

C H A P.
XIII.

or restrain and enjoin such person or persons to be and remain within any particular district or limits of this state, or in their discretion suffer such person or persons to go at large, giving security for his or their good behaviour; and during such invasion, no person so arrested and imprisoned, or so restrained, shall have or receive any benefit or advantage from the habeas corpus act, but shall and may, if they think themselves aggrieved, apply by petition to the next general assembly, to which the names of all persons, so arrested, committed, or confined, with the cause of their respective arrests, shall be returned by the governor and council.

Governor and council to have as full power as any judge or justice, &c.

III. And be it enacted, That the governor and council shall have as full and ample power and authority as any judge, or justice, to take recognizances of, and arrest and confine, or cause to be arrested and confined, any person or persons, who may have been, or shall be guilty, of any of the crimes and misdemeanors enumerated in the act, entitled, An act to punish certain crimes and misdemeanors, and to prevent the growth of toryism, or in An act to punish certain crimes, or who may have been, or shall be guilty of the several offences enumerated in the 35th section of the act, entitled, An act for the better security of the government.

All recognizances taken by them good and effectual, &c.

IV. And be it enacted, That all recognizances taken by the governor and council in virtue of this law, shall be as good and effectual as if the same were taken by any judge or justice; and the governor and council having good ground to believe, that a breach has been made of the condition of any such recognizance, may cause process to issue against the principal and the surety or sureties, or either of them, from the courts of law, according to their known and established jurisdictions.

V. And, That all insurrections and disturbances, which might prove dangerous to the state, may be timely suppressed, or prevented,

In case of insurrections, they may call into actual service any part of the militia, &c.

VI. Be it enacted, That the governor and council, as often as such insurrections and disturbances shall happen, or they may have good cause to suspect or believe may speedily happen, shall have full power to call into actual service, without regard to classes, such part of the militia as they may judge necessary, for the preventing, quieting, or suppressing such insurrections or disturbances, and the same may station at such place or places as they may deem proper, and shall cause them to be relieved as often as they shall think necessary, so as that no company or body of militia shall be continued on duty longer than two months in any such service.

And provide things necessary for their march, &c.

VII. And be it enacted, That whenever any part of the militia shall be called into actual service, either in this or the aforesaid adjoining states, the governor and council shall have full power, and they are hereby authorized and requested to provide for, order and direct all matters and things necessary for the march and subsistence of such militia, so long as they shall be continued on duty in this state, or, if ordered out of this state, to provide for, order and direct all things necessary for the march and subsistence of such militia, to some place of rendezvous, or other place, to which they may be ordered to march.

VIII. And