In Council - March 23. 1792

The Petition of David Armstrong of Baltimore County was taken into consideration, setting forth that from various accidents in Trade, he was reduced to the necessity of applying to the Chancellor for the benefit of the Insolvent Act, after which, to gain an honest living he kept a boarding house where Gentlemen from town and County met to transact business, and when he was required, sent out for liquors for them, which was drank in his house without any intention of defrauding the public of its dues - that some persons after having drank
