ARTICLE 1. Whenever any officer or private shall be accused of a capital crime, or of having used violence, or committed any offence against the persons or property of the good people of this or any of the United States, such as is punishable by the known laws of the land, the commanding officer and officers of every regiment, troop or party, to which the person or persons so accused shall belong, are hereby required, upon application duly made by or in behalf of the party or parties injured, to use his utmost endeavours to deliver over such accused person or persons to the civil magistrate; and likewise to be aiding and assisting to the officers of justice in apprehending and securing the person or persons so accused, in order to bring them to a trial. If any commanding officer or officers shall wilfully neglect or shall refuse, upon the application aforesaid, to deliver over such accused person or persons to the civil magistrates, or to be aiding and assisting to the officers of justice, in apprehending such person or persons, the officer or officers so offending shall be cashiered.

S E C T I O N XI.

ARTICLE 1. If any officer, or any private, while acting in this state, should think himself wronged by his captain or commanding officer, and shall, upon application to him, be refused redress, he may complain to the colonel or commanding officer of the regiment to which he belongs, or to the lieutenant of the county, to obtain justice, who are hereby
