. Gentlemen may see the plats at my occasional residence on the north side of Magothy river, and if I am absent, there will be a person to shew the plats and the land, and can be comfortably accommodated. Letters addressed to John Gibson, Annapolis, will readily reach me whether there or at Annapolis. John Gibson.
