16. That no law to amaint particular persons of treason or felony, ought to be made in any case, or at any time hereafter.

17. That every freeman for every injury done to him in his goods, lands, or person, ought to have remedy by the course of the law of the land, and ought to have justice and right, freely, without sale, fully without any denial, and speedily without delay, according to the law of the land.

* 18. That the trial of facts where they arile, is one of the greatest fecurities of the lives, liberties, and estate of the people.

"19. That in all criminal profecutions, every man hath a right to be informed of the accusation against him, to have a copy of the indictment or charge in due time (if required) to prepare for his defence, to be allowed Council, to be confronted with the witnesses against him, to have process for his witnesses, to examine the witnesses for and against him on oath, and to a speedy trial by an impartial jury, without whose unanimous consent he ought not to be found guilty.

" 20. That no man ought to be compelled to give evidence against himself in a court of common law, or in any other court, but in such cases only as have been usually practised in this state.

"21. That no freeman ought to be taken, or imprisoned, or disseized of his freehold, liberties or privileges, or outlawed, or exiled, or in any manner destroyed, or deprived of his life, liberty or property, but by the lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land.

"22. That excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel or unusual punishments inflicted by the courts of law.

oath, to search suspected places, or to seize any person, or his property, are grievous and oppressive; and all general warrants to search suspected places, or to apprehend all persons suspected, without naming or defectibing the place, or any person in special, are illegal, and ought not to be granted.

16 24. That there ought to be no forfeiture of any part of the estate of any person for any crime except murder or treason against the state, and then only on conviction and attainder.

"25. That a well regulated militia is the proper and natural defence of a free government.

"26. That standing armies are dangerous to liberty, and ought not to be raised or kept up without confent of the legislature.

"27. That in all cases and at all times the military ought to be under strict subordination to, and controul of, the civil power.

"28. That no foldier ought to be quartered in any house in time peace without the consent of the owner, and in time of war in such manner only as the legislature shall direct.

"29. That no person except regular soldiers, mariners and marines in the service of this state, or militia when in actual service, ought in any case to be subject to, or punishable by, martial law.

"30. That the independency and uprightness of judges are essential to the impartial administration of justice, and a great security to the rights and liberties of the people; wherefore the chancellor and all judges and justices ought to hold commissions during good behaviour, removable only for misbehaviour, on conviction in a court of law, or by a vote of the legislature. That salaries liberal, but not profuse, ought to be secured to the chancellor and the judges, during the continuance of their commissions, and reasonable salaries, or sees, allowed to the officers: no chancellor or judge ought to hold any other office civil of military, or receive fees or perquisites of any kind.

"31. That a long continuance in the first executive departments of power or trust, is dangerous to liberty, a rotation therefore in those departments is one of the best securities of permanent freedom.

That no person holding a place of profit, or receiving any part of the profits thereof, or receiving the profits or any part of the profits arising on any agency for the supply of cloathing or provisions for the army or navy, or holding any office under the United States or any of them, or a minister or preacher of the gospel of any denomination, or any person employed in the regular land service, or marine, of this, or the United States, ought to have a seat in the legislature or the council of this state.

"33. That no person ought to hold at the same time more than one office of profit, nor ought any person in public trust to receive any present from any foreign prince, or state, or from the United States, or any of them, without the approbation of this state.

"34. That as it is the duty of every man to worship God in such manner as he thinks most acceptable to him, all persons professing the christian religion are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty, wherefore no person ought by any law to be molested in his person or estate on account of his religious personation or profession, or for his religious practice, unless under colour of religion any man shall disturb the