

3. The governor, judge of the general court, or justice of the peace, may issue his warrant to arrest such offender, and him to commit or bail, as circumstances may require.—ibid. § 3.

4. But if such offender be charged by a private citizen, and not by the governor or executive of the offended state, the information shall be on oath, and the evidence be such as affords just grounds to believe that the charge is true.—ibid.

5. If in case the offender be bailed, the governor, or any judge or justice, shall take the offender's recognizance, with good sureties, in such sum as may be thought adequate to secure the party's appearance, the condition of which shall be as follows: "The condition of the above obligation and recognizance is such, that if the said———shall make his personal appearance before the governor, at the city of Annapolis, on the —— day of —— and not depart from thence without his leave or permission, then the above obligation and recognizance shall be void."—ibid. § 4.

6. When such an offender shall be arrested, and committed or bailed as aforesaid, such judge or justice shall forward a transcript of proceeding, with recognizance if any taken, to the governor, who shall dispatch information to the offended state, and if no demand be made pursuant to the articles of confederation in a reasonable time, the party arrested may be discharged.—ibid. § 5.

7. If such offender shall forfeit his recognizance, the governor shall deliver the same to the clerk of the general court of that shore where the offender or his sureties reside, and the clerk shall thereupon issue process against the offender and his sureties for recovery of the forfeiture.—Ibid. § 6.

8. The president of the council, in the absence of the governor, may exercise all the power and authority hereby given to the governor.—ibid. § 7.
