BY THE SENATE, January 17, 1818.

Gentlemen of the House of Delegates,

We have rejected your resolution in favour of James Eccleston, because we have not the constitutional power of amending it. We think the petitioner entitled to be relieved from all interest on the debt arising from December 1, 1808. It appears from the papers before us, that the payment of the debt was postponed until that time by different resolutions of the legislature passed in the lifetime of John Eccleston the security; and there is nothing before the senate to shew that these postponements were against his consent. The security having died before the day above mentioned, and his property being then in the hands of infants. If the legislature choose to grant any further indulgence to the principal debtor, we are satisfied that the interest accruing subsequently ought not to be charged against the estate of the infants. The state we admit had not a right to be generous to the principal debtor at the expence or upon the responsibility of infants who were incapable of protecting themselves; and the senate will cheerfully assent to a resolution founded on these principles.

By order,

R. HARWOOD, Clk.
