

To save you and the Secretary at was trouble I have made out under separate heads the account for Powder transporting Cleaning and storage of arms Salaries of <sup>and costs of Purchasing Muskets</sup> Armourers. They will be laid before the Lords and Council for their inspection at their next meeting and I do hope that they will give the subject such an investigation as shall give satisfaction that what I have done with so much labour and anxiety that has nearly gone to destroy my health is right or wrong and that they may be prepared to give their opinions accordingly should it be necessary.

I have the honor to
With the Highest Respect and esteem
Your Old Servant

John L. Kerr Esquire
