

port of that seminary has been properly applied. Your committee further report, that the number of scholars at said school, on the second of November, seventeen hundred and ninety-nine, was forty-six, as appears by the certificate of Henry L. Davis, one of the professors in said school. The committee feel a pleasure in being able to assure the house, that from the very eligible situation of Charlotte-Hall, the moderate terms upon which board may be obtained, the known talents of the professors, and the attention and activity of the trustees, that school continues to merit the patronage of the legislature, and bids fair to be one of the most flourishing seminaries of learning in this state.

Mr. Duckett, from the committee, brings in and delivers to the speaker the following report:

THE committee to whom was referred the report of the visitors and directors of Frederick academy report, that it appears to your committee, that the said visitors and directors have fully complied with the provisions of the act, entitled, An act for the promotion of literature within this state; that they have drawn from the treasury the sum of eight hundred dollars, granted as a donation to said academy by the act aforesaid, and have expended in completing the academy, and providing necessary desks for its different departments, the whole of said sum, except eighty-eight dollars and sixty-six cents, which is still in hand; that the said visitors and directors, in conformity to the directions of the act aforesaid, have returned a catalogue of the students in the said academy, specifying their respective names and places of residence, by which it appears, that there are fifty-seven students in the classical department, twenty-eight in the more advanced English and mathematical school, and thirty-five in the introductory English school, amounting in the whole to the number of one hundred and twenty students in said academy.

Your committee would here remark, that from this flattering statement alone it might reasonably be concluded, that effects extensively beneficial to the community must result from an academy, as yet in its infancy, and every expectation gratified that could have been contemplated by the legislature in making the donation aforesaid; but from the well established characters of the principal and tutors in said academy, and the attention of the visitors and directors in the management of the same, your committee are lead to conclude, that Frederick academy, aided by the fostering hand of the legislature, will be rivalled in usefulness by no seminary in this state.
