

Frances Ida Sicard, he and she is hereby divorced from bed, board, and mutual co-habitation with her husband Jean A. Sicard.

At the end of the bill add as follows:

Section 3. And be it enacted, That the said Jean A. Sicard shall not by virtue of his marriage with the said Frances Ida Sicard be authorised to have or claim any right or interest in the estate, real, personal or mixed of the said Frances Ida Sicard, to be, by her acquired, after the passage of this act, nor shall the said Frances Ida Sicard be authorised to have or claim any right or interest in the estate, real, personal, or mixed of the said Jean A. Sicard, to be by him acquired after the passage of this act.

Section 4. And be it enacted, That the said Frances Ida Sicard, shall have and exercise all the rights, privileges, and immunities, and be subject to all the legal responsibilities of a feme sole, in the same manner she would have been if she had never been married, provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed or understood to authorise the said Frances Ida Sicard to contract marriage during the life time of her husband.

Mr Groome from the committee to which was referred the bill entitled, an act to divorce James W. Collins, of the City of Baltimore, from his wife Sarah Collins, reported favorably thereon.

It was read the second and by special order the third time and passed.

The clerk of the House of Delegates delivered the following messages:

By the House of Delegates,

February 20th, 1834.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

We have received your message of the 5th proposing to go into the election of Bank Directors on that day,
