

of this day on this Bill by Mr Deane, Esq being read this house called there give any greater salary than two and a half p^{ts} Cent to the Treasurer and any in manner of Rique and undergoes little or no trouble in negotiating that money. Besides to let the same be used the negotiation of the private officers who receive it to be by them Remitted into the hands of Sir J. Hyde at the Counsellors Rique and are decisions in case any more than two and a half p^{ts} Cent be required the clause relating to the payment to the Treasurer should be wholly left out.

The House is further of opinion that the attendance of Mr. Gode's sufficient to procure a Copy of the Law and as to that part of it relating to and mistake in the paragraph of part of his Lordships and the Lord Justices Latter this house cannot agree to put these words in execution being a thing never heretofore used or devised by the Right Hon^{ble} the Lord Proprietors and the rent being inherent to the Land and otherwise well secured.
