Philemon Lloyd, Esq; from the Upper House, delivered to Mr. Speaker, the following Message, (to wit.)

By the Upper House of Assembly, May 28, 1730.

Gentlemen,

Upon Consideration of your Message of this Day, by Col. Greenfield, and Mr. Dulany, we are of Opinion, that the Introduction of young Servants and Slaves, from Thirteen to Sixteen Years of Age, into the Number of Tobacco Makers, will greatly increase the Quantity thereof, which is design'd to be restricted by the Committee: However, to shew our good Inclinations towards the making a beneficial Tobacco-Law, which, at this Time, the calamitous Circumstances of the Country, makes absolutely necessary, we shall not disagree with you in the Alterations made by your House, provided the Members of the former Committee, or any other of your House, have it in Charge, to propose a sufficient Satisfaction to the Lord Proprietary for such Deficiency in the Quantity of Tobacco, as shall be found to arise from the Execution of the proposed Tobacco-Bill. Upon which Terms, we shall appoint the same Persons as were of the former Committee, to join the Members of your House, for the preparing and bringing in a Bill accordingly.

Sign'd per Order, John Ross, Cl. Up. Ho.

The previous Question being Resolv'd.

The Question being put, Whether any Revenue shall be settled on the Lord Proprietor, in Lieu of Alienation-Fines and Quit-Rents, or not? Resolv'd, in the Affirmative.

The House adjourns until To-Morrow Morning at 8 of the Clock.

By Order of the Lower House of Assembly, I do authorize and appoint William Parks to print the Votes and Proceedings of the said House,

JOHN MACKALL, Speaker.
