

was naught and Chokik: was naught too all one as the English, and she would be killed if she stayed there, for that they would kill the English and then too for she had been along with him and his wife, and he gave her a bill of Cash: and she went with him to the Town: where she asked him why the English were naught? and why for they would kill them? He said he they are all naught & I have killed some already a great while ago, and some not long since at Point Look: out, he himself had killed two men and a woman, and a On: Eyed Indian had killed two more more, he further told her that the English had made him lose his father, and he would always kill them as long as he lived, that the English were all ad Womans and he could kill them as easily as women. That after he had told her this he threatened to kill her for fear she should divulge it but she made her escape from him.
