of or so much in value, for every Ton of Gunpowder Butter, &c. to the Lord Proprietary and his Heirs, which Duty hath by usage been turned into money . vij Fourteen pence per Ton , and so answered to the Lord Baltimore's, and constantly applied to their own Use &c.

For the Order of Council, vide, Votes and Proceedings of the Lower House at a Session of Assembly the 1st day of May 1739.

on Ann Arundel manor. The consideration this manor falls under is of great Importance, as it is the most valuable and has the Lead; being the first created Lands into a manor to hold court Baron, and to have a view of Frank Eledge in the Provi. It was Plann'd by the first Proprietary to inform his Successors, that by reserving judicially particular Parcels of Lands in and about the Province, such Properties in time would be a valuable Augmentation of Riches to them; as the increase of People settling about such Premises would in time make the Demand of them Lands very valuable, and one of the chiefest Recompence for his and their great Expence and Labour for the Enlargement of the Empire and Dominion of Great Britain. From these Branches of Property the Proprietary's Revenues will increase from time to time; All other Revenues issuing from Lands within the Province being granted out to the Purchasers in absolute Fee, are subject only to a small annual Quit Rent to the Proprietaries and their Heirs for ever.

The Property of the manors being as I conceive herein specify'd, His Lordship will and all concerned under him must, Beware of the first Step, in fixing Rents that are to issue from them binding on him and his Heirs (according to your Proposition of Leases for 99. Years for ever) You therefore must state the case of the Tenants of Ann Arundel Manors, with the conditions and Proposition the Tenants by offer, make to the Lord Proprietary for renewing their several Leases. Upon due Consideration thereon, touching the Lands, and each particular's just Rights, Interest, and
