

And be it enacted, That upon the appointment of any permanent trustee, it shall be the duty of the said provisional trustee to execute a good and sufficient deed for the real and personal estate of the said insolvent debtor, except as hereinbefore provided, to the said permanent trustee, and to deliver over to the said permanent trustee, all the real and personal estate of the said insolvent debtor, except as aforesaid, for the benefit of his creditors.

And be it enacted, That any thing in any other act of assembly contained; which is inconsistent with the provisions of this act be, and the same are hereby repealed.

Which amendments were read, and the question was put, "will the senate assent to the first amendment?" Determined in the affirmative.

The question was then put, 'will the senate assent to the second amendment?' Determined in the negative.

The question was then put, 'will the senate assent to the third amendment?' Determined in the affirmative.

On motion the question was put, 'will the senate strike out the second section of the bill?' Determined in the affirmative.

On motion the question was put, 'will the senate assent to the following amendment?

Strike out the fifth section after the word 'and,' in the eighth line, and insert 'such insolvent shall be forever debarred of any benefit of the insolvent laws of this state.'

Determined in the affirmative.

On motion the question was put, 'will the senate assent to the following as an amendment?

'After the word 'upon,' in the second line, fifth section, insert—'The answer of any insolvent debtor, to any interrogatories, or upon'

Sixth line 'reinstate, interrogatories, or'

Seventh and eighth lines, 'reinstate, interrogatories, or'

Determined in the affirmative.

The bill and amendments were then ordered to be engrossed for a third reading.

The clerk of the house of delegates delivered a resolution in favor of William Lewis, of Washington county; which was read the first time and referred to Messrs. Johnson, Orrell, Miller and Dickinson.

Also, a resolution relative to the sale of gunpowder; which was read the first time and laid on the table.

Mr. Johnson, from the committee to whom was referred the bill to divorce John T. Shanks and Lydia Shanks, of Dorchester county, reported that the committee had had the same under consideration, and were of opinion that it ought to pass with the following amendment; viz: