

By a recommendation from Baltimore City Court accompanied by a transcript from the record it appears that at June Term 1830 of Baltimore City Court Richard Hopkins was convicted on Indictments of assaulting and beating John Cummings, and fined Five dollars.

It appears from the statement of the Court, that the said Richard Hopkins has been for some time confined in Baltimore County Jail, and is entirely unable to pay the fine; they therefore recommend the remission of the fine which we do therefore hereby remit it.

By the petition of William Diamond, it appears that at October Term 1835 of Baltimore County Court, he was recognized in the penalty of Fifty dollars, to answer a presentment for an assault and battery on the body of Benjamin Beswick.

The petitioner states, that he attended from Term to Term of said Court until May Term 1839, when he was informed by persons in whose opinions he had confidence that it was unnecessary for him to attend longer, as Beswick the witness had never attended and had run away. That in this way his recognizance was forfeited, and from no disposition to evade the laws. And the remission of the said forfeiture being recommended by the Court we do therefore hereby remit it.
