

of manufactures, (which acts are represented by them to be in their operation upon them unequal, unjust, and oppressive,) but we ought, by acquiescing in the prudent and gradual modification of the said acts, to evince our willingness, to waive our own opinions as to questions of mere expediency, in order to promote the general harmony of the whole people, and "preserve the union of the States."

Therefore, be it further resolved, That we do hereby recommend and advise and will witness with great satisfaction, an attempt by the General Government in a spirit of compromise and conciliation to adjust the duties on imports, so as to give general satisfaction to the people and the States of the Union; and so that the whole scheme of duties be gradually and prospectively reduced to the revenue standard, as soon as a just regard to the faith of the Government and to the preservation of the large capital invested in establishments of Domestic Industry will permit.

Mr. Ely moved to amend the amendment proposed by Mr. Jenkins, by inserting in the third line after the word "that" these words "we believe that the Tariff laws are constitutional, and"
