CHAPTER 93

An act for the relief of Robert Oliver, of the City of Baltimore.

WHEREAS, Robert Oliver, of the City of Baltimore, hath by his petition to the General Assembly set forth, that a certain William Knight died, seized of certain land lying in Prince George's county, called the Rope Walk Pasture, and three lots in the town of Bladensburg, distinguished by lots numbered forty-six, fifty-two, and fifty-three, and that the said Knight by his last will and testament, with the exception of certain legacies, devised all his estate both real and personal, in trust to Robert Oliver, for the use of the children of the said Robert Oliver, and that although by the expressions of said last will and testament, it evidently appears to have been the intention of the said Knight to devise the said property to the children of the said Oliver, yet inasmuch as the said Knight was not seized of said property at the time of the date of his last will, the same is supposed by strict construction not to pass by the said devise, but contrary to the intention of the testator has escheated to the state, the said Knight having died without heirs—wherefore the said Robert Oliver hath prayed this General Assembly to release to him the states' demand upon the escheated property;—Therefore,
