

since at 93, and consequently cannot say what would be the value of the stocks, which were hypothecated, if offered in the market now. I incline to the opinion that it would be difficult to sell any considerable amount, at any thing over 75 for sterling fives, or at 90 a 93 for 6 per cents currency.

SAMUEL JONES, Jr.

Baltimore, February 15, 1841.