

15. What was its par value in the market at the time of such settlement?

The question does not explain which stock is referred to, or whether enquiry is made as to the par value or the market value. The par value of all the stocks received is stated in the last preceding answer. Their market value at the time is understood to have been about the following, viz:

Western Bank stock, $19 per share.

Farmers and Merchants' Bank $41 " "

Franklin Bank, $24 75 "

Baltimore and Susquehanna Rail Road stock quoted at $25, but I am not aware of any sales having been made about that time.

16. Have you since your settlement with the Cohens sold any of the stocks received from them in settlement?

17. What was the difference if any between the amount realized by the sale, and that at which they were purchased?

The company have sold since the settlement, the following of the stocks. viz:

80 shares Farmers and Merchants' Bank stock sold for	$2,940 00
Being a loss on the amount at which the stock was taken by the company,		$1,060 00
500 shares of Western Bank stock,	8,187 50
Loss as above,		1,812 50
169 shares of Franklin Bank stock,	3,865 00
Loss as above,		359 37

18. What amount of stock have the company on hand—What has been forfeited at different times?

The amount of its own stock now standing in the name of the company is two hundred and thirty-four shares (234,) besides which the company owns one hundred and fifty shares, hypothecated as security for a debt. The number of shares forfeited at different times is eight thousand nine hundred and ninety-seven shares, on which altogether there had been about twenty thousand dollars paid.

19. What amount of stock has been actually paid up by individual stockholders?

Five thousand shares have been so paid up, amounting to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

20. A list of the present stockholders?

21. A list of the stockholders when the company commenced operations?

A list of the present stockholders marked A. is herewith submitted. A list of the original stockholders, containing several thousand names, cannot be made out without some delay. A book containing those names is herewith laid before you, and if the committee desire it a list of them shall be made out as soon as practicable.