The house adjourns till to-morrow morning 8 o'clock.

M O N D A Y, July 3, 1780.

THE house met. Present the same members as on yesterday. The proceedings of yesterday were read.

The house resumed the consideration of the bill to suspend the act of assembly for making the bills of credit emitted by congress, &c. a legal tender, &c. and the question was put, That the following clause be added thereto? "And be it enacted, That any person, who has received the bills of credit aforesaid in payment of any debt contracted before the first of September seventeen hundred and seventy-six, may, and he is hereby authorized to pay and discharge any debts contracted or due from him before that day, to the amount of the money by him received as aforesaid, by composition among his creditors; and, on petition to the chancellor or the judges of the general court, he may call on his creditors, and the chancellor or judges may order or decree them to receive and divide the money among them, according to their respective debts." The yeas and nays being called for by Mr. Deye appeared as follow:
