Mr. Love, from the house of delegates, delivers to the president the following resolution:

BY THE HOUSE OF DELEGATES, NOVEMBER 20, 1789.

Whereas in virtue of a resolution of the last session of assembly, the auditor-general hath finally passed upon all claims against the confiscated property of Robert Christie; and in virtue of a resolution of the same session, the treasurer hath issued certificates to those whose claims against the said estate were then admitted, for such proportion thereof as they would respectively be entitled to had the whole amount of claims exhibited been allowed: And whereas a considerable balance of the net proceeds of the said property still remain to be distributed among the creditors thereof, RESOLVED, That the treasurer of the western shore be and is hereby directed to complete the distribution of the said net proceeds, by issuing certificates to those whose claims have been duly admitted (to the amount of the said balances) for such proportion of the same as they may be respectively entitled to, upon the ground of equal distribution.

By order,

W. HARWOOD, clk.

Which was read the first time and ordered to lie on the table.

On motion, John Hall, Esquire, brings in and delivers to the president a bill, entitled, An act to repeal all those parts of an act of assembly passed at February session, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, entitled, An act to punish certain crimes and misdemeanors, and to prevent the growth of toryism, which make it necessary to take the oath therein prescribed; which was read the first time and ordered to lie on the table.

The senate having previously qualified, according to the constitution and form of government, proceeded to the election of a member in the room of William Harrison, Esquire, deceased. The ballot box was prepared, the ballots deposited therein, and on examination thereof it appeared, that Daniel Bowley, Esquire, had a majority of votes; whereupon it is declared, that Daniel Bowley, Esquire, is duly elected a member of the senate.

The senate adjourns till to-morrow morning 9 o'clock.
