BY THE SENATE, DECEMBER 20, 1780.

GENTLEMEN,

OUR consideration of the bill, entitled, An act for the confiscation and seizure of British property, has been long interrupted by a close attention to another very important object; we have now taken that bill again under our consideration, and being extremely desirous to settle, upon principles consistent with justice and the law of nations, the seizure of British property within this state, and being of opinion, that a conference on this subject will be the most expeditious way, and most likely to produce an uniformity of sentiment, on a point which has long engaged the attention of the legislature, we propose to confer with you on the bill for the seizure and confiscation of British property, and have nominated Matthew Tilghman, Charles Carroll, of Carrollton, Brice T. B. Worthington, and John Henry, Esquires, to join any members you may please to appoint for that purpose.

By order,

J. MACCUBBIN, clk.

Messieurs Wright and Maccubbin, from the house of delegates, deliver to the president the following message:
