(No. 2.)

PHILADELPHIA PLATFORM OF JUNE, 1855.

Referred to in the foregoing report, and the identical one produced and marked, and acknowledged by the majority of the Committee to be the Platform of principles adhered to by them and their associates.

PLATFORM AND PRINCIPLES OF THE AMERICAN ORGANIZATION.

I.—The acknowledgment of that Almighty Being who rules over the Universe,—who presides over the Councils of nations,—who conducts the affairs of men, and who, in every step by which we have advanced to the character of an independent nation, has distinguished us by some token of Providential agency.

II.—The cultivation and development of a sentiment of profoundly intense American feeling; of passionate attachment to our country, its history and its institutions; of admiration for the purer days of our national existence; of veneration for the heroism that precipitated our Revolution; and of emulation of the virtue, wisdom and patriotism that framed our Constitution, and first successfully applied its provisions.

III.—The maintenance of the Union of these United States as the paramount political good; or, to use the language of Washington, "the primary object of patriotic desire." And hence-

1st.—Opposition to all attempts to weaken or subvert it.

2d.—Uncompromising antagonism to every principle of policy that endangers it.

3d.—The advocacy of an equitable adjustment of all political differences which threaten its integrity or perpetuity.

- 4th.—The suppression of all tendencies to political division, founded on "Geographical discriminations, or on the belief that there is a real difference of interests and views" between the various sections of the Union.
- 5th.—The full recognition of the rights of the several States, as expressed and reserved in the Constitution; and a careful avoidance, by the General Government, of all interference with their rights, by legislative or executive action.
- IV.—Obedience to the Constitution of these United States as the supreme law of the land, sacredly obligatory upon all its parts and members; and steadfast resistance to the spirit of innovation and its principles, however specious the pretexts. Avowing that in all doubtful or disputed points it may be only legally ascertained and expounded by the judicial power of the United States.

And, as a corollary to the above:

1 A habit of reverential obedience to the laws, whether National, State or Municipal, until they are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the repealed or declared unconstitutional but the research and the state of the laws, whether National are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the research and the state of the laws, whether National, State or Municipal, until they are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the state of the laws, whether National, State or Municipal, until they are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the state of the laws, whether National, State or Municipal, until they are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the state of the laws, whether National, State or Municipal, until they are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the state of the laws, whether National are either repealed or declared unconstitutional but the state of the laws of t tutional by the proper authority.

2. A tender and sacred regard for those acts of statesmanship which are to be contradistinguished from the acts of ordinary legislation, by the fact of their being of the nature of compacts and agreements; and so to be considered a fixed and settled national policy.
