

General Chamber
New York, Sept. 11 1827.

Sir

Having been by inadvertence notified by Mr. Sheppard and the Executive, that he had been notified by the expense of preparing the conveyance of the property, I have endeavored to ascertain your letter to Mr. Sheppard and will by this time be understanding with them upon the subject.

Very respectfully
Yours Ob. Serv.

Sir

Being instructed by the Executive to inquire into the outward communication between you and the Executive, I am sorry to find the distinct understanding between you and the Executive that you would pay all the expenses of obtaining the conveyance of the property, in consideration whereof they had sold the same.

Very respectfully
Yours Ob. Serv.

General Chamber
New York, September 11 1827.

Gentlemen

By direction of the Executive, I have read and now send you a communication in strict conformity to the Charter under which you act. It is intended as a correction or a substitute for the one sent you in the spring. I believe all the communications before the property <sup>had</sup> been referred to you, since the passage of the act of 1822 have been incorrect in the particulars you pointed out, and also in referring to the act of 1821 instead of 1822.

Very respectfully
I have the honor to remain
Yours Ob. Serv.
H. C. Ulbreth
