Mr. Richard Hall and Mr. William Richardson Members of this house are denied entrance into the upper house by the Doorkeeper, except they would putt off their hats - Whereupon arose some dispute between the two houses - The upper house pressing to proceed upon the business of the Grand Committee, the Lower house Answered they cannot, without their Members, which were kept out. At last the upper house give order for the Members to be admitted, for this time, because the more weighty affaires now before them should not be delayed, but to be noe rule for the future.

The sayd Members were lett in, and the Grand Committee proceed. Then was read the Address to his Lopp: and the whole matter as then penned agreed on, and Consented to.

Then Mr. Carville Read the Schedule (to be annexed to the Address) To the Grand Committee of both houses - Which being done -
The Committee Adjourned to the house -

Mr. Speaker Resumes the Chair.

Whereas there are two acts of Assembly, made both in the Years 1649 & 50:
one of them Entitled an act of Raising of Money without the Consent
