CHAPTER 198.

An act for the relief of the infant children of James Piper.

Whereas, it is represented to this general assembly, that William Evans, late of the city of Baltimore, devised an undivided interest in a valuable real estate to Jane Piper, the wife of James Piper, for her life, with remainder to her children, and there is great danger of the said interest being sacrificed by a sale under a decree of the court of chancery for the payment of a debt due by the late William Evans; And whereas, the annual income of the said property is represented to be such, that in a few years it would extinguish the debt due upon it, if the infancy of the children did not prevent them from executing a mortgage; and it appears proper to preserve, if possible, the estate for the benefit of such infant children; Therefore,

Passed Feb. 25, 1835.
Preamble.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, That in a case now depending in the court of chancery between William M' Mechen, surviving executor of David, and the executors and devisees of William Evans, the chancellor be, and he is authorised and empowered to decree, if the same shall appear to him advisable, that the trustee to be by him appointed, shall mortgage such part of the real estate or interest therein, as may appear to him necessary, to the amount of the claim against such part of the real estate or interest therein, and such mortgage, when approved of by the chancellor, and duly executed and recorded according to law, shall bind the interest of the said infant children in as full and complete a manner as if the said children had been of full age, and had executed the said mortgage according to law.

Mortgage authorised.
