By the HOUSE of DELEGATES, December 4, 1806.

Gentlemen of the Senate,

WE return the bill, entitled, An act authorising the justices of the orphans court to take sheriffs bonds, after having dissented to the amendment proposed by you. We are still of opinion, that the manner of taking those bonds should be as uniform as possible, which object will be defeated by adopting the amendment; and while we are not disposed to lessen the powers already vested in the judges of the county courts, we apprehend the instances in which they would be applied to on this subject would be very rare, and that the whole duty, from convenience and expediency, would devolve on the justices of the orphans court, who would be the better judges of the competency of the security offered for the due performance of the duties of the sheriffs respectively.
