The bill relative to the judges of the court of appeals and of the county courts, was read the second time and passed.

Mr. Worthington delivers the following report:

THE committee to whom was referred that part of the communication of the executive respecting the erection of arsenals in this state for the public arms to be deposited in, beg leave to report, that they have taken the same into consideration, and it appears there are now two public arsenals in this state, the one at Fredericktown on the western shore, and the other at Easton on the eastern shore, but both of said arsenals are represented to be in so ruinous a state, that the executive have not deemed it prudent and safe to deposite the four thousand stand of arms purchased under a resolution of this house at the last November session, and directed to be equally deposite on the western and eastern shore, but all said arms have been temporarily lodged in a fire-proof warehouse in the city of Baltimore.
